WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Release of William O. Jenkins, American consular agent at Puebla, Mexico, who was kidnapped by bandits on Oct. 19 was effected by payment of the $150,000 in gold demanded by the captors, the state department was advised today by the American embassy at Mexico City.

The despatch did not make clear whether the Mexican government or friends of Jenkins paid the ransom.

An inquiry as to this point has been sent to Mexico City by the state department.

PLAN TO POLICE

THE BOULEVARDS

Mayor Perry D. Thompson, in discussing the accident on the Pawtucket boulevard Saturday evening in which five people were injured, said today that after a conference with Supt. Raymond Welch of the police department he had decided to have members of the department's newly organized motorcycle squad on duty on both the Princeton and Pawtucket boulevards both on Saturdays and Sundays in order to reduce chances of accidents from overspeeding to a minimum. Although Saturday's accident was not due to overspeeding, it has been reported that a number of machines every week-end hit the pace much faster than the local speed regulations allow. The squad started its duties on both boulevards Saturday.

GIRLS DEFEAT BOYS
IN PRIZE DRILL

More than 400 pupils of the Morey school this morning gave splendid proof of the worth of physical education courses now being given in the elementary schools by Major Walter R. Jayes, when they took part in an outdoor program of exercises on the school grounds. It was the first exhibition of its kind since the institution of the course on the part of Major Jayes, the principal of the school. William W. Bennett, the room teachers and the boys and girls themselves.

The exhibition was witnessed by Supt. of Schools Hugh J. Molloy and a number of principals and teachers from other grammar schools, including Mr. King of the Edison, Mr. Ginty of the Butler, Mr. Barr of the Washington, and Mr. Whitcomb of the Greenhalge. The program was carried out in the manner of an elimination contest which finally brought No. 2 company of girls as opponents to No. 5 company of boys to drill for the championship of the school. It was the unanimous decision of the six judges that

GOING BACK ON

THE WATER WAGON

Lowell will go back on the water wagon again at 11 p. m. tomorrow night unless in the meantime President Wilson vetoes the prohibition enforcement bill. He has until midnight tomorrow in which to sign or veto it; if he does not sign it by that time it automatically becomes a law. The bill makes it unlawful to sell or manufacture any beverage containing over one-half of 1 per cent. alcohol, and provides a penalty of a year in jail or a fine of $1,000 for violations of its provisions.

Lowell saloon keepers said today that their doors will close tomorrow at 11 p. m. unless the president vetoes the bill; and this they do not anticipate he will do. They believe, however, that it is only a matter of a few weeks before the ban on wet goods will be lifted.

A few—and they are very few—liquor dealers stated their intention of keeping open for the sale of "near beer" referring to the one-half per cent. beverage. The great majority, however, said that there would not be enough profit in this to make it worth their while. One dealer declared that as a beverage the "near" beer was inferior to a glass of tonic.

Some of the dealers, anticipating, as aforesaid, that the ban will be lifted in the near future, plan to keep their operating forces intact and will spend the time between now and that future date in rearranging their stock-making alterations in their establishments and "cleaning up" generally. Others say they will lock the door tomorrow night and close up tight for the present.

A repetition of the scenes of the night of June 30, when the prohibition ban went into effect, is expected tomorrow by many of the saloon keepers. There is, of course, this difference, that whereas on that eventful "night before" a swarm of canny residents of the Granite State, as well as many from Lowell and the surrounding towns, swooped down on the local "wholesalers" to gather in a "private stock" for future consumption, on tomorrow evening one will merely be able to take away what one can store inside of him, the wholesale places having been closed since the advent of the drought.

Senate Rejects Amendment to Equalize Voting Strength of U. S. and Great BritainREADY TO MEET
COAL STRIKE

Measures Considered by Administration Officials Today

Senate Discusses Situation—
Coal Miners Willing to Negotiate New Wage Scale

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Measures to meet the situation which would result from the threatened strike of bituminous coal miners next Saturday were considered today by administration officials.

No reply from officers of the United Mine Workers of America to the demand of President Wilson, that the strike be called off, is expected until after the miners' executive committee meets at Indianapolis Wednesday, but meantime officials took cognizance of the statements of union leaders that it would be physically impossible to withdraw the strike order by Nov. 1.

The administration's program for dealing with the situation naturally will not be disclosed until the strike has developed.

While it is the purpose to keep a "strong hand" on the radicals, officials made it plain that caution would be exercised not to antagonize the more conservative element. In this connection they said that many of the miners' demands might be just.

"It is the means they use to obtain their demands to which we object," said one high official.

The coal strike was discussed briefly today in the senate. Senator Thomas, democrat, Colorado, asked unanimous consent for immediate adoption of his resolution proposing a declaration of full support of congress to the administration in its efforts to meet the situation and to preserve law and order, but on objection of Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, the measure went over. Senator Borah said he was not willing to commit himself in advance to an announced program of the administration in dealing with the threatened strike.

Senator Thomas announced that he would call up the resolution again tomorrow.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

Hugh J. Molloy, superintendent of schools, has returned to Lowell after six weeks' duty with the state guard in Boston and is enjoying a brief furlough from duty together with a number of other Lowell members of the guard who came home Saturday. Henry H. Harris, who was chosen temporary superintendent of schools in Mr. Molloy's absence, has not yet relinquished his duties. It is expected that the school committee will take action relative to the matter at its meeting tomorrow evening.

AUTOIST ARRAIGNED

Driver of Car in Collision on Boulevard Charged With Drunkenness

Rodman R. Blake of East Pepperell, driver of the touring car which crashed into a machine owned and driven by Albert S. Howard of the law firm of Qua, Howard and Rogers on the Lowell boulevard Saturday night, the story of which will be found in another column, was arraigned in police court today on the charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and drunkenness. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $500 for hearing November 24, following the statement of counsel that the persons injured in the collision would be unable to testify in court until at least a month had elapsed. Blake has furnished bail.

Larceny of Overcoat

After jointly pleading not guilty to stealing an overcoat, the property of Philip Breen, financial secretary of the Lowell K. of C., Saturday morning, John King, 30, of Philadelphia, who said he was a sailor on the U.S.S. Pennsylvania on furlough, and Charles Dupre, 18, of Fall River, recently discharged from the navy, emphatically told Judge Enright in police court today that "it was the other fellow that stole it." After hearing the testimony Judge Enright found both guilty and ordered King held in $300 for disposition tomorrow. Dupre's case was continued until Saturday for sentence.

According to the statements of Mr. Breen and other witnesses, Dupre and King appeared at the local headquarters of the organization Friday evening and explained that they were sailors on furlough, broke, hungry and out of luck generally.

Food and lodging were provided and the following morning the pair decamped with Mr. Breen's overcoat. Daniel Quinn, K. of C. secretary, started on a hunt for the missing pair, and after locating them near the railroad station on Middlesex street, informed Sergt. Maguire, who made the arrest and recovered the missing coat.

Both men pleaded not guilty this morning as aforesaid and then—
"He's the one that took it. Your Honor," declared Dupre, pointing an accusing finger at his fellow prisoner."Yes, Judge, he's the one."
"Don't believe him, Your Honor," came back King indignantly. "It's him that took that coat. I didn't have nothing to do with it. He's trying to frame me up, that's what he's doing."

King added that his erstwhile pal had taken the coat to pawn. Dupre declared that King had not only stolen the garment from a hook near his bunk, but had made him carry it down stairs. King was going to "hook" it, Dupre affirmed.

Anyway, Mr. Breen has his coat now, which is one thing that is undeniable.

For stealing a horse collar, the property of Miss Martina A. Gage of the Gage Ice company, Albert Resniker was ordered to pay a fine of $10.

AT CENTENARY OF ST.

AUGUSTINE'S CHAPEL

At the celebration of the centenary of St. Augustine's chapel in South Boston Sunday, a special service was held in the chapel of the old cemetery, adjoining St. Augustine's church for the relatives and descendants of the priests buried there.

Among those present at the ceremony were Mrs. Charles Richards, Mrs. Daniel Hannafin, Miss Anna Mahoney and Miss Elleen Mahoney of this city, granddaughters of Rev. John Mahoney, who was appointed by Bishop Fenwick in 1823 as the first Catholic pastor in Lowell, and in 1836 assigned to St. Augustine's in South Boston, and whose remains are interred in a vault within this chapel, along with 21 other of the first Catholic priests connected with St. Augustine's church.

At the ceremony in the afternoon, Monsignor Splaine gave the sermon, and was followed by Cardinal O'Connell, who addressed the assembly.

GASCIENCA GRILLED

Fiance of Murdered Woman
Again Called in Before
District Attorney

Andrew Gasienca, fiance of Mrs. Mary Fortuna, whose body was found in the woods of Ledge Hill a week ago yesterday, was taken to the office of Dist. Atty. Tufts in Cambridge this morning by Chief William H. Cullinan and Officer Canney of the Draught police, for the purpose of further questioning in an effort to gain some knowledge of the manner in which the woman met death.

Gasienca previously had been questioned twice at the Lowell police station, but not held on either occasion and the police would not divulge the reason why he has been brought in for a third time, other than to say that they are trying to eliminate all possible clues and persons.

The police were told yesterday that Gasienca was seen in the woods last Saturday near the spot where the body was found and when questioned as to his reason for being there, he is said to have replied that his interest in the case and his sorrow brought him there in an effort to find some trace of the missing clothing.

COOLIDGE RALLIES HERE

THIS EVENING

A flying squadron of speakers advocating the candidacy of Governor Calvin Coolidge for re-election and support for other candidates on the republican state ticket arrived in Lowell at one o'clock this afternoon to make arrangements with David Dickson, chairman of the local republican committee, for a series of rallies here this evening.

The squadron came here from Boston by automobile and on the way here conducted a rally at the plant of the Merrimack Chemical company in Woburn at noon. They met Mr. Dickson at city hall and it was decided to hold three rallies this evening. The first will be at city hall at 8 o'clock, the second at Tower's corner at 9 and the third at Bridge and Fudge streets at 10.

Those who came with the squadron included Senator John E. Beck of Chelsea, Representative James Morrison of Medford and Harold Caverly of Boston, formerly of this city.

The squadron is conducting a campaign throughout the Merrimack valley today, tomorrow and Wednesday. The campaigners will stay in Lowell tonight and will go to Lawrence tomorrow morning where a series of rallies are to be held. Tomorrow evening they will speak in Methuen and Wednesday will be devoted to Haverhill.

It is probable that another party of republican campaigners will come here Thursday to speak at the mill gates at noon. Those who were here today reported receptive audiences in the various parts of the state that they have visited.

The fish and game commission endorsed Mr. Graham at a meeting held a week or two ago and the South Chelmsford Gun club at its annual hunt and supper, held Saturday, endorsed him to a man and prepared a petition to be sent to the governor.

Clubs Used—10 Arrested

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Scores of persons were injured in a pitched battle between two thousand striking longshoremen and several hundred men who were on their way to work at the Bush Terminal Docks in Brooklyn this morning. Between 50 and 100 revolver shots were fired and sticks, stones, bricks and clubs used by the combatants. Police reserves were summoned and 10 arrests were made.

The disturbance occurred at 43rd street and Second avenue, Brooklyn, and was waged along both streets for two blocks before it was quelled by the police, who used their clubs freely. One policeman was struck in the head by a brick and seriously injured. Of the 10 men arrested, two were taken to a hospital, while others wounded in the fighting were taken away by friends.

ARMY STORE WILL

OPEN TOMORROW

Lowell's army store will open for business tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the former Red Cross headquarters in the Bigelow-Hartford building in Market street.

It will have on its shelves a complete assortment of foodstuffs, comprising many well established lines of canned goods and in addition will deal in garden implements other necessities. The schedule of prices will conform closely to the prices paid for army goods obtained through postal food channels and the variety of foodstuffs on sale will be even larger than offered before. It is planned to obtain stock daily, or as patronage demands, by automobile truck from commissary depots in Boston and although one line of goods may disappear more quickly than another, a telephone order will bring a fresh supply on the following day.

Lowell's proximity to the base of supplies is expected to become a great asset to the local storekeeper as he will be able to quickly arrange his stock to suit popular demand. The hours of business will be decided after a few days of experimenting and will be on a schedule to best serve the working public.

Army stores in other cities have lived a busy life since inception and it is expected that Lowell's store will supply a long-felt need in giving people an opportunity to purchase necessities of life at government prices.

FINE PRESENTATION OF "MY NEW CURATE"

With its own beauty accentuated by the skill of an unusually competent cast and the finesse that comes only from able direction, "My New Curate," the celebrated portrayal of life in Ireland in the latter part of the 19th century, from the pen of Rev. Canon Sheehan, was given a most sympathetic and intelligent presentation at the Lowell Opera House yesterday afternoon and evening by members of the Sacred Heart School Alumnae in aid of the Sacred Heart Parish school fund. Two capacity audiences, each with a ready sense of appreciation, enjoyed the production.

The drama, for such it is, was produced under the personal direction of William J. Francis of Boston, a professional in his line, and the fruit of his ripe experience was a triumph of lawlessness. Lines were spoken without hesitation, character portrayal was pleasingly natural and the players themselves seemed to rejoice with the audience in the beauty of the whole. Rarely has an amateur company veered so closely toward the sometimes indistinct line of professionalism.

The cast of characters in the order of their appearance was as follows:

Father Dan Hanrahan, parish priest, James Frank Roche
James Edward O'Sullivan
Mary Miss Nora Linnahan
(The Blessed Orphans.)
Mrs. Mary O'Arcy, Fr. Dan's Sacristan and housekeeper, Miss Hilda Noonan
Jim Deady, alter and roofer, President of Holy Terrors, James Kirwin Beats Champion, Miss Catherine Tansey
Fagan, an informer, Fred Sharkey
Father Edward Letheby, D.D., the New Curate Leo G. Burke
Capt. Reginald Grimsby, an infidel, John Ahearn
Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, an old couple, Patrick Mullane and Miss Mary Ryan
Capt. Champion, Thomas Kelly
Alice Moylan, a blind girl, Miss Alice Meehan
Mary, her sister, Miss Ella Cassidy
Nancy, the cook, Miss Margaret Jennings
Hogan, a convict, Patrick Mullane
Forelady of the factory, Frank Maguire
Mike Murphy, a character in himself, Frank Maguire
Chairman of the Merchants, Thomas Kelly
Merchant, Patrick Mullane
Merchant, James E. Doherty
Diggins & Bros., the baltiffs, Fred Sharkey and Frank Maguire
The Holy Terrors: Francis E. Clark, John J. Lynch, Martin C. Kennedy, James E. O'Donnell, George J. O'Brien, Howard Harley, Frank Ward, Peasant girls: Helen Mahan, Agnes McCarthy, Ella Donohue, Catherine Sheehan, Rose Kirwins, Nora Sheehan, Mary Ryan, Margaret Kelly, Grace Burke, Helen Brady, Mary McPhillips, Hazel Kennedy, Alice Decelles.
Soldiers and fishermen: William J. Francis, Thomas L. O'Connell, James E. Doherty, John Barrett and Dennis Leahy.

A Woman's Hearty Recommendation
Worry and overwork cause kidney trouble, and women suffer equally with men. Write to Frank Ward, Bellevue, Ill., writes: "I could not stoop down and when I was down I had to crawl up by a chair. I was so lame I suffered agony. Now I feel like a new person, strong and better in every way. My general health is quite improved. I heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Pills to all suffering the way I did." They relieve dizziness, puffiness under the eyes, sore muscles and joints and rheumatic pains caused by disordered kidneys.

because of its extensive popularity and the long time that it has been before the public. It is in fact bound up with the volumes that go to make up Ireland's literature of later times and readily lends itself to dramatization. The story, of course, is laid in Ireland. Action revolves around the coming of a new curate to the parish of Kiltoran, a curate with ideas of his own for the uplifting of the people about him. Supporting his ideas are quiet yet unyielding determination and an ability to grasp material advantages which up to his coming the parishioners had allowed to remain in somnolence.

He sees an opportunity to conduct

LEO G. BURKE,
The New Curate

a fishing business off the coasts of Kiltoran and to carry out his purpose succeeds in having the merchants of the town subscribe for a new fishing schooner. This would give profitable employment to the men, he reasoned, and for the women he set about to resuscitate a deserted factory.

How he progresses in these plans, the mischief wrought by a "black sheep" in his flock, the near despair of the young curate and his renewed hope inspired by the example of the faith of unfortunate and afflicted members of the parish are the central illuminants of the production.

Collaterally interwoven with this main theme are sub-plots varying from the ultra-comic to the seriously dramatic. A pretty love affair which seems at first about to be dashed on the rocks of disaster because of the difference in the religious belief of the participants but which is finally settled in a happy manner, the conversion of several unbelievers, the activities of a crowd of patriots, known as the "Holy Terrors" and led by one "Jim Deady," thief and roofer by vocation, and dare-devil in every sense of the word, by avocation, and the restoration of sight to a blind girl are some of the threads which run in channels subordinate to the central theme and which assist in making the play one of sustained interest.

The title role of the new curate was played by Leo G. Burke. Mr. Burke assumed the mannerisms, the pious demeanor and the unfailing earnestness of the young priest with a realism that seemed wholly unfeigned. His lent to the character a maturity that would seem impossible for any but an experienced actor and brought to his difficult task an ease of bearing and confidence of manner that found deep and constant appreciation in those that were privileged to enjoy his work.

Patrick J. Kirwin as "Jim Deady," the unfettered and audacious leader of the "Holy Terrors," and the champion of the new curate when the latter is deepest in the mire of his troubles, shared the honors of the male cast with Mr. Burke. His role called for continual presence on the stage, hard work and an ever ready wit. All these requirements Mr. Kirwin met ably and was heartily commended frequently for his skill.

Frank Roche as "Fr. Dan Hanrahan," the parish priest, also notable among the male characters. He presented the role of the aged priest with much sympathy and intelligent understanding.

Among the female characters, Miss Hilda Noonan as "Mrs. D'Arcy," the housekeeper of "Fr. Dan," was easily pre-eminent. Her role also called for almost continuous work throughout the four acts. In her love affair with "Jim Deady" she was especially good and her comedy did much to lighten the many serious aspects of the production.

Miss Catherine Tansey, as "Beats Champion," who is in love with an unbeliever and the daughter of a man who has been lax in his religious duties, was especially good. She lent real grace to her part and presented an unusually charming appearance.

The other characters, both male and female, were excellent in their respective roles and showed the results of months of training by their unflinching portrayals.

Rev. William F. Mahan, O.M.I., stage director, was responsible for much of the success of the affair and the wealth of detail which yesterday's production entailed was ably taken care of by him.

Joseph Harkins and Miss Mary Brogan, who directed the make-up of the cast, proved their judgment most excellent.

Between the acts, musical features were presented by members of the parish, and included, a violin solo by Miss Blanche Walsh, assisted by Miss Alice Walsh; selected solos by Miss Frances Tighe, and harp and guitar selections by the Ecklund sisters. Mr. John J. Kelly, organist of the Sacred Heart church, gave distinct pleasure by his organ selections, and during the play there were selections by a quartet composed of John McMahon, John Spillane, George Kirwin and Frank Kane. Thomas Kelley sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee" with deep feeling.

POINDEXTER CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington issued yesterday a statement that he is a candidate for the republican nomination for president in 1920 and will make an active campaign. In his declaration of principles, he says in part:

"The effort of certain radical leaders of labor organizations to secure control of the police force of the various cities of the country, if successful, would give to a small special class absolute control of officers of the law and of governmental agencies established to preserve the peace. Its success would mean the abdication of the government in favor of a class, and the immediate establishment of dictatorship. It should not be open for debate or negotiation.

"Revolutionary communism, by whatever name it may be called, must be met and put down. The attempt of certain radical labor leaders to coerce congress to enact legislation proposed by them, if successful, would be government by a class, as in Russia, and not 'by the people,' as in the United States."

The Japanese never sleep with their heads to the north, but their dead are buried in that position.

THE STATE ELECTION

Candidates Outline Lively
Programs for Closing
Week of Campaign

This, the last week of the state campaign, promises to be perhaps the most lively witnessed in this state for a great many years. Big campaign events are planned by both parties this week. Richard H. Long, the democratic candidate for governor, went to Washington yesterday to appear at the investigation into his contracts during the war as he claims he has been misrepresented. On the republican side the array of speakers for this week includes four governors of other states and many other eminent campaigners.

The eloquent Col. John F. J. Herbert of Worcester, former newspaperman, hero of the world war and former commander of the Massachusetts branch of the American Legion, is the candidate for lieutenant governor and not only is he assured of a united democratic vote, but it is an open fact that many republicans who have admired his work both abroad in the army and at home as one of the pioneers of the American Legion, are willing to endorse him at the polls.

Charles H. McGlue is a Lynn man and aspires for the position of secretary of the commonwealth. Although he is opposed by a man who has the advantage of experience in the work, Albert P. Langtry, nevertheless, Mr. McGlue promises to put up a strong fight and is receiving assurances of support from all over the state.

Chandler M. Wood of Winchester has several advantages in his favor in his candidacy for state treasurer. Paradoxically, one of his big advantages is his opposition. He is opposed by Fred J. Burrell of Medford, a young republican who is alleged to have been nominated because he bore the same name as the present treasurer. Many republican papers have come out openly in support of the democratic candidate because of their belief that Mr. Burrell received his nomination due to a misunderstanding. Mr. Wood's election is already assured.

Arthur J. B. Cartier of Fall River is waging a most aggressive fight against Alonzo B. Cook of Boston for the position of state auditor. Mr. Cartier has had abundant experience to fit him for this exacting position and his friends are confident of his success. Mr. Cartier is due to speak in Lowell next Friday night.

For attorney general, Joseph A. Conry, one of the leading lawyers of Boston and a most capable speaker, who was heard here during the primaries campaign, will uphold the democratic standards in opposition to J. Weston Allen of Newton who has come into notoriety during the past week by his "heckling" tactics in the western part of the state. Mr. Conry should be elected by a sweeping majority as his superiority to his opponent is easily realized by anybody who sees and hears both men.

Gelling down to the local contests, both parties are represented by capable men in those districts where there are contests. The fight which former Senator William E. Russell of Cambridge, son of former Governor Russell, is putting up for the district attorneyship of Middlesex county against Nathan A. Tufts, the present incumbent, is attracting more than the usual amount of attention. Mr. Russell is a capable lawyer and has a personality which wins friends easily. He has been doing a lot of quiet work in Lowell during the past few days.

Senatorial Fight

Those who have had occasion to travel over the eighth district during the past few days report a pronounced sentiment for Mr. Sparks, although his opponent, Frank H. Putnam, is to be disregarded at no stage of the game. The democratic vote in a solid phalanx is practically assured for Mr. Sparks and there are indications that he will make great inroads into the republican and independent vote. Voters in many of the towns are said to have expressed themselves in favor of Mr. Sparks and his home town, Braintree, is sure to give him a rousing vote.

When Senator Colburn defeated Mr. Sparks three years ago, it was a presidential year, and Mr. Colburn was aspiring for a second term. In normal times it is difficult for a democrat to "come through" handily in a presidential year and it has always been the policy of the voters to give on the subject of shortbread, so popular with Scotch and English folk.

"But, good as was the old-fashioned kind," remarked our hostess, "it was so extremely rich that the heavy taste lingered long after eating."

"Well," said Betsy, "there's nothing like that about the shortbread we have at our house—Lorna Doone Biscuit."

"I was talking to mother about them only the other day," says that Lorna Doone Biscuit.

Baking note: The perfect shortbread is mealy, crumbly and not over-rich. Add to all this a wonderful flavor, developed by scientific baking, and you have LORNA DOONE Biscuit, which come all ready to serve, by the pound or in the famous In-er-seal Trade Mark package. The name LORNA DOONE is on every biscuit.

an office-holder a second term. Mr. Sparks cut down Senator Colburn's majority to a little more than 500. This year one meets many a former Colburn supporter who has come out openly in endorsement of Mr. Sparks' candidacy.

Plan B

Under Plan B, the mayor has the power to nominate all the heads of departments subject to confirmation by the council. The term of office of mayor under Plan B is two years and the salary limited to $3000. With as many as six or seven candidates for mayor, splitting up the vote, it might happen here as it has happened elsewhere, that the most incompetent man would win on a minority vote.

71 YESTERDAY

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—A rainy day in this section has become such a common thing that the storm of yesterday afternoon was not considered out of the ordinary, but nearly everyone found fault with the thermometer, which played pranks during the day, soaring as high as 71, nearly touching the record for Oct. 26.

Dwellers in steam heated flats and those with furnace fires felt that the weather bureau must have got dates mixed.

SERGT. RUTH FARNAM WILL SPEAK HERE

Sergt. Ruth Farnam, the American woman who was decorated by King Peter for her valorous work in the world war as an officer of the Serbian cavalry, will give an account of her experiences in Colonial hall next Wednesday evening. She was heard here about a year ago in Associate hall and thrilled a large audience at that time, but in order to accommodate those who were unable to hear her then a return engagement has been arranged. Sergt. Farnam was born in this country but with her late husband, Charles H. Farnam had toured European countries very thoroughly. She became interested in Serbia and served in various capacities when that country was fighting against the Turks and Bulgarians in 1912 and 1913. At the outbreak of the world war she sold her beautiful English mansion and turned the receipts over to a Serbian relief fund. In 1915 Sergt. Farnam received the royal cross of the Serbian Red Cross for her work in fighting the typhus plague which killed thousands of people in that country. In 1916 more honors came to her for valor and she was made a cavalry sergeant and decorated with the order of St. Sava. She returned to this country in 1917 and took up Serbian relief work in New York.

The lecture in Colonial hall will be free to the public and a large audience is expected.

CHESTER CLOTHES SHOP

"A good impression brings more business" is an old merchant's advice. The Chester Clothes Shop, Inc., certainly has heeded this bit of wisdom if one is to judge by the well lighted and neat appearing interior of this store at 103 Central street. Work on the alterations of the interior and the store front has just been completed, and it is a pleasure to note the improvements thus brought out. An entirely new lighting system has been installed. All of the woodwork in the store has been newly painted in white with mahogany red bordering, which gives one the immediate impression of efficiency and neatness. The window display is unusually attractive. James J. McGuigan, the manager, and Joseph P. Queenan, assistant manager, have put all of their time and energy into these new alterations. Joseph E. Hollingsworth, John S. Sullivan, David Bourgeois, Harry O. Osgood, William Riley and Elzaga Phantent have been added to the sales force for Saturday's business. A new workshop has been put in at the rear of the store to accommodate the increased business of this progressive store.

LIFE LOOKS GOOD TO LITTLE LUKART GIRLS

FIVE PERSONS KILLED BY TAINTED OLIVES

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 27.—Ripe olives, bought for a formal dinner in the Mt. Grosse Pointe hotel of Murray W. Sales a week ago Saturday caused the death of A. Ingersol Lewis, Detroit capitalist; Mr. Sales' daughter and son and two maids. Bacillus botulinus poisoning, an infection usually confined to animals, had set in.

Anti-toxin rushed by special messenger from the bacteriological observatories of the University of Illinois, was administered in vain to the fifth victim, Miss Frances Sales, 22 years old, who died yesterday morning.

But it is believed this remedy will save the life of the mother of two of the poison victims, Mrs. Murray W.

Sales, who is seriously ill as a result of having eaten the tainted olives.

Dr. Francis Duffield, president of the board of health, has issued an order prohibiting sale of cannot and bottled foods prepared by the so-called "cold" process, and warning the public against eating such foods, particularly olives, corn and asparagus.

According to physicians symptoms of this rather rare poisoning may not develop until 50 or 75 hours after infected food has been eaten. Mr. Lewis became ill a week ago yesterday, dying early Thursday. Mrs. Cassel, one of the maids, also felt ill effects Sunday, but she died Sunday night. Young Leonard Sales died Thursday, and the other maid, Miss James, early Friday morning. Miss Sales had been ill since Wednesday afternoon.

"This case is very interesting from a medical point of view," said Dr. Jennings. "There have been very few in this country like it. Until rather recently the medical profession has regarded the bacillus botulinus as belonging to a group of germs found in tainted meat. But now we know it may also be present in decomposing vegetables."

Each victim died in the same manner, respiratory paralysis setting in at the final stage.

JAZZ VULGARIZES PATRIOTIC AIRS

DETROIT, Oct. 25.—Patriotic songs have been vulgarized by the injection of Broadway jazz, declared Prof. Percy Boynton of the University of Chicago, speaking before the members of the Detroit English club. He says every war produced noble songs, but that the world war saw only jazzy songs produced.

PUBLIC DEBATE

Gov. Smith Agrees to Meet Hearst

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 27.—A telegram asking Gov. Smith if he would be ready to meet William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, in public debate Wednesday night at Carnegie hall was received at the executive mansion last night. Gov. Smith at once announced his acceptance, saying that he would meet Mr. Hearst "at any place."

A telegram came from a committee of New York citizens and informed the governor that if the debate is held he will be allotted one-half of the tickets. In a political speech recently, Gov. Smith, in replying to attacks which had been made on him by the publisher challenged Mr. Hearst to public debate. The message to the governor did not say whether Mr. Hearst had made known his decision.

THE REAL THING

When the next artist "sculps" his next symbolic figure of labor, he might well take into consideration Mrs. Bridget McHugh of Wigan, England. Mrs. McHugh died recently at the age of eighty after fifty years as expert "pit-brow" in the Pemberton coal fields. She filled mine cars with a shovel and she worked in all weather from 6 A. M. to 6 P. M. She died a grandmother with two sons employed in the colliery. Yes, the artist might mould a symbolic coal-shovel up against a symbolic coal-bank. If you come down to real, actual bona-fide labor, she had the right to talk about it.—The Nation's Business for November.

KING ALBERT VISITS ROOSEVELT'S GRAVE

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—King Albert of the Belgians placed a wreath yesterday on the grave of Theodore Roosevelt. Few saw the simple ceremony, for the skies were leaden and his majesty passed through Long Island almost unrecognized.

The king and the little party accompanying him were met at the gates of Young's Memorial cemetery in Oyster bay by Ltut. Col. Theodore Oyster bay, who escorted the Belgian monarch to the plot where lies the body of the ex-president. Albert strode up the slope carrying on his right arm a huge wreath in the colors of his country—yellow chrysanthemums and dark red asters—tied with a wide black ribbon.

The king and the eldest son of the great American went along inside the iron gate which bars the way against intruders. The monarch stopped and placed the flowers reverently upon the grave.

Boys Head on Withdrawal

Then he stood for a few moments, cap in hand, gazing at the simple granite slab which bears the name of Theodore Roosevelt, bowed deeply and stepped backward outside the fence. There were tears in the eyes of the president's son as he followed.

The little procession led by the king, which included Rear Admiral Andrew T. Long and Maj. Gen. William M. Wright, walked slowly down the hillside and entered motor cars which carried them to Sagamore Hill. There they were ushered into the famous trophy room, where Albert was welcomed by the widow of Col. Roosevelt, who chatted with him in his own tongue.

At the house to welcome the king, besides the widow, were Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, Col. and Mrs. Richard Derby and Mrs. Charles B. Alexander. A few minutes later there came a call for the children, and Theodore's three, with Mrs. Derby's two, were ushered into the royal presence, to be greeted affectionately. The party remained at Sagamore Hill about half an hour.

King and Prince at Mass

The trip out and back, which was begun after the king and prince attended 8 o'clock mass at St. Albert's church, was not without incident and excitement. Once past the traffic in Flushing and on one of Long Island's famous good roads, Albert took the wheel of his motor car.

He waved to the motor policemen who piloted him to get a little more speed out of their machines and they took him at his word. They said afterward that their speedometer registered 80 miles an hour. The rest of the party tried with indifferent success to keep up. One after the other the cars in the rear came to a stop with battered tires and smoking brakes. Prince Leopold changed machines four times, but seemed highly amused. At the last stage of the journey to the cemetery nine persons were riding on the car which bore the huge wreath.

At the outskirts of the village the king's car stood beside the road while he was strolling about with J. M. Nye, chief special agent of the state department. They waited some time for the others to appear. The return trip was a repetition of the ride out, except that it was made in even better time until a heavy shower blew up.

Animals Amuse King

Instead of returning directly to his hotel, King Albert and the prince kept on to the Bronx zoological gardens, where the largest bear in the world and its mate staged an impromptu family quarrel for their breakfast. Leopold seemed much impressed with Peter the great, an enormous hippopotamus.

King Albert is taking advantage of his visit to New York to confer with prominent financiers and business men. He has no intention of attempting to float personally loans for Belgium and that task will be left to his minister of finance, but he is attempting to acquaint those with whom he comes in contact with the needs of his country. As one of the king's aides expressed it, Belgium does not seek charity, but "a partnership in reconstruction."

CHANCEL WILL FORM BEAUTIFUL MEMORIAL

When the remodeling of All Souls church is completed the chancel will form a beautiful memorial to the life of Mrs. William H. White and her children. A fund of $10,000 has been placed at the disposal of the committee in charge of the remodeling of the edifice, $5000 of which was left to the church some 15 years ago by the late William H. White and the balance given by his two living sons, Edward L. and William T. White, and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. A. Kirk White.

In leaving $5000 to the church, Mr. White expressed a desire that it be placed in the church in the form of a memorial, but owing to the unsettled condition of the parish the money was not used until the union with the Unitarian church became a reality. The chancel not only will be a memorial to Mrs. White, according to her husband's wish, but to their late daughter, Miss Maria Theresa White and their son, H. Kirk White, both of whom were much beloved at the old High Street church.

LOWELL GIRL MADE MUSIC SUPERVISOR

Miss Gladys Whitmore, of this city, has been appointed supervisor of music in the public schools of Winchester, Va. Miss Whitmore is well known locally, and has gained considerable reputation in the musical field. She was graduated from the Lowell high school with the class of 1907, and took a post-graduate course the following year. Later she was graduated from the New England Conservatory of Music and also completed the course for musical supervisors at the Lowell State Normal school. For the last two years she has been supervisor of music in the public schools of Augusta, Me. Her pleasing personality and ability as a musician and musical instructor have won her many friends who wish her success in her new position. She is the daughter of J. W. Whitmore, of the firm of Whitmore Bros., dealers in high grade nursery stock.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do away with the cause of bad breath. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

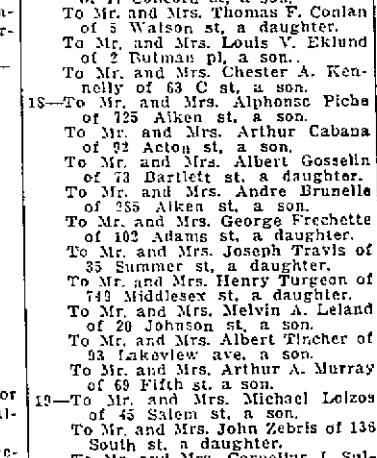

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c.

MEXICANS KILL U. S. AIRMEN

Destroyer Brings Bodies of American Fliers Missing
Since Aug. 21

Messages on Plane Tell Horrors of Last Flight—19
Days Without Food

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 27.—It was officially announced here last night that Lieut. Cecil H. Connolly of San Diego and Frederick B. Waterhouse of Wesley, Ida., army aviators missing since August 21, were slain in Lower California by two Mexican fishermen.

The announcement was made upon the arrival here of the destroyer Aaron Ward, bringing the bodies of the two aviators from Bahia, Los Angeles, on the Gulf of Lower California, to which point they had flown after losing their way in a border patrol flight from Yuma, Ari. to San Diego.

According to Major R. S. Bratton, head of the military party sent here to recover the bodies, the slayers were from a Mexican ship. Their identity is not known to the United States and Mexican governments, and steps are being taken to capture them.

Tragic Tales of Suffering

The destroyer brought a part of a story of the suffering endured by the young aviators in the form of notes scrawled on the wings and fuselage of the De Havilland airplane in which Connolly and Waterhouse made their last flight. Some of these messages, evidently written while the aviators had almost lost hope of being found, were of such a tragic nature that Major Bratton asked the newspaper reporters to refrain from using them, out of consideration for the officers' families.

Major Bratton said that the two aviators had gone 19 days without food, or at least without much to sustain them. The tale that drew them far from their air path remained with them until the very last. Maj. Theodore MacAuley, in one of his flights find them, flew within 50 miles of the spot where they stood guarding their plane. Later, on the afternoon of Sept.
6 they were landed from a canoe on the shores of Bahia Los Angeles by the same fishermen who are accused of having killed them five days later, and at that time were only 12 miles from Los Flores Silver mine, where they might have received protection and food.

Messages Scrawled on Plane

One of their messages, scrawled on the airplane fuselage with a knife or nail said the aviators remained in the air four hours and five minutes, that they ran into a rain storm and lost their sense of direction. When they sighted the Gulf of California they thought they were flying up the coast instead of southward along the east coast of the Gulf of California.

Another message, traced on the wings and fuselage, told how the airmen attempted vainly for two days to catch fish to appease their hunger.
They then started walking northward toward the border, but returned to their airplane in 36 hours when their supply of water became exhausted.

The aviators drank the water from the radiator of their plane. This proved sufficient to allay their thirst up to the time they were taken by the fishermen to Bahia Los Angeles from Guadalupe Bay where the plane landed.

For Arrest of Murderers

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 27.—Plans were put in operation today in Lower California, Mexico, as well as at Washington, looking to the arrest of the Mexican fishermen accused of murdering Lieut. Cecil H. Connolly and Frederick Waterhouse, American aviators, who flew into Mexican territory on August 21, and subsequently lost their lives.

The identity of the accused men is known both to Mexicans and Americans. It was announced officially when aviators were brought here on the destroyer Aaron Ward last night and comparatively little difficulty is anticipated in apprehending them today.

KING ALBERT FLIES OVER NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—King Albert of Belgium bade New York an aerial farewell today. Accompanied by Count Guy d'Oultremont of his staff and J. M. Nye, special agent of the state department, the king boarded a navy flying boat, piloted by Ensign Frank Lamb, and flew for nearly an hour over Manhattan and Brooklyn.

Later the king returned to his hotel and with the queen, Prince Leopold and other members of his party, was taken to the Pennsylvania station where a train was waiting to take them to Philadelphia. The party will leave Philadelphia at 6 o'clock for Washington. They are due at Washington about 9 and will go directly to the home of Breckinridge Long, third assistant secretary of state, which they will occupy during their stay in the capital.

Reception at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—After being welcomed by Mayor Smith and a committee of citizens, the city's official reception to King Albert and his party today called for a drive from the railroad station to Independence Hall, where every preparation was made to give the Belgian monarch and Prince Leopold ample opportunity to view the Liberty bell, inspect the Declaration room and visit the old supreme court room and banquet hall.
In the ancient and historic building, after a visit to the headquarters of the Belgian Relief committee and the American Red Cross, it was arranged that the king should visit the great flag island shipyard and Queen Elizabeth go to Bryn Mawr college. King Albert was invited to christen the troopship Cantigny, which had been held on the ways a week, awaiting the Belgian ruler's arrival. It was said to have been the first time in the history of American shipbuilding that a man had been asked to stand sponsor for a vessel.

SIX SINN FEINERS IN DARING JAIL BREAK

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Six Sinn Feiners, including Commoners Stack and Beasley, have escaped from Strangeway jail at Manchester. Being political prisoners they were allowed to congregate during the tea hour. One of them sprang at the warden and felled him.
The others bound his hands and feet.
He was gagged and thrown into a cell.

WHAT McADOO CAN DO

Meantime a rope ladder was thrown over the wall by some one standing in the street. The men climbed the wall, descending to the street by means of a wooden ladder on the other side. First notice of their escape was given by a woman, who was near the prison at the time. The people living in the neighborhood rushed out of their houses just in time to see the men disappear around the corner of the prison.

istence.

BRIDAL SUBDIVISIONS AND ROUND HOUSES, FACTORY-BUILT, TO MEET HOUSING PINCH

N. E. A. Special to The Sun
NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 27.—
Round houses, made of concrete, each room a circular one, joined together by passageways—as many units as you want for the size house you need!

This is the proposal of C. N. Wisner, designer of the Wisner homes, planned to meet the shortage of houses throughout the country, and to solve the problems of housekeeping and home sanitation.

Mr. Wisner says they will be noise-proof, rustproof, rat and insectproof, fire and stormproof, warm in winter and cool in summer.

The homes are designed to be built at central manufacturing stations.

The three-piece unit room and hall will build one hundred different shaped homes, so that there need be no deadly sameness to the groups of houses, as there is now in rows of rectangular houses.

"If square things are any good, why was there not at least one thing in all the world created square?" says the inventor of the round home.

"Square rooms are often unsanitary,

because they are hard to keep clean.

Square rooms cost more and the price of square homes is advancing."

Mr. Wisner wants cities to start

"bridal subdivisions" which shall contain his round homes, and in which newlyweds shall have the preference in renting the homes in explaining the new regulations,

"that the shipping public will welcome the new standards when they understand them, and the reasons for putting them into effect.

"Never before in the history of the country has the express traffic reached such proportions as it has assumed today. At the same time, there has been comparatively little increase in the amount of car space available for this business. We have been asked to carry heavier shipments and commodities of every conceivable kind.

"Before the war, it was possible for car messengers to spread their freight out on the floor of the express cars without much congestion.

Today we are running dozens of through cars between the big cities and everyone of those cars is packed to capacity. There has been a similar congestion in the local runs.

"This has made it necessary for express shipments to be stacked. As a result, individual shipments have had to be strongly enough packed to be able to stand up for themselves, and owing to the lack of uniformity in this regard the new regulations were formulated and finally approved by the railroad administration. The stronger containers required, we believe, will very perceptibly help to improve the express service and to protect the mi-cellaneous articles of merchandise traveling through this channel from damage or interference en route."

An extensive educational campaign is planned to explain to express shippers how the new requirements will operate in the various trades which depend upon the express service for the movement of the bulk of their output and also to instruct express employees regarding acceptance of matter for shipment under the new standards.

Agent Langley is able to supply shippers with copies of the supplement

No. 5 to express classification No. 26, in which the new rules are outlined in detail.

SAYS 22,000 ON STRIKE

Claim of Insurgents in Ranks of Striking Longshoremen

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Insurgents in the ranks of the striking longshoremen claim 22,000 workers in 24 locals today "officially" went on strike. Richard Butler, their leader, said that up until today these men merely had been taking a vacation.

T. V. O'Connor, president of the International Longshoremen's association, declared on the other hand the strike was breaking up and that fully 20,000 longshoremen would be back to work during the day.

The steamship owners declared they would hold no further conferences with the special conciliation board appointed by Secretary of Labor Wilson.
They said attempts would be made to load and unload their ships today.

The insurgent longshoremen planned to picket the entire waterfront and their leaders declared efforts would be made to enlist the sympathy of the Marine Firemen's Union of Oilers and waterfronters along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

MINERS TO REPLY ON WEDNESDAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 27.—A "suitable reply" to President Wilson's statement holding the impending coal miners' strike to be not only unjustifiable, but unlawful, will probably be drawn up at the meeting of the international executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, to be held here Wednesday, according to William Green, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Green declined yesterday to comment upon the president's statement pending such action, further than to say that it is an impossibility now to rescind the strike order, effective Nov. 1.

"I suppose that a suitable reply to the president's statement will be drawn up at the meeting Wednesday," said Mr. Green. "The meeting has already been called for that date, but consideration of the president's statement will not be the most important business before the board."

now is Mrs. Harry E. Schoenhut, wife of a Philadelphia manu-

Wilson Continues to Improve

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—"The president's progress continues as during the past few days, satisfactorily," said a bulletin today by his physicians. The president was expected to transact some official business today. He had a long talk with Dr. Grayson concerning executive matters, and insisted that he be permitted to see Secretary Tamm. Dr. Grayson said he did not know whether Mr. Tamm would place the prohibition enforcement bill before the president today.

INDIANS WIN AT MANCHESTER

The Indian second team went to Manchester, N. H., yesterday afternoon and in a hard fought contest defeated the Wizards of that city, 12 to 0. The two touchdowns scored by the Lowell boys came after brilliant dashes down the field by Turner and McEnaney. The former carried the ball 50 yards and across the line, while the latter recovered a Wizard fumble and led the pack 40 yards to the second score.

THERE'S NOTHING BETTER FOR YOU

By that, we mean the guarantee; here at this store Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothes are guaranteed to satisfy you. It means that your clothes expenditures are protected; you're sure of your money's worth. If you think you don't get it—you get your back.

The way it hangs

Half the effectiveness of an Overcoat is in the way it hangs. The fronts, the lapels, the sleeves, all seem to "flow" into the general lines of the draping; and the flare of the skirt simply carries out the effect. It is in these respects that have been most successful this season; the suits and overcoats they've made for us show all the artistic points.

MUST GIVE DECISION IN ALL BOXING BOUTS

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 27.—Boxing contests minus decisions on points by referees apparently are on the way to complete extinction. Richard Howell, who recently was appointed boxing commissioner for Bridgeport, Conn., has at the outset landed a resounding thump on the jaws of the boxers who delight in limited decisionless bouts. Referees will decide on points at the end of bouts that last the official limit of 12 rounds, and champions with a studied disinclination to risk their titles in a contest to a decision doubtless will remain away from the Connecticut town.

Howell pays his respects to the decisionless type of boxer in the following straight from the shoulder language:

"The only men who object to decision bouts are the boxers and their managers, and their reason for objecting is that they can fool the public, and keep on boxing without fear of their official records being injured, knowing full well that a no decision contest cannot carry any weight in the record books. As a result of these no decision bouts our boxing records have become practically a joke."

"It is a deep and intricate game that is played in the boxing arena these days, but in Bridgeport hereafter the managers and boxers will play the game fair or they will be set down for a suspension which may be final. If their offences warrant that extreme action, for the boxing commission will be invested with the necessary power to suspend violators of the commission's rules."

Y. M. C. I. WILL OPEN BOWLING SEASON

The Y.M.C.I. will start its bowling season Tuesday, Nov. 4 and in its ranks will be found many of Lowell's best bowlers who, with the aid of a large number of returned soldiers, all star bowlers, should make this league one of the fastest in the city. The committee in charge is advising many of the old timers to get in trim, as many of the younger members have been practicing diligently during the last few weeks and chalking up some excellent scores. Many surprises are looked for when the league gets under way, even as it is now the most important topic around the room.

The members of the bowling committee have secured a large number of good prizes which will be an added incentive for keen rivalry among the teams. The members of the committee are: John Martin, chairman, Leo Richards, Harry Mulligan, Samuel Moss and Paul Farrington. Following is a list of the competing teams, with the schedule for the first three weeks:

MOTORCYCLIST IS KILLED IN COLLISION

Charles Zinkewicz of Pearson avenue, Nashua, N. H., died at the Lowell corporation hospital Saturday night as a result of injuries received when the motorcycle in which he was riding crashed into an automobile on the Nashua boulevard. His companion, John Tamionis, of 26 West Hollis street, Nashua, was also injured, but not seriously.

As far as could be learned the motorcycle, which was being operated by Tamionis with Zinkewicz in the sidecar crashed into an automobile owned by James E. Whitaker of 185 Summer street, Boston, which was stalled on the right hand side of the road. It is claimed that the accident was due to the fog although Whitaker claims that the tail light on his machine was burning. The two injured men were rushed to the hospital, but Zinkewicz, who was suffering from fractured ribs and lacerations to the left lung, failed to respond to treatment, and died three hours after the accident. Tamionis was cut about the face and limbs. His injuries are not serious.

SHOE SHOP STRIKERS TO STICK TO THE LAST

At a meeting of the members of the Allied Shoe Workers' union, who have been on strike in this city for the past 14 weeks, which was held Friday night it was unanimously voted to remain on strike until their demands of recognition of the union and a slight increase in wages have been granted. In the absence of President John E. McCallum a member of the executive board, Mr. Coolidge occupied the chair. In the course of the meeting remarks were made by Mr. Melancon of Salem and Mr. Hartsborn of Lynn.

One hundred years ago two men were sent from Torrington, Conn., to be the first missionaries of the Hawaiian Islands, then known as the Sandwich Islands.

BIG FOOD FAIR AT FAIRBURN'S MARKET

After weeks of extensive preparations and alterations, the Food Fair at Fairburn's market will be held Wednesday between 2 p. m. and 5 p. m. The entire floor space of this well known market will be turned over to the exhibition of the great variety of food and nationally known products which have made this market so popular as a food shop. This fair will surpass anything of its kind ever held before. More than fifty leading food products will be demonstrated at the various booths by representatives from the companies. Generous samples will be given away free to everybody and the housewives will receive many household hints as to the use of these different products. Elaborate decorations have already been put up by Charles F. Young & Co., and these add immensely to the neat appearing interior.

Under the capable supervision of Manager Leo Gendron, everything has been made ready for this mammoth food show and plans have been completed to accommodate the large crowd. In order to avoid overcrowding, everybody will enter from the Merrimack street side and then "follow the crowd." Music will be furnished by Markham's orchestra.

Two of the big attractions of the fair will be the opening of the new bakery and delicatessen departments where only the best and purest of foods will be had.

Such a great exhibition of food products has never before been planned in this city, and the main object of this fair is to bring the housewife closer to the many varieties of food products on the market today and to demonstrate the individual superiority of each one.

It is very hard to imagine the magnitude of this event but it will be very easy to attend, and this everybody is most cordially invited to do, keeping in mind the fact that they have a pleasurable treat in store for them.

Because of the short space of time to be given over to this fair, no children will be admitted unless accompanied by their parents.

THE FIGHT ON THE CLIFF

The dangers which our screen actors are sometimes forced to undergo to depict scenes necessary to the filming of a picture are appalling. Take, for example, the fighting scene on the cliff.

This particular event, which is really the tragic crisis of the story, makes a thrilling chapter in the book, but depicted on the screen in Harold Bell Wright's famous book, "The Eyes of the World," at the Owl theatre next week, is actually stirring. It is a last fight on the edge of a precipice 2000 feet high for the girl who has been kidnapped and hidden in a little hut in the mountains. James Rutledge has kidnapped her and John Willard, an ex-convict, whom he has helped to free from captivity, is forced to assist him. Having safely conducted the girl to the hut in the mountains, Willard awaits the arrival of his master, Rutledge.

Almost immediately after Rutledge arrives he sees the form of Aaron King, comes upon King on a dangerous ledge. Crouching silently, like primitive savages, they face each other. King has no gun and Rutledge is no coward, so they fight hand to hand. Several times their bodies entwined in each other's arms, they crash against the rock wall and away to the edge of the cliff. Breathlessly they fight until a shot rings out on the quiet air and James Rutledge suddenly loses his hold and tumbles over the side of the precipice like a fallen idol. What fired the shot?

URGES TEACHERS TO WORK IN MINES

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Male teachers of this city were urged yesterday to petition for leave of absence and "take up the pick and shovel," if the threatened coal miners' strike would have effect. Asserting that President Wilson's declaration in the matter was a "call to duty," Homer Gray, president of the Association of Men Teachers and Principals of New York City, issued a call for a meeting next Saturday to consider possible action.

"I summon all members of the association to show that we are men with red blood," he said, "and that we are willing, if need be, to make the supreme sacrifice to save American civilization, revolution and death."

The call has two hearts—one in the proper place and the other in its tail. Washington was once nicknamed the "Stepfather of his Country."

Threat to Use Force Will Not Allay Crisis

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 27.—Prefacing his announcement with the statement that he had received no communication from government sources as to President Wilson's stand against the threatened strike of soft coal miners Nov. 1, John L. Lewis, acting president of the United Mine Workers of America today declared: "The widely heralded intimation that force may be resorted to will not serve to allay the crisis."

THE CHARTER

So far as Lowell is directly concerned one of the main questions of local interest up for settlement in the coming election is that of passing upon Plan B.

It is surprising that the legislature offered such a charter for adoption by cities. The general principle is right and that alone carries it, but this does not compensate for the absence of a provision for primary elections.

Suppose that under Plan B there were six candidates for mayor and that a total vote of 10,000 should be cast. Of that vote 5000 would be a majority and yet a candidate who received 2000 votes might be elected. Such a candidate could not be said to represent a majority of the people. That is one of the great faults of Plan B. A candidate with an organized backing would be likely to defeat the best man seeking the office without any organization. That defect is practically fatal.

But with a primary provision added and more definite arrangements for the management of the various departments Plan B would be much superior to the present charter, in its fifteen members and the mayor, instead of five as at present.

The question before the voters, therefore, on November 4 will be whether to reject Plan B at present and wait till next year so as to have it amended and then adopted in the new form in which it would be a most acceptable charter.

Between the acceptance of a defective charter and the matter of waiting another year to get it perfected, we believe the intelligent voter will have little difficulty in reaching a right decision.

TO REDUCE EXPENSES

The National Security League from its headquarters in New York is conducting a vigorous campaign in favor of the budget plan of distributing the finances disposed of by congress. The custom in the past has been to make out a list of appropriations in a haphazard way, each based upon the demand made by the backers or promoters of the particular scheme, but without regard to its utility or urgency as compared with other problems or undertakings awaiting public attention.

The Security League commends the action of congress in passing the Good Bill, but insists that arrangements be made to prevent the United States senate from tacking riders to bills passed by the house, thus adding to the general expense and forcing arbitrary measures through under cover of others of general importance. The house itself has also resorted to this practice on various occasions as a means of getting through measures that it could not very well put forward independently.

There is little doubt that the budget system properly conducted would overcome much of the extravagance so flagrantly practiced in the past and so malodourously referred to as "pork," meaning large appropriations secured through political influence for schemes in which the general public is not particularly interested. The expenses of government in recent years have reached such vast proportions that something must be done to reduce expenses and prevent waste of money upon projects that are of no benefit to the country at large.

It is estimated that the federal taxes are now pressing upon the American people to the extent of $300 per family. If as is predicted the budget system will help stop extravagance and reduce our taxes, then we should have it without undue delay.

WOMEN'S VOTE SLUMPS

It is announced that there has been a great falling off in the number of women who have sought the privilege of voting through getting registered in New York City.

We can hardly blame the women in view of the dirty and bitter political fights now in progress in that city. As contrasted with the figures for last year the registration this year shows a gain of 109,133 for the men and a loss of 44,788 for the women. In the negro districts of Harlem alone, did the number of women registered exceed that of the men. The anti-suffragists as a result of this showing are asking, "Do the women really want to vote?"

Well, it is very plain that those who have been granted the privilege and who fail to get registered do not care to take any part in the elections this year. The failure is believed to be due to local conditions which do not enlist the interest or sympathy of the women.

USING OUR FORCES

Prentice Mulford was born in 1835 and lived until 1901, most of his activity being as a New York newspaper man. His philosophy is simple version of Emerson as applied to material success, bodily health and the general conduct of life—a widely advertised correspondence school of salesmanship having taken its basis from the thought of Prentice Mulford.

His writings are for the most part in five small volumes under the general title, "Your Forces and How to Use Them," and from which the following epigrams were derived:

"Thoughts are things.
When you think you are at work,
Evil of any kind is but temporary.

Peaceful thoughts are a constructive force.
A prayer is a desire expressed or unexpressed.

Poverty comes largely from a fear of assuming responsibility.

New thoughts and ideas bring new strength to both mind and body.

Good-will is the stronger force and will overcome the force of ill-will.

Expect nothing but health and strength—let them be your day-dreams.

Our bodies decay and lose vigor by thinking the same old set of thoughts.

Quarreling, angry argument and grumbling put out a silent destructive force.

Every discordant thought towards others is a sword and brings out a sword in return.

Every impatient thought or act, no matter how small, costs us an unprofitable outlay of force.

Your thoughts, outwardly expressed, act on others for or against you.

The thought of success in an honest plan of business brings an unseen aiding force to you.

When you fear misfortune (which usually never happens) your body becomes weak and your energies become paralyzed.

We are as members of society all of one body; if one of that body is diseased of mind or body or be in poverty, all must in a way suffer.—N. E. A.

THE MINERS' THREAT

The soft coal miners to the number of 300,000 have declared a strike to take effect Nov. 1 to enforce their demand for a six-hour day and 30-hour week together with an increase of 60 per cent in their present wages.

They claim that these demands are made imperative by the high cost of living, asserting that their wages have not kept pace with the increase of prices. On the other hand the operators insist that if these terms were granted, the cost of coal would be increased from two to three dollars per ton and that the production would not be sufficient to meet the needs of the industries throughout the country.

If overtime were necessary, the miners would insist upon time and a half at least, so that the cost of production would be almost doubled. This strike if carried out as proposed, would inflict incalculable loss and injury upon the nation, and jeopardize the very existence of millions of people throughout the land.

President Wilson from his sick bed has sent out a firm appeal to the miners to abandon the idea of striking, branding such a strike as unjustifiable and unlawful. He points out that the war is not yet concluded and that in consequence rigorous methods may be taken to maintain the production of coal should the miners persist in their determination to strike. Should they decide to comply with the president's request the cabinet will at once appoint a tribunal to deal with the issues involved and to see that the miners receive full justice.

If in face of this appeal the miners carry out their declared purpose to strike, the government might be obliged to assume temporary control of the mines and conscript labor to operate them just as men were conscripted to render service in Europe during the war.

A few more great strikes against the vital interests of the public, which should be held paramount, would alienate sympathy from organized labor and offer convincing proof that many of the strikes are instigated by radicals in opposition to the conservative sentiment of the unions, if not with revolutionary aims.

MR. GOMPERS' ACTION

Much curiosity is felt at the action of President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor in calling a conference of the 112 international unions affiliated with the organization.

Some fear that the intention might be to adopt retaliatory action against the employers who in the Industrial Conference refused to recognize the rights of organized labor beyond individual negotiation with their employees. But of this there is no probability as President Gompers would not favor any move toward intensifying the troubles of the present industrial condition.

More probable is it that this leader wants to bring about a strong opposition against the proposal in the Cummins railroad bill before the senate for an anti-strike provision.

He is known to be very strongly opposed to any action looking toward prohibition of strikes in public utilities such as railroads, street railways and the public service in various other lines.

On the assertion of this essential point turns the power of the government to control labor unions. While the power is vested in any organization to tie up the transportation systems of the country, it can bring about a situation in which the government would be powerless to protect the public.

The general strike is the favored weapon of the I. W. W., working through labor unions and breaking away from the control of conservative leaders. It is regrettable that Mr. Gompers who has always stood for sound policies, is so much opposed to a policy so very necessary to the effective functions of government and the continued protection of the public.

Henry B. Endicott blames the employers' group for the disruption of the Industrial Conference at Washington. Under the rule that a majority of any of the three groups could defeat a resolution, it was hardly to be expected that much could be accomplished. If as now proposed, the cabinet calls another conference to deal with the industrial situation and especially the issues that divide capital and labor, some basis of agreement may be reached that will secure for each the free exercise of the rights and privileges to which it is entitled under the constitution.

If collective bargaining can be reconciled with the open shop, we have no doubt that the employers would readily agree to it. But apparently they feel that the ultimate end and aim of collective bargaining is the closed shop. There should be some means of reaching a middle ground on which labor and capital could unite on this very important problem.

The extremists of the senate who talk of filibustering to kill the treaty are assuming a heavy responsibility. With the country in an unprecedented state of unrest and turmoil the senators who would resort to such a course would deserve to be severely censured.

Apparently President Wilson's mind is as clear as ever, despite his illness. His appeal to the miners is proof of that. It is hoped that he will soon have fully recovered so as to be able to give continuous attention to the affairs of the nation.

Chandler M. Wood, democratic candidate for state treasurer, is assured of election as a result of republican support owing to the nomination of Fred J. Burdell by mistake for Charles L. Burrill, the present treasurer, who has served the legal limit of five years.

The army store will doubtless be well patronized in Lowell if the people find that it offers the necessities of life below the current prices.

The sugar ration is still awaited. When, where or how is it to be dealt out? The people want to get some as soon as possible.

SEEN AND HEARD

Well, how did you make out with the return to old time yesterday?

These fall days are getting snappier and snappier all the time until finally they'll snap into a snowstorm, we suppose.

With the almost simultaneous completion of two new bank buildings here, Lowell people should have at least a aesthetic indorsement to be thrifty.

Hubby—"Well, dearie, as I said before, it is almost impossible to keep the high cost of living down."

Spud Had Skate On

Sunday morning when the church bells were ringing in the quiet country town of Woodstock, Vt., noted for its beauty, sobriety and truthfulness, and the townfolk were wending their way to churchward, a very unusual thing happened when L. A. Doubleday went out into his garden and dug up a potato with "a skate on." Especially startling was this these prohibition days. Years ago an ice skate had been buried where last spring Mr. Doubleday planted his potatoes. One of the spuds grew on and around the skate. That's the scientific explanation; Others insist you're apt to find anything if you dig in your garden on a Sunday.

By O. B. Jolly

Maybe you have wondered why newspapermen and good little boys never live to a ripe old age. Nobody knows why the "good die young," but we do know why editors and reporters grow gray prematurely and acquire worry-wrinkles long before they should adorn the face of mankind.

Things like this:
Comes a wire from Red Bay, Fla., which reads something on this order: "Mrs. Oscar Bray of Ponce de Leon, is the mother of five new babies, all living."

It isn't every day in the week that quintuplets make their appearance on this mundane sphere. When they do come it is a happening of huge importance, and we want to tell our readers all about it, how much the new babies weigh, how they look, etc. etc. etc.

How does a mother care for five babies at a time? How does father act, and who carries them around o' nights when they have the colic?

All right, all right; we'll find out, we said. And so we wired to Pensacola, Fla., bidding a reporter hottest it to Red Bay and call on the quintuplet at Ponce de Leon. As fast as train and automobile could take him he sped forth on his visit.

He got there.

The editor sat in his office feverishly awaiting the news from Red Bay.

It was like listening for the first news from a far distant battle front. Five in the cradle, and we didn't even know how many were boys and how many were girls, or whether they were all boys or all girls!

Gee whizz! Talk about a whirlpool of excitement and a Niagara of anxiety! Honest to goodness, folks, we already had picked out a bunch of pretty names, names that'd fit boys or girls. And we were going to suggest 'em to the happy mother, although we (died of three at home) know full well it is merely wasting time to suggest names to a mother who knows better than anybody else what to label the baby.

And then the wire came back! "So far so good. Arrived in Ponce de Leon and found everybody getting ready to go to the Bray home to see the novelties. I went along with them. We found that Mrs. Bray has five new children, but she's just adopted them."

Now if that isn't the easiest way to get quintuplets we'll eat our hats!

A perfectly good story shot all to pieces, not to make mention of a reporter's travelling expenses, telegraph bills and our having five good kid names on our hands and nobody to use them.

Lights
They are lighting the lamps in the fishing boat where the dorcas anchored here. And over the tangle a little moon hangs thin and sweet in the sky. The centric light is a pale blue and I would they were calm for me.

But the cry of the past comes out of the vast like a signal light at sea.
The blue smoke curls from the fisher's boat. A faint comes the children's shout. Over the breast of the rosy bay the yellow lamps stream out. Oh, the lamps are lit by the fisher's wives, and sweet with content they be.
But a light burns dim on the sea's far rim that was lamp and star to me.

Oh, all is safe in the fishing port, and kind are the fisherfolk. And sweet is the light of the sturdy lamps and friendly the curling smoke.
Ay, hearty and kind are the fisherfolk—but how should they know of me?
How my thoughts beat back o'er the buried track of a ship long lost at sea?

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Large numbers of pheasants are being reported daily throughout Middlesex county and hunters of upland birds say that many are being bagged. Perhaps one reason why so many of these brilliantly colored birds are being bagged is that they are so tame.

TO ALL WOMEN WHO ARE ILL

This Woman Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Her Personal Experience.

McLean, Neb.—"I want to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women who suffer from any functional disturbance, as it has done me more good than all the doctor's medicine. Since taking it I have a fine healthy baby girl and have gained in health and strength. My husband and I both praise your medicine to all suffering women."

Mrs. JOHN KOPELMANN, R. No. 1, McLean, Nebraska.

This famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, has been restoring women of America to health for more than forty years and it will well pay any woman who suffers from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness or "the blues" to give this successful remedy a trial.

The letters constantly being published from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Long shot this open season is that the hunters are confining their efforts to them almost entirely since the ban on ruffed grouse has removed that bird from the eligible list. At the present time our own county leads in the number of pheasants bagged, although the sport is good in Essex county and in Hampshire and Norfolk. The weather has been mild enough to keep the birds in this section. Quail, hares, rabbits and gray squirrels are receiving their share of attention although quail is protected in Middlesex. While native woodcock is very scarce, migratory woodcock is just beginning to make its appearance.

The yellow and white traffic signs in and near Merrimack Square are only temporary, the policemen tell me, and soon will be replaced by regulation standards which already have been ordered. However, these interim signs have done their work well and there is a practical absence of parking in Merrimack street between John street and the canal bridge at the Massachusetts gate. That is the one condition the square policemen first started out to create and today it is a reality. This traffic problem of ours is a condition which demands careful consideration and when it is known that 35,000 more automobiles traveled over the roadways of the state during the first nine months of this year than throughout the whole of 1918, its seriousness is more easily realized.

I happened to be on one of the special electricies that convey the employees of the Silvestra mills in North Chelmsford to this city Friday afternoon and indeed it was an interesting sight to see the many operatives rush out of the mill buildings in an endeavor to secure seats in the electricies for the ride home after a hard day's work. I noticed that when the whistle blew at 5 o'clock several boys and girls were at the gate of the mill all in readiness for the homeward trip and they lost no time in getting aboard the specials. The Bay State Co. sends eight large cars to the village every afternoon and each of those cars bears a sign indicating just what route will be taken from Merrimack square and the operatives, as far as possible, board the car that is going their way, and that means that there is more or less of a scramble in the street, for the cars do not always occupy the same positions on the tracks.

While watching the crowds leave the mill it seemed to me as though most of them were young people and despite the fact that they had been confined between four brick walls all day, most of them seemed very happy. Of course there were some who seemed a little grouchy, while others showed signs of being tired, but as a whole they were a jovial crowd, for on the car they chatted and laughed heartily while relating incidents which occurred during the day.

It has been suggested that "traffic standards" should be placed at the junction of Moody, Dutton and Merrimack streets and also at the corner of Riverside street and Colonial ave. At the former place there is generally more or less congestion, especially when the high school pupils are passing, while at the corner of Riverside street and Colonial avenue there

DO YOU CRAVE SWEETS?

A Very Choice Syrup of Tempting Taste

The liking for sweets is a natural craving. The system requires a certain amount of such food. It acts as fuel. It builds energy. It maintains strength.

Domino Golden Syrup is different from any syrup you ever tasted. So good you can drink it—so wholesome you can eat all you like. And never tire of it.

And of rare "smick" and savor—flavored with just a dash of delicate cane taste—sweet—but not oversweet—And not too "brackish."

A pure, rich, smooth, mellow, full-bodied syrup of a light golden amber tint. Of just the proper consistency—neither too thick nor too thin.

You will like it—on bread, cakes, waffles, biscuits. A table delicacy for every meal of every day. Ask your grocer for Domino Golden Syrup. It is made by the American Sugar Refining Company, Refiners of Domino Packaged Sugars—Granulated, Tablet, Powdered, Confectioners, Brown.—Adv.

"JUSTICE AND THE POOR"

Report Says Court Costs and Lawyers' Fees Making "Incipient Anarchists"

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—A report on "Justice and the poor" issued by the Carnegie Foundation and prepared by Reginald H. Smith, a Boston attorney, says that the delays, court costs and fees charged by lawyers are making "Incipient anarchists" out of workers who cannot take their troubles to court. This report was made after a national study of conditions extending over three years. The establishment of small claims courts, conciliation courts, domestic relations courts and legal aid organizations is recommended.

Bribery, political influence, incompetent judges and class domination the author found so uncommon that he denies their accountability for injustice to the poor in the courts. He believes, rather, that court procedure has failed to keep up with the social and economic changes of the last 60 years.

A chemist testified that beer which contained 2.75 per cent alcohol when it left Milwaukee contained 6 to 15 per cent when it reached Chicago, the result of being exposed to the sun.

AMERICAN PEOPLE ESTEEMED BY POPE

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Pope Benedict is greatly interested in the development of the United States and the manner in which this country handles its after-war problems. Rev. Anthony Bove, pastor of St. Ann's church of Providence, R. I., said yesterday, upon his return from a three months' visit to Italy. Rev. Fr. Bove, who was granted an audience with the pope while in Rome, arrived here on the steamship Regina de Italia.

The pope expressed esteem and love for the American people, said Rev. Fr. Bove, and was warm in his praise of the great liberty granted the Catholic and all other religions. The purpose of Fr. Bove's visit to Italy was to attend the dedication of the Flumicino orphan asylum at Rome. The people of the Providence diocese gave more than half of the money for the project, Rev. Fr. Bove said. He addressed the assemblage at the dedication.

WHEN A CHILD HAS CROUP

Thousands of mothers say Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is the best remedy for croup they know. It cuts the thick choking mucus, clears away the phlegm, opens air passages and eases hoarseness. The gasping, straining fight for breath gives way to quiet breathing and peaceful sleep. H. J. McCall, Athens, O., writes: "We have used Foley's Honey and Tar in our home for years and find it invaluable for coughs and colds—especially for croup for our children. We are never without it and cannot too highly recommend it." Burkinshaw Drug Co., 415 Middlesex St., Moody's Drug Store, 101 Central St.—Adv.

LOWELL MAN'S FIANCEE ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

James Joupakakis, a farmer residing in Dracut, who had planned to be married next Sunday to Miss Georga Paratsakou, of Dover, N. H., received word yesterday to the effect that his fiancée was at the Wentworth hospital in Dover as a result of a self-inflicted bullet wound in the neck.

The young woman, so it was learned, shot herself through the neck yesterday morning with her brother's revolver and her condition is very serious.

Miss Paratsakou is 30 years of age and came to this country from Greece about a year ago during which time she has been making her home with her brother, Louis, at 4 School street, Dover. For some time past she kept company with Joupakakis of this city and the couple had planned to be married next Sunday, the ceremony to be performed at Dover. When the young woman was found with the bullet wound in her neck yesterday she was conscious, but refused to disclose the reason for her act.

MATRIMONIAL

Gagnon-Minault

The marriage of Mr. Edouard Gagnon of Portland, Me., and Miss Valeria Minault of this city took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at St. Joseph's rectory, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Charles Donizot, O.M.I. The bride wore a taupe travelling suit with hat to match and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was given away by her father, Mr. Alphonse Minault, while the bridegroom's witness was his father, Mr. Pierre Gagnon of Portland. At the close of the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 546 Moody street, and later Mr. and Mrs. Gagnon, who were the recipients of numerous wedding gifts, left on an extended trip to Sherbrooke, Quebec, and St. Anne de Beaupre, Quebec, and upon their return they will make their home at Portland, Me. Present at the festivities from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Blane and their daughter, Miss May, of Natick, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. Theophile McGee and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Minault of Fitchburg, Miss Clara Isabelle of Fitchburg, Mr. and Mrs. Hector Minault, Mr. and Mrs. Ovide Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Gagnon, Josephine, Bernadette and Elise Gagnon, all of Portland, and Maria Penas of Sherbrooke.

Kerwin-Mulvey

A pretty marriage took place this morning when Mr. John Kerwin, a well known business man, and Miss Bertha Mulvey, a district nurse, were united in the bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at the Sacred Heart church at 8 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Doherty. The bride wore a tulle-trimmed dress and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Miss Helen Fitzpatrick, who was attired in blue georgette crepe and carried pink roses. The best man was Mr. Thomas Kerwin. At the close of the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mulvey, 40 Livingston street, and later the happy couple left on a wedding trip to New York, Washington and Baltimore. Upon their return Nov. 15 they will make their home at 715 Lawrence street.

RETURNED SEALED VERDICT

The jury in the case of Jacob Weinstein vs. Ali Mohamed, both of Winchester, returned a sealed verdict this morning in the sum of $614. In the case of Mohamed vs. Weinstein a verdict was rendered for the defendant. This was a case suit brought as a result of an automobile collision which occurred in Winchester, Weinstein claiming damages to the extent of $1500, while the defendant in the case of Mohamed was $1000. There being no other case ready for trial the court adjourned until tomorrow morning.

Girls Defeat Boys

The girls won the highest honors and were clearly entitled to the award.

The program commenced at 10.30 o'clock and was preceded by a demonstration of the school's junior police traffic squad. A dozen boys marched from the building and after taking posts at the school gate and at street crossings on either side, guided two classes across the street and regulated whatever traffic chanced to pass at the time. The junior officers did their work well and the pupils were moved from the immediate vicinity of the building without the slightest sign of confusion.

Nine companies of boys drilled on one side of the school yard under the command of Mr. Dennett, while nine companies of girls drilled on the other side under the direction of Miss Spille Horner. Each company was marched onto the drill area by a cadet leader and each was put through the following program of movements and exercises: Fall in, right dress, count-off, right, left and about facing, mark time, marching, squares right and left from line to column and from column to line, neck exercises, arm exercises and breathing exercises.

The judges of the girls were Miss Miron H. Miller of the Normal school, Miss Katherine Cronin of the Girls' Community Service club and Miss Frances Leggat of the high school. The judges for the drill by the boys' companies were Major Jeyes, William Trotter, of the Courier-Citizen and Arthur P. Woodies of The Sun. The work of the judges was not easy by any means, for the companies averaged up exceedingly close and it was only after careful consideration that No. 2 company of boys and girls were picked to oppose each other for the school honors.

Theodore Roosevelt

Was born 61 years ago today.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT AN APPRECIATION

(Written Especially for the Newspaper Enterprise Association) BY WILLIAM BOYCE THOMPSON

President of the Roosevelt Memorial Association.

The highest tribute that can be paid to the memory of Theodore Roosevelt on this, his birthday, is to say that he was the friend of all humanity.

A thorough American, whose love for his country and its institutions and people, was second to that of no man who has given his devotion to this, our land, Theodore Roosevelt was nevertheless the friend of all humanity.

Because Roosevelt served as an inspiration for all classes and conditions of his countrymen, he is believed as the ideal by men of differing political, economic and social views.

The champion of the oppressed, the exponent of the clean life, the advocate of the square deal to rich and poor alike in every situation in life, Roosevelt's life and example will go down the ages as one of the most precious heritages of America and her people.

That is why the Roosevelt Memorial association, composed of men and women in every state of the Union who knew and loved Theodore Roosevelt, is planning to perpetuate the respect and affection for the Great American we have lost.

Exercises in Schools

Continued

This evening a big mass meeting will be held at the community service club in Dutton street to do honor to the memory of Roosevelt, as well as to bring to a close the Roosevelt Memorial Fund campaign, which started here last week.

Today's exercises were strictly informal, but none the less impressive because of that fact. At the high school the students gathered in their "home" rooms at 11 o'clock and under the direction of the various teachers carried out sitting and appropriate exercises. Readings from the works of Mr. Roosevelt, a discussion of the achievements of his life and the reading of poems which have been written about him were the salient features of the observance. The students were also given an opportunity to contribute to the memorial fund for the erection of a structure in honor of the late president.

Similar exercises were carried out and many of the teachers had their pupils sing Mr. Roosevelt's favorite hymn, "How Firm a Foundation." These children were also given an opportunity to contribute to the fund and the total which will be realized from the schools is expected to be a very substantial one.

I believe in fearing God and taking one's own part.
I believe in hitting the line hard when you are right.
I believe in speaking softly and carrying a big stick.

special services were held in memory of Mr. Roosevelt and the singing of his famous hymn was again the feature in a number of instances.

But the really big feature of the entire observance will come in the hall of the Community Service club in Dutton street this evening when a mass meeting open to the general public will be held and a final effort made to send Lowell over the top with her quota of $10,000.

The affair will be known as "Roosevelt night" and will be held under the general auspices of the local post of the American Legion. It will be the legion's first public meeting and the members have made supreme efforts to have it successful.

Proceeding the mass meeting will be a community sing from 7.30 to 8 o'clock to which the public is also cordially invited. John Wilson Hughes, a Lowell man, has been secured to lead the singing and the Salvation Army band is expected to furnish other musical features. Patriotic members will predominate the program as befits the occasion.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the mass meeting will open and the principal speaker will be George Delgaty, chairman of the New England and northern

New York district of the Roosevelt Memorial association. Mr. Delgaty has an excellent reputation as a speaker and his knowledge of the details planned by the association for the erection of a fitting memorial to the late president is expected to result in a most interesting address. The committee is also working hard to have Brig. Gen. E. Terry Sweetser present at the meeting but at the present writing definite assurances that he could come had not been received.

Mayor Perry D. Thompson will preside at the meeting and will also speak briefly on the importance of general support of the memorial fund campaign.

There will be no admission charge and the American Legion urges everyone in Lowell who can possibly do so to be present at its "coming out" public meeting.

The tag day held Saturday in aid of the fund netted a total of $470, according to the figures given out by C. H. Hobson, treasurer of the campaign. Nearly 70 boxes were turned in by the young women solicitors and all of them had large quantities of small change. Few large contributions were noted.

Lowell's Harvard graduates have contributed a total of $9855 to the endowment fund for Harvard college, which opened a country-wide drive for $15,250,000 three weeks ago, according to Fred C. Mr. Weld states that the Spindle City's former alumni members are showing a great interest in the campaign, and that the results in the city have been most satisfactory to date.

The purposes of the fund are to make possible an increased salary for the professors; enlargement of the medical and dental schools; increasing the facilities of the Widener library; and to build up and increase the efficiency of the engineering school.

How to Banish Wrinkles and Crow's Feet Quickly

If your face is disfigured with wrinkles, no matter what the cause, you can quickly dispel every line, even the most obstinate, by using a simple, home-made wash lotion. Merely dissolve an ounce of powdered sallote in a half pint of water. Ingredients found in any drug store. Bathe the face in this, and— presto!—you scarcely believe your own eyes when you look into your mirror and behold the marvelous transformation.

The remarkable astringent action of the sallote so tightens the skin, wrinkles are literally pressed out. Best of all, this result is not purely temporary, for the lotion also has a healthful tonic action, which tends to strengthen and tone up the weakened tissue, and added benefit may be expected with continued use. Use this once a day for awhile; it cannot injure the most delicate skin. The treatment itself leaves no trace—no one guesses the secret of your increasing youthful appearance.

N. H. STATE HELD DOWN PLAYING FAST POLO
BY LOWELL TEXTILE

The Lowell Textile school football team stepped into college circles Saturday at Durham, N. H., when the New Hampshire state eleven was held to two touchdowns. As a safety was credited to Textile the final score was 12 to 2. The game was marred by fumbles and penalties and whatever breaks there were in the contest went to N. H. State.

Neither backfield could make any great impression upon the opposing forward line and Textile surrendered the ball on downs several times in futile efforts to make distance. Short forward passes twice placed New Hampshire within striking distance and on two occasions Connors, fullback, plunged through for a score.

Ames Stevens of Lowell played a strong game for Textile at left tackle, while Connors shone in the New Hampshire backfield. Textile's two points, registered on a safety, came in the second quarter. Textile had worked the ball to State's 10-yard mark, where they weakened and lost the ball on downs. Connors attempted to punt, but Stevens broke through and blocked the kick and then nailed the New Hampshire runner who recovered the ball back of the line for a safety. The summary:

AT VESPER CLUB

R. A. Wood won the right to hold the president's cup for one year at the Vesper Country club Saturday when he led H. N. Morton and F. K. Bramhall in the final round of a 36-hole course. The winner shot an even 80, which with his handicap of six, gave him a net score of 74. The two vice president's cups were won by Morton and Bramhall.

Harry J. Corwin and Walter B. Reilly finished in a tie for the club cup, each having a gross score of 78, handicaps of 12 and net scores of 76.

The Dunlap tournament attracted many players and R. A. Wood and Henry Farrell were tied for first place with scores of 84.

Team Setting Lively Pace
—Lawrence and Providence Swap Players

The strengthening of the Lawrence and Providence polo teams, by the acquisition of new players secured in trades this week, will prove a great boost for the entire league. All the other teams have developed strong combinations, and now that the two weak clubs have secured new blood, faster and more evenly contested games are looked for.

Lowell, Salem, Worcester, New Bedford and Fall River, have been setting a fast pace, since the opening of the season, and already some very exciting and hotly contested battles have been staged.

The league officials realizing the necessity of helping Lawrence and Providence, met and a trade that should help both teams was put through. Lawrence made a claim for "Red" Williams and by a vote of the directors the claim was allowed. The Lawrence management then made a proposition to the Providence management of turning over Williams and his rights to Quigley, for Duke Dufresne. It was accepted and the players involved were ordered to report to the teams this week.

Lowell will have Fall River and New Bedford here this week for the first time of the season. These two clubs are playing mid-season polo, and already the fans down that way are claiming the pennant.

Fred Jean is leading the Fall River club, and he has a very fast combination. In Young Pierce, son of the famous Dicky Pierce, of the old Lowell champions, Jean has secured a find. He's a chip of the old block, say all who have seen him perform. George Hart, brother of "Bob," is teaming up with Pierce on the rush line and they are playing a great game. Cusick and Purcell, formerly of Lowell, are also with Fall River. The team will play Lowell at the Crescent rink on Tuesday night. On Wednesday night, New Bedford, with Bob Hart, Barney Doherty, Josie Conley and Muirhead and Kehoe, in the lineup, will play at the local rink. These are two strong attractions and plans have been made to handle big crowds at both games.

Bob Hart, first rush for New Bedford, who played an important part in Lowell's success last season, is bound to get a great reception when he hops into the cage here next Wednesday night. Bob is popular here and his friends are planning to turn out in large numbers to greet him.

The schedule for the week is as follows:

Tonight: Providence at Lawrence, Worcester at Salem.
Tuesday: Fall River at Lowell, Salem at New Bedford, Lawrence at Providence.
Wednesday: New Bedford at Lowell, Providence at Salem.
Thursday: Lawrence at Fall River.

Friday: Lowell at New Bedford, Worcester at Fall River.

bouts were run off as scheduled and the arrangements were ideal. The first bout, between Tipitz and Fox, went the limit, ten rounds, but was declared "no contest" by Referee Tommy Sullivan. He announced that the boxers had ignored his order to fight and continued to "stall" through the entire bout. In the second number Paul Reed of Boston knocked out Red Vigeant of Waterbury, Conn. in four rounds. This was a lively bout while it lasted. Barney Adair of New York and Chick Simler of Buffalo appeared in a fast and well-contested ten-round number. It went to a decision for Adair, but many thought a draw would have been better. Those close to the ring, however, agreed with the referee's award. The final bout between Battling Reddy of New York and Al Schabert of New Bedford, was a hummer. In the sixth round the referee ordered Schabert to stop using his head in the clinches, but the order was ignored. He cautioned him several times and finally when Reddy started to recover, he was stopped. After a little wrangling, hostilities were resumed and the pair went at it hammer and tongs for the remainder of the bout. It was called a draw.

Local Boys
On next Thursday night an all-star show will be staged at the Crescent A. A. Y. ten round bouts and a six-round preliminary are on the program and each and every one should provide plenty of action. All the performers are well known to local fans and indications point to some very peppery battling. Babe Christo, of Lowell, who was recently discharged from the navy where he set up a fine record as a boxer, will tackle Jack Stone of Boston. These boys are the welterweight class and they are known as aggressive workers. Tommy Doyle and Young Avilla, both of Lowell, are to appear in one of the ten-round events. Both have shown in past performances that they are capable of traveling at a lively clip and can hit hard. There is great rivalry between the pair. Billy Duffy of Everett and Al Ketchel of Bridgeport, two heavy hitters, will clash in the other ten rounder and Young Panceo and Jacky Clark, local boys, will perform in the preliminary.

that time to the close of the game the heavier Fitchburg eleven were down Conway's team and piled up 25 points. A forward passing game featured Lowell's farwell attempt to score in the fourth period, but it was snuffed out after nearly 75 yards had been covered.

His motor was behaving splendidly and he came down in a succession of loops and spins that bore evidence of the finished product.

Enough's opponent in the motorcycle-airplane race was Bill Florence of Reading and the latter forced the rookie every second. He was handicapped somewhat on the turns which he was forced to take at reduced speed, but through the stretches he opened up to the limit and as a result was only three seconds back of the airman at the finish of each lap.

For a brief period Saturday afternoon the Lowell high school football team flashed winning form against Fitchburg, but soon weakened and after four quarters had gone into history had to be satisfied with the short end of a 20 to 0 score.

During the first five minutes of play a concentrated Lowell attack swept Fitchburg off its feet, but fumbled the Lowell advance and from Lucille Lee Stewart will play the feminine lead in "Westward Ho!" which is now in process of construction. The leading man is William Russell.

Cladys Brockwell's next is "Flame of the Flesh," from the pen of Forrest Halsey and Clara Horanger. William Scott will be seen in the leading male role. Edward Le Saint is directing.

"Vagabond Luck" is the title of a new comedy in which Albert and Elinor Fair will soon be seen. This play is described as the story of a race horse for whom a "fast life" had no appeal.

Tom Mix, in his forthcoming picture, "The Feud," is said to have one of the most thrilling roles in which he has yet appeared. Eva Novak is his leading lady.

"The Moonshine Trail," now under construction at the Ratho studios, which is due for release in a few weeks, brings together those popular co-stars, Sylvia Breamer and Robert Gordon. The story is laid in the mountains of Kentucky and is said to be replete with thrills, action and pep.

Florence Reed will soon be seen in "The Eternal Mother," recently released by United Pictures Corp.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Below is what the press agents of the different theatres say of the current attractions and of others to come:

B. F. KEITH THEATRE

Inasmuch as we all like to listen to money talk, and inasmuch, also, as money talks pretty loud, when you have it, it wouldn't be amiss to go to the B. F. Keith Theatre, this week, and see $5000 a Year. A brand new farce based on a man's ability to spend more than he makes, and in which Robert Hyman and Virginia Mann will have the leading parts. One thing it shows very conclusively, and that is the fact that a man who has a salary of $5000 a year has so many social and business obligations to carry that his salary is almost never quite enough to carry him through. A woman's intuition played against a man's business "hunch" shows that the woman possesses something that can't be bought with dollars and cents. Her intuition surely does win out.

And another line act for this week will be the gloom-killing, scam-out-forward by Kellam and O'Dare. This is rated as one of the funniest acts season ever saw. It played there last week, and was the sensation on a bill of fine things. Kellam and O'Dare have a whimsical method of touching one's funny bone. They never fail. Play after play, the most fatigued audience into a state of rapture. The saxophone is capable of making good music. Four of the instruments go to a specially good job, and that's why Tom Brown has named an act for the Sterling Saxophone Four. These merry men not only play their pipe-shaped instruments, but they also offer a very superior brand of general entertainment. There is nothing better on the circuits than what they give.

MISS EXILDA DESGROSEILLIERS

From the age of nine years, I had never enjoyed good health. I was always feeling weak, suffered from violent headaches, sore back, insomnia. My nerves were unstrung, my digestion upset and besides I was suffering from bronchitis and coughed a great deal. Knowing that some of my friends had been made well by the use of RED PILLS, and on their advice and recommendation, I started to take them regularly; eighteen boxes operated a marvelous change for the better, and I am now well and as healthy as my other sisters, who have such great confidence in this remedy that they now take RED PILLS whenever they feel they need a good tonic.

Do you know Columbia and Victor? Of course you have heard of these two estimable talking machines, but did you ever see them in a picture house? Eddie Barto and Florence Clark will show just how a talking machine can be made into a place where sparkling conversation and likable music are given. This is the newest of vaudeville novelties, and it is sure of a rousing reception. The "Sisters" were musical prodigies. They are scarcely more than mere girls now, and they can still make an audience hush with wonderment at their musical genius. One is a pianist, the other has a charming voice, youthful and yet showing evidences of much good training. The girls do not stick to the classics, although they are capable of giving a splendid concert devoted wholly to the old masters. Feats is the word to use when speaking of the work of the Wordens. Although the girls are just well to allude to their work as "feats." For they do all of their juggling with their pedal extremities. What others do with their hands, the Wordens do with their feet.

A good tennis player is, in a sense, a good juggler. Victor Martyn and Bruce Scenic will appear in "The Tennis Courts." Some of the best of an interesting routine will be offered by this pair. In addition there will be the Topics of the Day, a Bruce Scenic picture and the News Kinograms.

THE STRAND

"Lombard, Ltd." with Bert Lytell in the starring role will be the big attraction at The Strand for the first three days of the week, beginning with matinee today. This super-production is one of the highest and best of its kind that the nation has given the public in seasons. Lytell plays the role of the male model and supporting him are the glorious girls, Georgeus Gossens, Gladys Gossens and their some. If you women folk, an idea of what the very latest and most popular dress creations, including lingerie is to be, then don't miss "Lombard, Ltd." Then there is Alice Joyce in "The Winner." What an excellent picture, a comedy and the best Weekly yet produced. You can't afford to miss this exceptional bill. Come early and avoid the crush.

OPERA HOUSE

"A Woman at Bay," the great dramatic hit of recent days penned by Doris Potter and Mable S. Keightley, which is to be the week's presentation at the Opera House by the Lowell Players, beginning with matinee today, gives every promise of serving the needs of the nation in a most satisfying and finished manner of all former efforts by this exceptionally clever company of actors and actresses. It may not be amiss to repeat at this time that the Lowell Players, which Messrs. Buckley and Schaeke have secured for the season's engagement here, rank with the very best stock companies in the east. Fair and impartial criticism by those in a position to judge, unhesitatingly proclaim them the best balanced and cleverest aggregation of stock stars that this section has enjoyed in seasons. The play for the week is a pure, red-blooded American drama, telling a story that grips the heart strings and holds interest from beginning to end. A young woman, in an adventurous spirit, helps a desperado to escape the strong arm of the law, and in after years, when she is happily married in another section of the country, the same man, an ingrate, comes to her and threatens to expose to her

The detective who is called into the case recognizes the young woman and he too, threatens to expose her, but she fights him off temporarily, until she reaches the point where she has to give up. Her final yielding is heart-rending, but the manhood and human side of the detective asserts itself and he gives up, realizing fully that "A Woman at Bay" is a fit match for any detective. SAYS R. R. MEN WILL NOT OBEY ANTI-STRIKE LAW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Timothy Shea gave notice to congress last night that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, of which he is acting president, would not observe pending anti-strike legislation if enacted into law.

Such an attempt to single out railroad employees and deprive them of what he termed the economic right of workers to strike to prevent injustice, must be accepted, he said, in connection with other information which the railroad brotherhoods have, as a foregone conclusion, that the railroads contemplate a general reduction in wages when the government intervenes to control and desire such a measure to forestall a strike.

"If there interests or the workers believe railroad employees will not willingly submit to any such invasion of their rights as citizens," Mr. Shea continued, "they had better say so, and thought from their minds, because I believe I speak for locomotive firemen and hostlers at least when I say that any law which deprives them of the rights of American citizenship will not be observed, not because this class of American citizens are prejudicial, but because such a law would be un-

Progressive Leader Declares for Long

Hon. Chester H. Lawrence, who was Progressive Candidate for Governor of Massachusetts in 1918 and 1917, has written a letter to Richard H. Long, Democratic Candidate for Governor, pledging him his hearty support and condemning Governor Coolidge for his action in the Boston Police Strike.

Mr. Richard H. Long, Democratic Candidate for Governor, Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir—Although in my opinion Governor Coolidge was legally right in the police strike and the policemen absolutely without excuse for their action, the Governor did not manifest the right spirit in the matter.

Law alone will never save the world. It has been tried alone and has failed. Germany, who had the best laws of any nation on earth, set out to destroy the world, if need be, to rule it. The right spirit of man must prevail with the law or the law will not prevail. We now have more law than we know what to do with, yet there is more anarchy now in the world than ever. Why? Because the right spirit is lacking. Where the right spirit accompanies the law, the law is better upheld; where it does not, the law is less lawless.

In my opinion Governor Coolidge failed to manifest the right spirit when he ignored the Mayor of the people of Boston—the people most concerned in this vital issue; and also when he refused to even consider the report of the Committee of reputable citizens appointed for the purpose of settling the strike if possible; and again when he failed to remove summarily Commissioner Curtis, who in my judgment, manifested even less of the right spirit than even the Governor himself. Any man at the head of a group of men who would, practically calling many of the policemen crooks, drunks and loafers immediately upon assuming office and authority over them, in my opinion, no man to be at the head of the police or any other group of men right at the start by the issuance of this public manifesto; and I defy any man who assumes a like attitude toward men to be able to handle those men satisfactorily, especially in these democratic times. Those sort of men, with the Kaiser, kings and autocrats, are out of date.

I am making no apologies for the policemen. They were "dead in the wrong," with no excuse to offer, but I feel sure that this strike in history had the right spirit been manifested.

I shall vote for you and get all the friends possible to do the same. I feel sure that this strike would never have happened had you been the Governor of the State for I am certain that you would have manifested the same spirit in this crisis as you have shown in the handling of the men in your own employ. I understand you men never had a strike among your men. General executives over men have strikes and others do not. On general principles I am with the man who has the better of these records on his side. I am with the man who, by the manifestation of the right spirit toward men can avert strikes. You have accomplished this and I notice that at most every instance that the employer who has had no strikes to his debit is the one who shows the right spirit toward his men—the get-together spirit the talk-it-over spirit.

And, furthermore, no man gets my vote for Governor who is so big that he practically ignores the Mayor of the people most concerned in a great crisis like this, and even too big to even consider a report of 31 reputable citizens appointed for a serious purpose. Such a man, in my opinion, is no fit to be the Governor of the great State of Massachusetts. We must have bigger men for that office.

Although I do not agree with all your plans, I am with you regarding most of them. You will get my vote and I will do my best to get you others. I hope that you will be elected and I think that you will manifest the same spirit that you have always shown in the past. I prefer that you will be our next Governor, and that you will make a good one, too.

Yours truly, CHESTER H. LAWRENCE.

PAY TRIBUTE TO LATE BISHOP GARRIGAN

The funeral of Rt. Rev. Philip J. Garrigan, bishop of Sioux City, Iowa, and a former resident of this city, took place last week at the cathedral of the Epiphany in Sioux City, the services being attended by three archbishops, nine bishops, over 200 priests and many nuns. Among the high dignitaries of the church present in the sanctuary were Archbishop Keane of Dubuque, Archbishop Dowling of St. Paul and Archbishop Harty of Omaha.

The pontifical requiem mass was celebrated by Bishop Feehan. Rt. Rev. James A. Griffin, V.G., of Port Dodge assisted the celebrant, and Rev. W. J. Grant of Boston, nephew of the deceased was deacon. Very Rev. T. J. McCarthy of Carroll, Ill., was sub-deacon. The sermon was preached by Archbishop Keane.

At memorial services for the dead bishop, held at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary club at Sioux City on Wednesday, Rev. T. J. McCarthy of Carroll, Ill.; Rev. C. E. Byram, rector of St. Thomas's Episcopal church, and Rabbi Emanuel Sierahelm of Mt. Sinai Temple, were the speakers. All referred in glowing terms on the character and great service which Bishop Garrigan rendered as a man, citizen, priest and bishop.

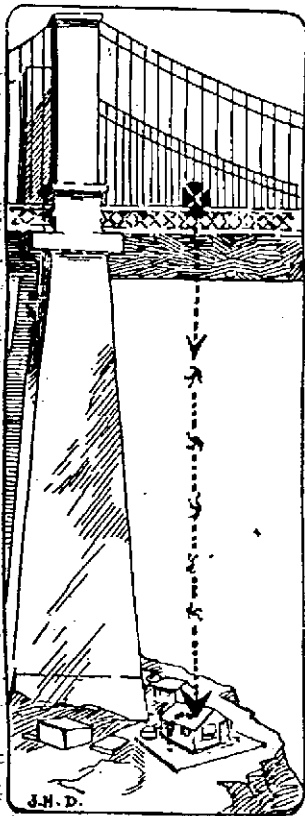

Rabbi Sierahelm said: "Bishop Garrigan had risen above creed and sect. No monument, save the impetus of his life, is needed. Northwest Iowa has been inspired by the life of Bishop Garrigan."

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—Narciso Arellano in 1917 took out insurance in various New York and Philadelphia companies. All told, it is said, the amount was $250,000. Then he hid in the woods, according to officials of one of the companies which investigated his "death" in Nicaragua.

KILLS COYOTE WITH AIRGUN, GETS $50

ZION CITY, Ill., Oct. 25.—For half a year a coyote howled at night and kept awake the good citizens of this city. The animal also raided the chicken houses. Police failed to bag him, but a 15-year-old boy, Teddy Mason, got him with an air gun. The mayor gave him $50.

FALL OF 110 FEET CAUSES HEADACHE

NEW YORK.—Johnny Maher of Stamford, Conn., fell 110 feet from Manhattan bridge, East River, crashed through a wooden shanty, and when he awoke some hours later in Gouverneur hospital, complained of nothing more than a headache and a large lump over one ear.

Johnny was not imitating Steve Brodie, who dived to fame from creating a big splash he came tearing down, after a couple of somersaults on the way, through the roof of a contractor's hut.

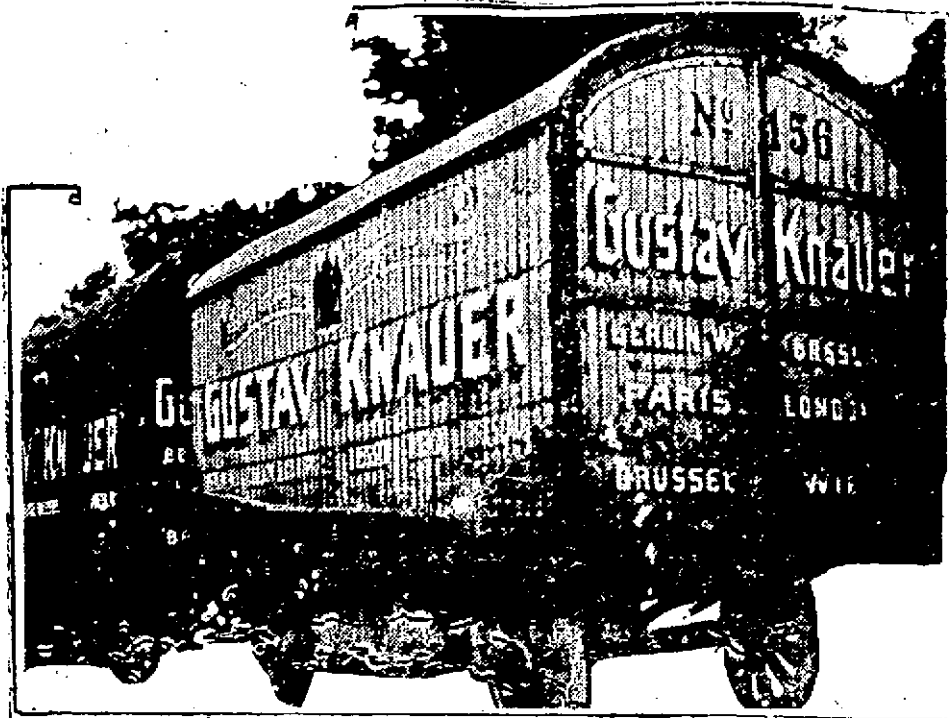

He struck a beam and went right on, ripped a hole through the tar paper roof and banged down between two iron uprights, from which he rebounded sharply, finally falling against the cement pavement on which the shanty stands.

A patrolman who found Johnny didn't know at first whether to send him to the hospital or the morgue. But he's all right now.

HENS ARE LAYING WHILE EGGS SOAR

Eggs at $1.50 a dozen before Christmas is what some of the local dealers predict.

Others are more optimistic. They don't believe that these breakfast delicacies will get beyond $1.20 per dozen.

At present one may purchase a dozen of "guaranteed strictly fresh" for $1.05. Some of them are real nice eggs, too—no back fires or nothing.

Not that the dealers think that eggs are likely to be scarce. The hens are still laying, they declare, from Boston to "Frisco," although just at present said hens are kinda laying down on their job.

The high price of grain is the reason given by the dealers for the present price of eggs. Labor troubles and shrinkage in production has caused the price of grain to skyrocket, they say, therefore the farmers must get more for the hen products.

One dealer who seems to be a nice fellow and have a tender feeling for the "dear public" said it would be a good idea for housewives to declare a boycott on eggs for a few weeks.

This would bring down the price so that a poor man—and here he looked us over—could afford to eat one now and then.

BASHFUL AND MODEST ARE LOWELL GIRLS

Proof positive that the girls and young women of Lowell are a most bashful and modest lot comes in the assertion of C. F. Cronin, examiner in charge of the local public employment bureau in Dutton street, to the effect that since the bureau moved to its present quarters three times as many women are taking advantage of its service than did when it was established in its former prominent location in Merrimack street.

Mr. Cronin says that a large number of young women were in the habit of calling the office by telephone to ascertain what was "doing" when the bureau had its quarters at 119 Merrimack street and were very much disinclined to present themselves in person. Now that the bureau is in less prominent quarters the increase in the number of women and girls appearing every day is most noticeable, according to Mr. Cronin.

HURRIES TO WASHINGTON

Long to Demand Opportunity to Refute Charges on War Contracts

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—Richard H. Long, suspending the scheduled activities of his campaign as the democratic candidate for governor, started for Washington yesterday afternoon to demand an opportunity to meet the charges being made before a congressional committee concerning his government war contracts.

Preceding him to Washington was a telegram in which he announced his coming and called upon Congressman William J. Graham, chairman of the committee, to "bring out the truth and stop your political trickery."

To Meet Him Face to Face
"I want to meet this man Graham face to face and demand the right to refute the charges which are being put before his committee," he said just before he left for Washington. "I feel that the whole state and nation will demand that this republican committee see that this just request is granted."

His telegram to Congressman Graham was as follows:
"I shall be in Washington Monday to refute the malicious and false statements concerning contracts made for political purposes just before election to save Coolidge from defeat. I demand that you show prices of my contracts and those of competitors, which will show that I saved the government millions of dollars. Bring out the truth and stop your political trickery. You are not fooling the public, Massachusetts voters will not be deceived by your unfair attack on a Massachusetts man who gave up his regular business and devoted his entire resources to help win the war without regard to personal gain. Why did you, a republican, publish an attack on a democrat running for governor and say nothing about the republican contractors? Why did you not publish the truth of the American Woolen Company profits and the $18,000,000 advanced by the government to that company, one of the big interests supporting Coolidge? I am breaking political engagements. Please arrange for a hearing for me Monday."

Mr. Grant E. Dodge of Oxford, a manufacturer, who, during the war was inspector of goods produced for the government in 150 Massachusetts factories, will defend Mr. Long's actions relative to the contracts which he handled for the government.

MONUMENT DEDICATED BY LOWELL EAGLES

Surrounded by the impressiveness of 1200 brothers marching unflinchingly in the pouring rain in order to honor the memory of their departed, the unveiling and dedication of the monument of Lowell Aerie, 233, Fraternal Order of Eagles, in St. Joseph's cemetery yesterday afternoon was a real success despite the unfavorable weather.

At 1:30 o'clock the line of marchers headed by the Eagles' band, Brother James W. Buckley, director, marched from Middle street into Central and up Gorham to the cemetery. The rain came heavier and heavier as the march progressed, but not one fell out of the ranks.

At the cemetery appropriate exercises were held despite the downpour. Following a selection by the band, Rev. Aurelian Merrill, O.M.I., of St. Joseph's church, offered prayer for the departed members of the order. The principal speaker was William L. Gleason, mayor of Brockton and a member of the state board of trustees of the Eagles. He brought out the intrinsic meaning of the dedication, the exemplification of the tender respect and thoughtfulness of the Eagles for their departed members, and said that even in death members of the order are not forgotten by their brothers. His address was a tender tribute, and deeply impressed those who heard it.

The honor of actually unveiling the large monument surmounted by a life-size bronze eagle, fell to Miss Mary A. Hackett, daughter of the worthy president of the local aerie, David J. Hackett. The closing number was another selection by the band.

This is the third monument to be unveiled in Lowell by the Eagles. The others are in St. Patrick's and West-lawn cemeteries. All are identical in size and general appearance.

Following the exercises at the cemetery the members marched back to their rooms and enjoyed refreshments and a social hour. The program included remarks by Mayor Gleason, Hon. John T. Sparks, Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy, Commissioner Geo. D. Marchand and George H. Brown, solos by Commissioner James E. Donnelly, Brother James W. Buckley, Bro. William Reilly, Bro. Fred Marcotte, Bro. Joseph Martin, Bro. Gleason, Bro. Smith, Bro. Freeman and Bro. Brady.

The committee in charge was as follows:
Worthy President David J. Hackett, chairman; Vice President James J. Bowen, Chaplain James J. Bourke, Treasurer William J. Mack, Recording Secretary Martin J. Crowe, Financial Secretary John M. Hogan, James J. Ward, T. J. Collins, W. J. Durham, T. F. Barry, John O'Loughlin, John J. Driscoll, George W. Racine, Omar Larue, George Messian, A. St. Onge, T. F. Quinn, Harvey Ames, P. F. Brady, Joseph Hughes, George Carey, R. J. Flynn, W. F. Carey, John A. Calnin, Edward Flanagan, C. T. O'Keefe.

NOT EVENLY MATCHED
An automobile truck owned by the Lowell Storage Battery service crashed into a passenger car, the property of F. C. Brennan, which was standing in Hampshire street Saturday night. The end of the gasoline tank and the right rear mudguard of the Brennan machine were ripped off, while the truck suffered a bent axle. The driver of the truck claims the accident was due to the fact that there was no tail light on the touring car.

AUTOMOBILE SMASH-UP ON THE BOULEVARD

Six persons were seriously injured, two automobiles practically demolished and a third practically so, in two head-on collisions on the upper boulevard near the pumping station late Saturday night.

The injured are: Mrs. C. C. Sibbey, wife of C. C. Sibbey of the United States Cartridge Co., dislocated hip and compound dislocation of right hand; her husband, fracture of the right leg; Albert S. Howard, of the law firm of Quin, Howard & Rogers, sprained wrist and cuts on hip and face; Mrs. Howard, multiple rib bruises and severe nervous shock; Adelbert Walker, East Pepperell, foot fractured; and Stephen Dec, Nashua, N. H., cuts on face and head.

The crash occurred in the fog which the Lowell people were returning from the Vesper-Country club in Mr. Howard's machine. The other car, driven by Thomas R. Blake of East Pepperell, was running toward Nashua and, according to occupants of the Howard car, suddenly appeared out of the fog, swerved across the road and cutpainted into the Lowell-bound car, head on. Blake was arrested shortly after the accident by Sergt. Frawley of the local police and after being taken to the station was released on $500 bail.

While the ambulance was standing at the side of the wrecked machines and preparing to carry the injured to a hospital, another car shot out of the fog, turned sharply to avoid striking the ambulance and collided with a machine driven by R. F. Norwood of Winthrop. This car was driven by Omar Bineault, who claimed to be a chauffeur for Judge Thomas Enright of the Lowell police but the car was not the judge's, and it was later found that Bineault was regularly employed by Mrs. S. E. Bromley-Stephens. The Winthrop car was badly damaged in this second crash.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard were taken home yesterday, although Mrs. Howard was confined to her bed, while Mr. and Mrs. Sibbey were held at the Lowell General hospital as their injuries were more serious.

DEMOCRATIC RALLIES

Three Rallies in Interest of State Ticket Held Here Saturday Night

Three well attended rallies staged by the Lowell Long campaign committee in the interest of the candidacy of Richard H. Long for governor as well as the other members of the democratic state ticket were held here Saturday night. The first was held at city hall at 8:45 and the others at Tower's corner and Bridge and Paige streets at later intervals.

The speakers at city hall included Sergt. Charles Russell of Boston, an overseas veteran of the 101st regiment; Francis X. Coyne, another Boston veteran, and Hon. Louis R. Sullivan, the only democratic member of the governor's council at the present time. At Tower's corner and Paige street this corps was augmented by James F. Moriarty, a member of the Boston city council.

The speaker's discussed Mr. Long's candidacy from various angles and told of the need of a democratic administration of state affairs. They pleaded for the support of the entire democratic ticket and emphasized the importance of supporting the local candidates for the senate and house of representatives.

William H. Sullivan, secretary of the local Long campaign committee, presided at the rallies. At city hall the first speaker introduced was Sergt. Charles Russell of Boston, who served 18 months overseas with the 101st regiment.

In opening, Sergt. Russell said that Mr. Long had been assailed by Congressman Graham relative to his war contracts and he characterized the congressman's attack as a "piece of eleventh hour political trickery." He said that the committee conducting the investigation of Mr. Long's war contracts has proved nothing except that the early contracts did not come up to specifications.

"There is nothing startling about that," said Sergt. Russell, "because we all know that the United States was not prepared for war when she first entered the conflict. Neither were her factories prepared. It took time and energy to equip them properly. This investigating committee has admitted that Mr. Long's work came up to the standard specifications later on in the war."

"Then it has been alleged that Mr. Long made millions of dollars on these war contracts. He had to get some return for the large investments he had made in order to give the government what it wanted. The hearing on the matter today in Washington brought out the fact that Mr. Long did not get any money not due him."

The speaker said that the great blip in the republican state platform this year is the fact that the party is standing "for law and order." He challenged the republicans to find anything in the democratic platform that did not stand for law and order.

"Mr. Coolidge stands on that one issue which reverts to nothing else but the policeman's strike in Boston. As a member of the 101st Infantry, one of the first volunteer units to leave these shores to go overseas in the world war, I refute the charge that members of the policeman's union of Boston, many of whom saw service at Chemin des Dames, the Argonne and other noted battles, are traitors and deserters."

"Mr. Coolidge has been preaching law and order. But Mr. Coolidge was not too old to shoulder a gun at the time of the Spanish-American war. He stood back then when he might have gone out and actively held up his celebrated principles of 'law and order.' As a soldier of 23 months' overseas experience, I refute the charge that veterans of the world war who went through hell overseas for you are traitors. Such a statement is an insult to your intelligence."

In appealing for the support of the rest of the democratic ticket Sergt. Russell brought out the fact that the democrats warmly endorsed Col. John F. J. Herbert when he became a candidate for Lieutenant governor and contrasted this action with that of the republicans who rejected Col. Frank S. Perkins when he sought to run for state treasurer on the republican ticket.

"That shows the calibre of the republican party," he said. "Unless you're on the inside, you get nothing." Francis X. Coyne, a veteran of 17 months' overseas service, made a strong plea for the democratic ticket and paid a warm tribute to Hon. John T. Sparks, Owen E. Brennan, Charles H. Slowe and other local candidates for state office. He urged solid support for them on election day.

Hon. Louis R. Sullivan, the only democratic member of the present governor's council, was the final speaker. He derided the present prohibition system of the state which allows tobacco growers in Connecticut to employ boys from the Lyman school at $2.50 a week and enables residents of the Back Bay in Boston to have the services of girls from Sherburne at the same price.

"Do you know," he asked, "that we have a Normal school in this state where there are 30 pupils and 25 teachers and that it costs the state $925 per head to graduate this class? Do you know that it cost the state $38,000 last year to graduate six children from an Essex county school?"

"Governor Coolidge is supposed to visit the state institutions once every so often with members of his council but since I've been in the council I haven't seen him doing any visiting."

Mr. Sullivan also appealed for support of the rest of the ticket, saying that Col. Herbert especially was worthy of support for the wonderful treatment he had given the men who served under him in France. At Tower's corner these speakers presented their case again and they were augmented by James T. Moriarty of the Boston city council, who made a plea for united support of the democratic ticket. All these speakers were present at the Paige street rally later in the evening.

At Tower's corner several members of the Boston Policemen's union addressed the crowd, but they did not help Mr. Long's cause although favoring his election.

Rally Thursday Evening
A democratic rally will be held Thursday evening at the Pawtucketville social club in Moody street, Pawtucketville at 8 o'clock. Walter E. Guyette will present and the speakers will be William E. Russell of Cambridge, candidate for district attorney; Hon. John T. Sparks, candidate for senator in the eighth district and William F. Madden and John E. Thomas, candidates for representative in the 15th district.

HERE FOR CONFERENCE

Labor Leaders From Many Nations, Including Germany and Austria Meet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Labor leaders of many nations, practically all of them accredited delegates to the international labor conference which will convene Wednesday, were gathered here today when the International Federation of Trade Unions opened its first conference since its organization at Amsterdam last July out of the ruins of the old "International."

Delegates from both Germany and Austria were among those expected to attend, the supreme council having approved their coming following a protest by the Amsterdam conference against their exclusion. Whether or not these delegates will participate in the official conference, however, depends upon the vote of the accredited delegates to the conference after they convene. Labor leaders said they expected the German and Austrian delegates would be invited to participate. Whether the federation conference would offer any recommendation to the official conference on this point, was not known.

Leon Jouhaux, general secretary of the French general federation of labor, was expected to be chosen presiding officer of the federation conference. Among those attending is J. Outegest, president of the Dutch Federation of Labor, who was secretary of the old "International" during the war.

KEEPING STEP WITH OLD FATHER TIME

Seems kinda strange to be back in step with Old Father Time again, doesn't it? But that's what happened when we turned back the hands of friend clock Saturday night. Probabilities are there won't be any more daylight saving in the future. Some folks seem rather peeved about this; personally we're more interested in having some one save us a little sugar now and then.

Lois of arguments about it in town Saturday—turning back the clocks, we mean. Barber that was playing hide and seek with our face was arguing on of high cost of living. Patrons wouldn't stand for it. Insisted that he explain the whys and wherefores of this daylight saving thing.

Barber refused point blank. Said he'd argue about anything else, though. Even offered to tell what happened to the G.O.P. Customers wouldn't listen to him, saying they preferred hearing some live topic discussed.

Fellow came in to have his mustache trimmed. Turning back the clocks was a great idea, he'd tell the world. Going to make a hit with his girl's dad tonight, he said.

Customers wanted to know how. Fellow explained that he was going to save pa from turning back the clock by doing it himself. Customers told him to be sure and drop in again some time in the future and tell them how pa liked it. Said they'd call him up at the hospital if he couldn't come himself.

One bird said he wasn't gonna get his alarm clock back an hour. Nobody bit, so finally he added that he'd been waiting a long time to give friend clock the royal razz, and tomorrow morning was the time he'd set for the event.

Barber broke in here to say that he's got a cousin whose been wearing the ball and chain for quite some stretch. Went into detail for the benefit of "those present" and explained that friend cousin had been given the aforesaid vacation from the cares and strife of modern life for failing to turn in regular weekly payments to his wife.

Cousin's alibi had been that said spouse was too gosh-darn handy with a rolling pin.

Finally got around to say that this changing the clocks was tough on the cousin who'd have to do that hour all over again now. And where his cousin was, the barber volunteered, an hour was a long, long time.

Churches ought to be well-filled tomorrow, one customer thought. People who forgot to change their clocks would be in church on time. Ought to make a great hit with the clergymen, he said.

Barber said it would seem odd not to hear the trains shrieking past the railroad station for an hour after 2 a. m. Some one asked him why he didn't move away from the station if he didn't appreciate the music of the big eight-wheelers.

Barber asked him if he knew of any houses to let in the city. That stopped him.

One jazz boy said he was glad there wasn't going to be any daylight saving next year. Dusk couldn't come any too quick for him. Always preferred to spoon in the dark he said. Wouldn't tell the bunch how he got that way. Barber said it's a gift.

Leaving the barber to his arguments, so to speak, we'd suggest that you turn your clocks back an hour before you hit the hay tonight. It'll save you all kinds of trouble.

Queer how a barber likes to argue, isn't it? Trying to explain to us today why eggs are $1.05 a dozen. Maybe tomorrow he'll tell us where all the sugar is. But he's a pretty good fellow after all.

AIR SERVICE INQUIRY

Further Investigation of Alleged Irregularities Begun Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Further investigation of irregularities in the army air service reported on at President Wilson's request by Charles E. Hughes, was begun here today by a special congressional sub-committee on investigation of war expenditures consisting of Representatives Fearr, Wisconsin; Magee, New York, and Lea, California.

Members of the sub-committee said the chief matters on which testimony would be taken were the exonerations by Secretary of War Baker of Colonel E. A. Deeds, of Dayton, Ohio, whom Mr. Hughes recommended be court-martialed and the construction at an expense of $1,000,000 of a railroad in the state of Washington for the purpose of hauling spruce for aircraft production.

Among the witnesses summoned were John D. Ryan, formerly head of the aircraft board; Philip Fleke of Harvey, Fiske & Sons, and officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad and others.

The ideal way of washing delicate things is the way The Eden washes every thing.

Washes everything without rubbing

The Eden

The favorite of thousands of good housekeepers because the big sanitary zinc cylinder of the Eden lifts all clothes, blankets and linens gently up and down through hot suds in the same way careful women wash their daintiest silks and laces. The Eden takes all the rub out of the tub and cleans everything better than rubbing.

The grimy overalls of the hard worker, the splattered clothes of the children or stained table linen leave the Eden as clean as new—with a much longer life ahead for not having been beaten and rubbed and frayed in the out-of-date washboard way.

airship in the world, now under construction in England, is expected, it was stated at the department today. Two and a half million dollars were appropriated by congress for the purchase of their ship and for the training of the pilots.

"The success," said the statement, "of the British in building and operating rigid airships, is proved by the trip of the R-31 to the United States and its return to England. While the Germans had many years start on the British, the latter have made a wonderful progress in the past few years.

The R-33 is 694 feet in length, 86 feet will look like the R-31, but her dimensions, horse power, speed and radius of action will be much greater. When full of gas she will have a 2,724,000 cubic feet capacity, which is 15 times that of the C-3, the United States naval dirigible that blew to sea and was lost last spring at Newfoundland, just after a record flight from Cape May and on the eve of an attempt to cross the Atlantic.

The R-33 is 694 feet in length, 86 feet in diameter, 33 feet 6 inches high and carries a useful load of 45 tons. She is expected to have a maximum speed of 60 knots.

The British air ministry has offered to train the personnel for the R-33 so that upon delivery the airship can be taken over immediately by an American crew and be flown to the United States.

MANHATTANS WIN
Strong Local Eleven Downs
Amoskeag, 18 to 6

The Manhattans, one of the strongest of the amateur football aggregations in the city, played before a large crowd on the old Fair grounds Saturday afternoon and crushed the fast Amoskeag eleven of Manchester, N. H., by the score of 18 to 6. Play was fast throughout and spectacular open field work maintained the interest of the crowd every minute.

McGlinchey, Ingalls and Anderson carried the ball across the line for Manhattan touchdowns, while Fox accounted for the only score by the visitors. McArdle, Manhattan centre, was a terror on attack and a giant on defense, time after time breaking through Manchester's forward line and stopping plays in their infancy. McGlinchey drove the team well at quarterback and showed a fine assortment of plays when directing his running attack.

The Manhattans are without a game for Nov. 1 and would like to hear from a manager of any local eleven. The following players have been asked to report at the club rooms tonight to listen to a talk with Coach Jake Moss: W. Dyer, L. Dyer, McGinn, Ross, Ingalls, McGlinchey, Heald, Hendricks, McNulty, Grant, Sweney, Sidley, Anderson, Cunningham, Regan, McArdle.

TARDY LAWYER WAS ALMOST JAILED

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Attorney Morris Green was late in the court of Judge Crowe. The judge fined him $5 for contempt and when the lawyer started to explain the judge threatened to tack on a two days' jail sentence if he didn't keep silence.

Those who have been able to catch sight of shells passing through the air have described them as appearing "like long lead pencils with indistinct blurred edges."

RANSOM PAID JENKINS FREED

Mexican Bandits Release American Kidnapped on October 19

$150,000 Turned Over to Kidnappers and Consular Agent Starts for Puebla

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Release of William O. Jenkins, American consular agent at Puebla, Mexico, who was kidnapped by bandits on Oct. 19 was effected by payment of the $150,000 in gold demanded by the captors, the state department was advised today by the American embassy at Mexico City.

The despatch did not make clear whether the Mexican government or friends of Jenkins paid the ransom. An inquiry as to this point has been sent to Mexico City by the state department.

Official announcement of the release of Jenkins was made in the following statement by the department:

"William O. Jenkins, the American consular agent who was robbed and kidnapped at a factory which he owns in Puebla, Mexico, on October 19, has been released, following payment of ransom, according to a message from the American embassy at Mexico City.

"The rebels who held him near Puebla demanded ransom of $150,000 in gold. The message says that the third secretary of the embassy, Matthew E. Hanna, who was sent to Puebla by the embassy, notified the embassy yesterday that Jenkins had sent him a message from within the Mexican federal lines, that the ransom had been paid to the kidnappers and that he was on the way to Puebla. The department is awaiting more details.

GIRLS DEFEAT BOYS IN PRIZE DRILL

More than 400 pupils of the Morey school this morning gave splendid proof of the worth of physical education courses now being given in the elementary schools by Major Walter R. Hayes, when they took part in an outdoor program of exercises on the school grounds. It was the first exhibition of its kind since the institution of the course and it gave evidence of much work on the part of Major Hayes, the principal of the school, William W. Dennett, the room teachers and the boys and girls themselves.

The exhibition was witnessed by Supt. of Schools Hugh J. Melloy and a number of principals and teachers from other grammar schools, including Mr. King of the Edison, Mr. Ginty of the Butler, Mr. Barr of the Washington, and Mr. Whitcomb of the Greenhalge. The program was carried out in the manner of an elimination contest which finally brought No. 2 company of girls as opponents to No. 2 company of boys to drill for the championship of the school. It was the unanimous decision of the six judges that

TO FIGHT "DRY" LAW

Second Step in Contest to Test Constitutionality of Prohibition Act

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 27.—Attorneys for national liquor interests were in Louisville today for the second step in a contest inaugurated Oct. 10, in federal court here to test the constitutionality of war time prohibition law and eventually secure the release for sale of 70,000,000 gallons of whiskey in bond, valued at approximately $75,000,000.

The preliminary skirmish contemplated arguments on a motion for an injunction against Elwood Hamilton, collector of internal revenue for Kentucky, which in effect would restrain him from interfering with removal of the whiskey, much of which is in Kentucky warehouses.

BABY FINGER PRINTS FINEST OF ART

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Baby finger prints on the wallpaper are the finest of mural art. This was the decision handed down in the Bronx municipal court by Justice Robitsek in dismissing a suit to recover alleged damages because a baby had embellished the interior decorations of an apartment by a frieze all its own.

"This would be a happier world to live in," the justice said, "if baby fingers could only make their imprint on the hearts of men and women. I would rather see the print of baby fingers on the walls of my house than have them adorned with the world's masterpieces."

READY TO MEET COAL STRIKE

Senate Discusses Situation—
Coal Miners Willing to Negotiate New Wage Scale

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Measures to meet the situation which would result from the threatened strike of bituminous coal miners next Saturday were considered today by administration officials.

No reply from officers of the United Mine Workers of America to the demand of President Wilson, that the strike be called off, is expected until after the miners' executive committee meets at Indianapolis Wednesday, but meantime officials took cognizance of the statements of union leaders that it would be physically impossible to withdraw the strike order by Nov. 1.

The administration's program for dealing with the situation naturally will not be disclosed until the strike has developed. While it is the purpose to keep a "strong hand" on the radicals, officials made it plain that caution would be exercised not to antagonize the more conservative element. In this connection they said that many of the miners' demands might be just.

"It is the means they use to obtain their demands to which we object," said one high official. The coal strike was discussed briefly today in the senate. Senator Thomas, democrat, Colorado, asked unanimous consent for immediate adoption of his resolution proposing a declaration of full support of congress to the administration in its efforts to meet the situation and to preserve law and order, but on objection of Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, the measure went over. Senator Borah said he was not willing to commit himself in advance to an unannounced program of the administration in dealing with the threatened strike.

Senator Thomas announced that he would call up the resolution again tomorrow.

AUTOIST IS ARRAIGNED

Driver of Car in Collision With Drunkenness

Rodman R. Blake of East Pepperell, driver of the touring car which crashed into a machine owned and driven by Albert S. Howard of the law firm of Qua, Howard and Rogers on the Lowell boulevard Saturday night, the story of which will be found in another column, was arraigned in police court today on the charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and drunkenness. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $500 for hearing November 21, following the statement of counsel that the persons injured in the collision would be unable to testify in court until at least a month had elapsed. Blake has furnished bail.

Larceny of Overcoat

After jointly pleading not guilty to stealing an overcoat, the property of Philip Breen, financial secretary of the Lowell K. of C., Saturday morning, John King, 30, of Philadelphia, who said he was a sailor on the U.S.S. Pennsylvania on furlough, and Charles Dupre, 15, of Fall River, recently discharged from the navy, emphatically told Judge Enright in police court today that "it was the other fellow that stole it." After hearing the testimony Judge Enright found both guilty and ordered King held in $300 for disposition tomorrow. Dupre's case was continued until Saturday for sentence.

According to the statements of Mr. Breen and other witnesses, Dupre and King appeared at the local headquarters of the organization Friday evening and explained that they were sailors on furlough, broke, hungry and out of luck generally.

Food and lodgings were provided and the following morning the pair decamped with Mr. Breen's overcoat. Daniel Quinn, K. of C. secretary, started on a hunt for the missing pair, and after locating them near the railroad station on Middlesex street, informed

GASCIENCIA IS GRILLED

Fiance of Murdered Woman Again Called in Before District Attorney

Andrew Gasencia, fiance of Mrs. Mary Fortuna, whose body was found in the woods of Lodge Hill a week ago yesterday, was taken to the office of Dist. Atty. Tufts in Cambridge this morning by Chief William H. Cullinan and Officer Canney of the Draught police, for the purpose of further questioning in an effort to gain some knowledge of the manner in which the woman met death.

Gasencia previously had been questioned twice at the Lowell police station, but not held on either occasion and the police would not divulge the reason why he has been brought in for a third time, other than to say that they are trying to eliminate all possible clues and persons.

The police were told yesterday that Gasencia was seen in the woods last Saturday near the spot where the body was found and when questioned as to his reason for being there, he is said to have replied that his interest in the case and his sorrow brought him there in an effort to find some trace of the missing clothing.

PLAN TO POLICE THE BOULEVARDS

Mayor Perry D. Thompson, in discussing the accident on the Pawtucket boulevard Saturday evening in which five people were injured, said today that after a conference with Supt. Edmund Welch of the police department held the latter part of last week it was decided to have members of the department's newly organized motorcycle squad on duty on both the Triniton and Pawtucket boulevards both on Saturdays and Sundays in order to reduce chances of accidents from overspeeding to a minimum. Although Saturday's accident was not due to overspeeding, it has been reported that a number of machines every week-end hit the pace much faster than the local speed regulations allow. The squad started its duties on both boulevards Saturday.

HUNDREDS VISIT GRAVE OF THEO. ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—New York joined with the nation today in observing the 61st anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt's birth. Hundreds journeyed to Oyster Bay to visit the great American's grave in Young's Memorial cemetery, while a varied program of memorial services was scheduled in the city.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the Women's Roosevelt Memorial association planned to raise a flag presented by Rough Riders, over the house on the site where Roosevelt was born.

STEAMER IN NO DANGER
BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 27.—The wooden steamship Lewiston, reported by radio yesterday in distress off Smith's Island, Virginia, is in no danger, according to the Terminal Shipping Co., agent of the vessel here. Advice to the agents said the ship had boiler trouble and that tugs had been sent for her assistance from Norfolk. The Lewiston was coming to Baltimore from Rotterdam in ballast.

CHILEAN WARSHIP SAILS

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 27.—The Chilean cruiser, Esmeralda, sailed northward yesterday and other units of the Chilean fleet are being prepared for sea duty. It is rumored they will follow the Esmeralda. This step follows insistent reports of a probable revolution in Peru and information that the Peruvian government is making military preparation in the southern part of the country for the alleged purpose of diverting popular attention from the revolt.

SCORES HURT IN PITCHED BATTLE

2000 Striking Longshoremen and Several Hundred Strike Breakers Clash

Between 50 and 100 Shots Fired—Sticks, Stones and Clubs Used—10 Arrested

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Scores of persons were injured in a pitched battle between two thousand striking longshoremen and several hundred men who were on their way to work at the Bush Terminal Docks in Brooklyn this morning. Between 50 and 100 revolver shots were fired and sticks, stones, bricks and clubs used by the combatants. Police reserves were summoned and 10 arrests were made.

The disturbance occurred at 43rd street and Second avenue, Brooklyn, and was waged along both streets for two blocks before it was quelled by the police, who used their clubs freely. One policeman was struck in the head by a brick and seriously injured. Of the 10 men arrested, two were taken to a hospital, while others wounded in the fighting were taken away by friends.

AIRPLANE ALL READY FOR "HOPS"

Airplane passenger carrying had to be postponed by Wesley Keough as his field off the Hood farm road yesterday because of the poor weather, but his outfit will stand ready for business on any future day, weather permitting. Bookings for flights may be made through Harry Pitts, Hunt street, or with Lewis Keough at the field.

Keough's Curtiss machine is one of the very best models ever turned out from the Toronto factory. The element of safety has been considered primarily and the machine always has been noted for its stability and smoothness of flight. Many people have remarked on the evident ease of operation and control and smoothness has been prominent in all of the aviator's exhibition work.

Persons traveling to the landing field by motor will follow the North Tewksbury road out Andover street to the end of the car line and there bear to the left on the Hood farm road and continue thereon until the sign pointing out the field is reached. Automobiles may be parked in the lane leading to the field, as it is only a few steps from the road to the machine.

FINE PRESENTATION OF "MY NEW CURATE"

With its own beauty accentuated by the skill of an unusually competent cast and the finesse that comes only from able direction, "My New Curate," the celebrated portrayal of life in Ireland in the latter part of the 19th century, from the pen of Rev. Canon Sheehan, was given a most sympathetic and intelligent presentation at the Lowell Opera House yesterday afternoon and evening by members of the Sacred Heart School Alumni in aid of the Sacred Heart Parish school fund. Two capacity audiences, each with a ready sense of appreciation, enjoyed the production.

The drama, for such it is, was produced under the personal direction of William J. Francis of Boston, a professional in his line, and the fruit of his ripe experience was a triumph of flawlessness. Lines were spoken without hesitation, character portrayal was pleasingly natural and the players themselves seemed to rejoice with the audience in the beauty of the whole. Rarely has an amateur company veered so closely toward the sometimes indistinct line of professionalism.

The cast of characters in the order of their appearance was as follows:

Father Dan Hanrahan, parish priest, James Edward O'Sullivan
Mary Miss Nora Linnahan
(The Blessed Orphans)
Mrs. Mary D'Arcy, Fr. Dan's sister and housekeeper Miss Hilda Noonan
Jim Deady, tiller and roofer, President of Holy Terrors James Kirwin
Beata Champion Miss Catherine Tansey
Fagan, an informer Fred Sharkey
Father Edward Letheby, D.D., the New Curate Leo G. Burke
Capt. Reginald Ormsby, an infidel John Ahearn

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, an old couple, Patrick Mullane and Miss Mary Ryan
Capt. Champion Thomas Kelley
Alice Moylan, a blind doctress Miss Alice McEneaney
Mary, her sister Miss Ella Cassidy
Nance, the outcast Miss Margaret Jennings
Hogan, a convict Patrick Mullane
Forelady of the factory Miss Grace Burke
Mike Murphy, a character Frank Maguire
Chairman of the Merchants Thomas Kelley

Merchant James E. Doherty
Merchant James E. Doherty
Diggs & Bros., the balliffs, Fred Sharkey and Frank Maguire
The Holy Terrors: Francis E. Clark, John J. Lynch, Martin C. Kennedy, James E. O'Donnell, George J. O'Brien, Howard Hartley, Frank Ward.
Peasant girls: Helen Mahan, Agnes McCarthy, Ella Donohue, Catherine Sheehan, Rosa Kigleina, Nora Sheehan, Mary Ryan, Margaret Kelley, Grace Burke, Helen Brady, Mary McPhillips, Hazel Kennedy, Alice Dooley.
Soldiers and fishermen: William J. Finnegan, Thomas L. O'Connell, James E. Doherty, John Barrett and Dennis Leahy.

A Woman's Hearty Recommendation
Worry and overwork cause kidney trouble, and women suffer equally with men. Miss Sara Weston, Belvidere, Ill., writes: "I could not stoop down and when I was down I had to crawl up by a chair. I was so lame I suffered agony. Now I feel like a new person, strong and better in every way. My general health is quite improved. I heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Pills to all suffering the way I did. They relieve dizziness, puffiness under the eyes, sore muscles, joints and rheumatic pains when caused by disordered kidneys. Burklashaw Drug Co., 418 Middle St., St. Paul."

because of its extensive popularity and the long time that it has been before the public. It is inoffensively bound up with the volumes that go to make up Ireland's literature of later times and readily lends itself to dramatization. The story, of course, is laid in Ireland. Action revolves around the coming of a new curate to the parish of Kiltoran, a curate with ideas of his own for the uplifting of the people about him. Supporting his ideas are quiet yet unyielding determination and an ability to grasp material advantages which up to his coming the parishioners had allowed to remain in somnolence.

He sees an opportunity to conduct

a fishing business off the coasts of Kiltoran and to carry out his purpose succeeds in having the merchants of the town subscribe for a new fishing schooner. This would give profitable employment to the men, he reasoned, and for the women he set about to resuscitate a deserted factory.

How he progresses in these plans, the mischief wrought by a "black sheep" in his flock, the near despair of the young curate and his renewed hope inspired by the example of the faith of unfortunate and afflicted members of the parish are the central illuminants of the production.

Collaterally interwoven with this main theme are sub-plots varying from the ultra-comic to the seriously dramatic. A pretty love affair which seems at first about to be dashed on the rocks of disaster because of the difference in the religious belief of the participants but which is finally settled in a happy manner, the conversion of several unbelievers, the activities of a crowd of patriots, known as the "Holy Terrors" and led by one "Jim Deady," tiller and roofer by vocation, and dare-devil in every sense of the word, by avocation, and the restoration of sight to a blind girl are some of the threads which run in channels subordinate to the central theme and which assist in making the play one of sustained interest.

The title role of the new curate was played by Leo G. Burke. Mr. Burke assumed the mannerisms, the pious demeanor and the unfailing earnestness of the young priest with a realism that seemed wholly unfeigned. He lent to the character a maturity that would seem impossible for any but an experienced actor and brought to his difficult task an ease of bearing and confidence of manner that found deep and constant appreciation in those that were privileged to enjoy his work. MORE.

Patrick J. Kirwin as "Jim Deady," the unfazed and audacious leader of the "Holy Terrors," and the champion of the new curate when the latter is deepest in the mire of his troubles, shared the honors of the male cast with Mr. Burke. His role called for continual presence on the stage, hard work and an ever ready wit. All these requirements Mr. Kirwin met ably and was heartily commended frequently for his skill.

Frank Roche as "Fr. Dan Hanrahan," the parish priest, also notable among the male characters. He presented the role of the aged priest with much sympathy and intelligent understanding.

Among the female characters, Miss Hilda Noonan as "Mrs. D'Arcy," the housekeeper of "Fr. Dan," was easily pre-eminent. Her role also called for almost continuous work throughout the four acts. In her love affair with "Jim Deady" she was especially good and her comedy did much to lighten the many serious aspects of the production.

Miss Catherine Tansey, as "Beata Champion," who is in love with an unbeliever and the daughter of a man who has been lax in his religious duties, was especially good. She lent real grace to her part and presented an unusually charming appearance.

The other characters, both male and female, were excellent in their respective roles and showed the results of months of training by their unfailing portrayals.

Rev. William P. Mahan, O.M.I., stage director, was responsible for much of the success of the affair and the wealth of detail which yesterday's production entailed was ably taken care of by him.

POINDEXTER CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington issued yesterday a statement that he is a candidate for the republican nomination for president in 1920 and will make an active campaign. In his declaration of principles, he says in part:

"The effort of certain radical leaders of labor organizations to secure control of the police force of the various cities of the country, if successful, would give to a small special class absolute control of officers of the law and of governmental agencies established to preserve the peace. Its success would mean the abdication of the government in favor of a class, and the immediate establishment of dictatorship. It should not be open for debate or negotiation."

"Revolutionary communism, by whatever name it may be called, must be met and put down. The attempt of certain radical labor leaders to coerce congress to enact legislation proposed by them, if successful, would be government by a class, as in Russia, and not by the people, as in the United States."

The Japanese never sleep with their heads to the north, but their dead are buried in that position.

THE STATE ELECTION

Week of Campaign

This, the last week of the state campaign, promises to be perhaps the most lively witnessed in this state for a great many years. Big campaign events are planned by both parties this week. Richard H. Long, the democratic candidate for governor, went to Washington yesterday to appear at the investigation into his contracts during the war as he claims he has been misrepresented. On the republican side the array of speakers for this week includes four governors of other states and many other eminent campaigners.

The eloquent Col. John P. J. Herbert of Worcester, former newspaperman, hero of the world war and former commander of the Massachusetts branch of the American Legion, is the candidate for lieutenant governor and not only is he assured of a united democratic vote, but it is an open fact that many republicans who have admired his work both abroad in the army and at home as one of the pioneers of the American Legion, are willing to endorse him at the polls.

Charles H. McGlue is a Lynn man and aspires for the position of secretary of the commonwealth. Although he is opposed by a man who has the advantage of experience in the work, Albert P. Langtry, nevertheless, Mr. McGlue promises to put up a strong fight and is receiving assurances of support from all over the state.

Chandler M. Wood of Winchester has several advantages in his favor in his candidacy for state treasurer. Paradoxically, one of his big advantages is his opposition. He is opposed by Fred J. Burrell of Medford, a young republican who is alleged to have been nominated because he bore the same name as the present treasurer. Many republican papers have come out openly in support of the democratic candidate because of the democratic belief that Mr. Burrell received his nomination due to a misunderstanding. Mr. Wood's election is already assured.

Arthur J. D. Cartier of Fall River is waging a most aggressive fight against Alonzo B. Cook of Boston for the position of state auditor. Mr. Cartier has had abundant experience to fit him for this exacting position and his friends are confident of his success. Mr. Cartier is due to speak in Lowell next Friday night.

For attorney general, Joseph A. Conry, one of the leading lawyers of Boston and a most capable speaker, who was heard here during the primaries campaign, will uphold the democratic standards in opposition to J. Weston Allen of Newton who has come into notoriety during the past week by his "heckling" tactics in the western part of the state. Mr. Conry should be elected by a sweeping majority as his superiority to his opponent is easily realized by anybody who sees and hears both men.

Getting down to the local contests, both parties are represented by capable men in those districts where there are contests. The fight which former Senator William E. Russell of Cambridge, son of former Governor Russell, is putting up for the district attorneyship of Middlesex county against Nathan A. Tufts, the present incumbent, is attracting more than the usual amount of attention. Mr. Russell is a capable lawyer and has a personality which wins friends easily. He has been doing a lot of quiet work in Lowell during the past few days.

Senatorial Fight

Those who have had occasion to travel over the eighth district during the past few days report a pronounced sentiment for Mr. Sparks, although his opponent, Frank H. Putnam, is to be disregarded at no stage of the game. The democratic vote in a solid phalanx is practically assured for Mr. Sparks and there are indications that he will make great inroads into the republican and independent vote. Voters in many of the towns are said to have expressed themselves in favor of Mr. Sparks and his home town, Dracut, is sure to give him a rousing vote.

When Senator Colburn defeated Mr. Sparks three years ago, it was a presidential year, and Mr. Colburn was aspiring for a second term. In normal times it is difficult for a democrat to "come through" handsly in a presidential year and it has always been the policy of the voters to give an office-holder a second term. Mr. Sparks cut down Senator Colburn's majority to a little more than 500. This year one meets many a former Colburn, supporter who has come out openly in endorsement of Mr. Sparks' candidacy.

How They Line Up

In view of the fact that practically all the candidates on the both tickets will come to Lowell between now and election day, the following summary of the candidates whose names will appear on the ballot election day will be of interest at the present time:

GOVERNOR

Democratic: Richard H. Long.

Plan B

Under Plan B the mayor has the power to nominate all the heads of departments subject to confirmation by the council. The term of office of mayor under Plan B is two years and the salary limited to $3000. With as many as six or seven candidates for mayor, splitting up the vote, it might happen here as it has happened elsewhere, that the most incompetent man would win on a minority vote.

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—A rainy day in this section has become such a common thing that the storm of yesterday afternoon was not considered out of the ordinary, but nearly everyone found fault with the thermometer, which played pranks during the day, soaring as high as 71, nearly touching the record for Oct. 26.

Dwellers in steam heated flats and those with furnace fires felt that the weather bureau must have got dates mixed.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 27.—Ripped olives, bought for a formal dinner in the Mt. Grosse Pointe hotel of Murray W. Sales a week ago Saturday caused the death of A. Ingersoll Lewis, Detroit capitalist; Mr. Sales' daughter and son and two maids. Bacillus botulinus poisoning, an infection usually confined to animals, had set in.

Anti-toxin rushed by special messenger from the bacteriological observatories of the University of Illinois, was administered in vain to the fifth victim, Miss Frances Sales, 22 years old, who died yesterday morning.

But it is believed this remedy will save the life of the mother of two of the poison victims, Mrs. Murray W.

Sales, who is seriously ill as a result of having eaten the tainted olives.

Dr. Francis Dunfield, president of the board of health, has issued an order prohibiting sale of canned and bottled foods prepared by the so-called "cold" process, and warning the public against eating such foods, particularly olives, corn and asparagus.

According to physicians symptoms of this rather rare poisoning may not develop until 60 or 75 hours after infected food has been eaten. Mr. Lewis became ill a week ago yesterday, dying early Thursday. Mrs. Cassel, one of the maids, also felt ill effects Sunday, but she died Sunday night. Young Leonard Sales died Thursday, and the other maid, Miss Manes, early Friday morning. Miss Sales had been ill since Wednesday afternoon.

"This case is very interesting from a medical point of view," said Dr. Jennings. There have been very few in this country like it. Until rather recently the medical profession has re-

Each victim died in the same manner, respiratory paralysis setting in at the final stage.

JAZZ VULGARIZES PATRIOTIC AIRS

DETROIT, Oct. 25.—Patriotic songs have been vulgarized by the injection of Broadway jazz, declared Prof. Percy Boynton of the University of Chicago, speaking before the members of the Detroit English club. He says every war produced noble songs, but that the world war saw only jazzy songs produced.

SERG. RUTH FARNAM WILL SPEAK HERE

Serg. Ruth Farnam, the American woman who was decorated by King Peter for her valorous work in the world war as an officer of the Serbian cavalry, will give an account of her experiences in Colonial hall next Wednesday evening. She was heard here about a year ago in Associate hall and thrilled a large audience at that time, but in order to accommodate those who were unable to hear her then a return engagement has been arranged.

Serg. Farnam was born in this country but with her late husband, Charles H. Farnam had toured European countries very thoroughly. She became interested in Serbia and served in various capacities when that country was fighting against the Turks and Bulgarians in 1912 and 1913.

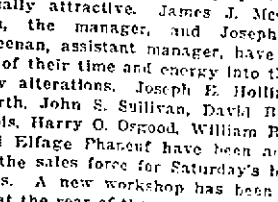

At the outbreak of the world war she sold her beautiful English mansion and turned the receipts over to a Serbian relief fund. In 1915 Serg. Farnam received the royal cross of the Serbian Red Cross for her work in fighting the typhus plague which killed thousands of people in that country. In 1916 more honors came to her for valor and she was made a cavalry sergeant and decorated with the order of St. Sava. She returned to this country in 1917 and took up Serbian relief work in New York.

The lecture in Colonial hall will be free to the public and a large audience is expected.

CHESTER CLOTHES SHOP

"A good impression brings more business" is an old merchant's advice. The Chester Clothes Shop, Inc., certainly has heeded this bit of wisdom if one is to judge by the well lighted and neat appearing interior of this store at 102 Central street. Work on the alterations of the interior and the store front has just been completed, and it is a pleasure to note the improvements thus brought out. An entirely new lighting system has been installed. All of the woodwork in the store has been newly painted in white with mahogany red bordering, which gives one the immediate impression of efficiency and neatness. The window display is unusually attractive. James J. McGuigan, the manager, and Joseph P. Queenan, assistant manager, have put all of their time and energy into these new alterations. Joseph E. Hollingsworth, John S. Sullivan, David Bourgeois, Harry O. Orsmond, William Riley and Elfrage Pharoah have been added to the sales force for Saturday's business. A new workshop has been put in at the rear of the store to accommodate the increased business of this progressive store.

PUBLIC DEBATE

Gov. Smith Agrees to Meet Hearst

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 27.—A telegram asking Gov. Smith if he would be ready to meet William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, in public debate Wednesday night at Carnegie hall was received at the executive mansion last night. Gov. Smith at once announced his acceptance, saying that he would meet Mr. Hearst "at any place."

A telegram came from a committee of New York citizens and informed the governor that if the debate is held he will be allotted one-half of the tickets. In a political speech recently, Gov. Smith, in replying to attacks which had been made on him by the publisher challenged Mr. Hearst to public debate. The message to the governor did not say whether Mr. Hearst had made known his decision.

THE REAL THING

When the next artist "sculptor" his next symbolic figure of labor, he might well take into consideration Mrs. Bridget McHugh of Wigan, Eng.

land. Mrs. McHugh died recently at the age of eighty after fifty years as expert "pit-brow" in the Pamberton coal fields. She filled mine cars with a shovel and she worked in all weather from 6 A. M. to 6 P. M. She died a grandmother with two sons employed in the colliery. Yes, the artist might mould a symbolic Mrs. McHugh with a symbolic coal-shovel up against a symbolic coal bank. If you come down to real, actual bona-fide labor, she had the right to talk about it.—The Nation's Business for November.

KING ALBERT VISITS ROOSEVELT'S GRAVE

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—King Albert of the Belgians placed a wreath yesterday on the grave of Theodore Roosevelt. Few saw the simple ceremony, for the skies were leaden and his majesty passed through Long Island almost unrecognized.

The king and the little party accompanying him were met at the gates of Young's Memorial cemetery in Oyster bay by Lt. Col. Theodore Oyster bay, who escorted the Belgian monarch to the plot where lies the body of the ex-president. Albert strode up the slope carrying on his right arm a huge wreath in the colors of his country—yellow chrysanthemums and dark red asters—fied with a wide black ribbon.

The king and the eldest son of the great American went along inside the iron gate which bars the way against intruders. The monarch stopped and placed the flowers reverently upon the grave.

Boys Head on Withdrawal

Then he stood for a few moments, cap in hand, gazing at the simple granite slab which bears the name of Theodore Roosevelt, bowed deeply and stepped backward outside the fence. There were tears in the eyes of the president's son as he followed.

The little procession led by the king, which included Rear Admiral Andrew T. Long and Maj. Gen. William M. Wright, walked slowly down the hillside and entered motor cars which carried them to Sagamore Hill. There they were ushered into the famous trophy room, where Albert was welcomed by the widow of Col. Roosevelt, who chatted with him in his own tongue.

At the house to welcome the king, besides the widow, were Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, Col. and Mrs. Richard Derby and Mrs. Charles B. Alexander. A few minutes later there came a call for the children, and Theodore's three, with Mrs. Derby's two, were ushered into the royal presence, to be greeted affectionately. The party remained at Sagamore Hill about half an hour.

The trip out and back, which was begun after the king and prince attended 8 o'clock mass at St. Albert's church, was not without incident and excitement. Once past the traffic in Flushing and on one of Long Island's famous good roads, Albert took the wheel of his motor car.

He waved to the motor policemen who piloted him to get a little more speed out of their machines and they took him at his word. They said afterward that their speedometer registered 60 miles an hour. The rest of the party tried with indifferent success to keep up. One after the other the cars in the rear came to a stop with flattered tires and smoking brakes. Prince Leopold changed machines four times, but seemed highly amused. At the last stage of the journey to the cemetery nine persons were riding on the car which bore the huge wreath.

At the outskirts of the village the king's car stood beside the road while he was strolling about with J. M. Nye, chief special agent of the state department. They waited some time for the others to appear. The return trip was a repetition of the ride out, except that it was made in even better time until a heavy shower blew up.

Animals Amuse King

Instead of returning directly to his hotel, King Albert and the prince kept on to the Bronx zoological gardens, where the largest bear in the world and its mate staged an impromptu family quarrel for their benefit. Leopold seemed much impressed with Peter the great, an enormous hippopotamus.

King Albert is taking advantage of his visit to New York to confer with prominent financiers and business men. He has no intention of attempting to loan personally loans for Belgium and that task will be left to his minister of finance, but he is attempting to acquaint those with whom he comes in contact with the needs of his country. As one of the king's aides expressed it, Belgium does not seek charity, but "a partnership in reconstruction."

CHANCEL WILL FORM BEAUTIFUL MEMORIAL

When the remodeling of All Souls church is completed the chancel will form a beautiful memorial to the life of Mrs. William H. White and her children. A fund of $10,000 has been placed at the disposal of the committee in charge of the remodeling of the edifice, $5000 of which was left to the church some 15 years ago by the late William H. White and the balance given by his two living sons, Edward L. and William T. White, and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. A. Kirk White. In leaving $5000 to the church, Mr. White expressed a desire that it be placed in the church in the form of a memorial, but owing to the unsettled condition of the parish the money was not used until the union with the Unitarian church became a reality. The chancel not only will be a memorial to Mrs. White, according to her husband's wish, but to their late daughter, Miss Maria Theresa White and their son, H. Kirk White, both of whom were much beloved at the old High Street church.

LOWELL GIRL MADE MUSIC SUPERVISOR

Miss Gladys Whitmore, of this city, has been appointed supervisor of music in the public schools of Winchester, Va. Miss Whitmore is well known locally, and has gained considerable reputation in the musical field. She was graduated from the Lowell high school with the class of 1907, and took a post-graduate course the following year. Later she was graduated from the New England Conservatory of Music and also completed the course for musical supervisors at the Lowell State Normal school. For the last two years she has been supervisor of music in the public schools of Augusta, Me. BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping, pain or any disagreeable effects. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c.

ARMENIAN CHILDREN DYING OF HUNGER

Declaring that fully 300,000 Armenian children are today homeless and starving, Dr. Lincoln Wirt, one of the principal speakers on the Chautauqua platform, made an impassioned appeal for funds to aid these little wanderers in "the land of sorrow" at Paige Street Baptist church last evening. Dr. Wirt's lecture was illustrated with stereoscopic pictures, many of which he himself took during his recent visit to the near east. There are 300,000 homeless children in the near east, said Dr. Wirt, who wander the streets in search of food which they never find and many of whom will die this winter. Help from America can save many thousands of lives by aiding now, he said. Dr. Wirt told of the efforts of the near east relief workers and pictures showed the martyred people trying to start all over again. In the hospitals and mercy stations they are making shoes and other things for the British army. They are returning to their weaving and trying to settle down to work. They are a proud race, said Dr. Wirt.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Miss Jean Begg, originally of New Zealand, has landed in New York for the purpose of learning the American way of imparting three R's.

Miss Begg has come to this country after spending nine years on the island of Samoa teaching in native schools. She is now taking a course at the New York School of Social Work. When she has finished there she will take post-graduate work in some American university, after which she will be ready to return to the field of her former activities.

PRUSSIAN METHODS OF COOLIDGE AND POLICE COMMISSIONER CURTIS TURNING FAIR-MINDED STUDENTS OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS TO SUPPORT OF LONG.

The following letter, written to Richard H. Long, Democratic Candidate for Governor, by Mr. Edward Moore of the Fessenden School of West Newton, Mass., is typical of a vast number of communications being received daily by Mr. Long, indicating the strong sentiments entertained by thousands of the thoughtful citizens of Massachusetts:

Honorable Richard H. Long, South Framingham, Mass.:
Dear Mr. Long—I am enclosing herewith a copy of a letter sent by me to Governor Coolidge, which I think is self-explanatory. But I not only want him to know, I want you also to understand that there are still some people whose opinions cannot be controlled, and whose convictions cannot be prescribed by executive proclamation; who believe with you that we can have in this beloved nation of ours industrial peace only when we have secured and established industrial justice, exactly as we can have political liberty only by securing and establishing political justice.
If the attitude of my colleagues is at all significant, and I believe it is, you will find Governor Coolidge on November 1st, the day of a man on the faculty here who voted for you last year who will not vote for you again this year. There are six who voted for Coolidge who will vote for you this year. Yesterday, one of the masters in the course of a conversation with some steamfitters just now working here, was told that, although Republicans on national issues, they were supporting you for Governor.
I note for some reason the papers (even the Democratic papers) are not giving your campaign the publicity and support to which it is entitled. It is my personal experience, though, that wherever you can get the truth and the facts before the voter, he invariably either expresses eagerness to support you or at least a reluctance to support Coolidge. In the latter case it is gratifying to observe the strengthening of that feeling of reluctance. I am sure that the real issues of the campaign can be carried to the majority of the people they will do the rest. Anything I can do will be done.
I feel that I ought to apologize for not voting for you last year, and I wish you every success in this campaign.
Very truly yours,
EDWARD MOORE.

Mr. Moore's letter to Governor Coolidge is as follows:

October 23d, 1919.
Governor Calvin Coolidge, State House, Boston, Mass.:
My dear Governor Coolidge—Let me begin by stating that I am not a member of any labor organization, a Socialist, or a Bolshevik. I am a New Yorker and a Republican and I voted for you for Governor last November, but I shall vote for Richard H. Long for the same office next November.

Indisputably the greatest and gravest problem before the people of the Commonwealth and nation today is that of economic and industrial unrest. I understand that Mr. Long has demonstrated his ability to solve the problem in his own factories, and believe his election will improve the situation in the State and nation. It is imperative at this time that we have men of his principles, faith and ability in our public offices. He was one of the first to institute the eight-hour day and other equalized reforms in his own shops, yet he continued to conduct his business, successfully and profitably, in fair and open competition with those who, from first to last, have opposed every measure for the establishment of social and economic justice. The latter, to a man, are your enemies in this campaign, and it is reasonable that if elected you would or could escape from their controlling influence. I commend to you the example of the man who, praying, said, "O Lord, save me from my friends."

I am of the firm conviction that "humanity and justice" are quite as much the concern of governments as "law and order." It seems to me that the one great lesson that history teaches us and the present condition is much the concern of governments as "Law and Order" reside upon a secure foundation only when they are established in accordance with the principles of humanity and justice. It is conceivable that you can enforce the former in disregard and defiance of the latter, but it is inconceivable that such a regime can long endure. I suspect that the Germans enforced "Law and Order" in Belgium and I believe that the Prussians at Police Headquarters in Berlin are enforcing "Law and Order" in Berlin, but it is inconceivable that the system will be long endured. It is clearly evident that when autocracy ascended the throne, the ordinary agencies of American Civil War in Boston, as in Germany, only by means of military force.

You and your commissioner are busily engaged in recruiting a new police force. Will this remedy the evil? What hope have you that the members of the new force will be less susceptible to the intolerable tyranny of an autocrat than were the members of the old force? Think you that younger, unmarried men of the old force (I prefer) will prove more tractable than older men with wives and families to support? But I am informed that a considerable number of the new force are to be veterans of the great war, injured to the hardships of military discipline and the privations of war. I can understand why you and your commissioner appreciate such experience, neither of you ever having had any. But have you reflected upon the fact that over two hundred of the "deserters" are also veterans of the great war? Does this suggest to you that the veterans of the great war are less sensitive to the oppression of the system they fought to overthrow than are those who like yourselves, paid the supreme sacrifice by remaining at home?

Who are these men you characterize as "deserters" and unworthy of reinstatement? Most of them have been patrolling the streets of Boston for years, protecting at their peril and for less than a decent wage, the lives and properties of her citizens. Many of them should be wearing wound stripes for injuries received in such service. How many of them have you chosen to follow in the performance of duty, however great the danger? Hitherto has any Governor for Commissioner had occasion to complain of their loyalty or devotion to duty? Your mind cannot conceive of the possibility that the "deserters" were not alone at fault?

Now, I am a teacher, not a statesman; but if I were to attempt to handle a class of twelve-year-old American lads in the same tactless, unscrupulous, high-handed Russian way as you and your Commissioner attempted to handle the officers of the law (indeed the law itself) I should expect to have a riot on my hands and I should not be disappointed in my expectations, either. I shall not be so unwise as to not also be so unwise as not to be prepared for the consequences. Such are the sentiments of one plain American citizen. I can furnish you with addresses of others; and if "that way lies treason," my dear Governor, in the words of another, "make the most of it."

May you get what you deserve on November 1st.

Very truly yours,
Mayhew E. Nash, Summer Lane, Framingham.

N. Y. Strike Causes Tieup in French Port

HAVRE, Sunday, Oct. 26.—The tieup of the French line steamers in New York because of the dockmen's strike here has resulted in great congestion in this port. All the hotels are filled with travelers, a large proportion of whom are third class passengers awaiting an opportunity to sail for New York. Their number is increasing daily, persons who had booked passage coming on to Havre from Paris because of the difficulty of securing accommodations at reasonable rates in the capital. They are but little better off here, however, for the room rents and hotel rates have kept pace with the congestion.

MEXICANS KILL U. S. AIRMEN

American Fliers Missing
Since Aug. 21

Messages on Plane Tell Horrors of Last Flight—19
Days Without Food

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 27.—It was officially announced here last night that Lieut. Cecil H. Connolly of San Diego and Frederick B. Waterhouse of Weller, Ida, army aviators missing since August 21, were slain in Lower California by two Mexican fishermen. The announcement was made upon the arrival here of the destroyer Aaron Ward, bringing the bodies of the two aviators from Bahia, Los Angeles, on the Gulf of Lower California, to which point they had flown after losing their way in a border patrol flight from Yuma, Ark. to San Diego.

According to Major R. S. Bratton, head of the military party sent from here to recover the bodies, the flyers were from a Mexican sloop. Their identity is not known to the United States and Mexican governments, and steps are being taken to capture them.

Tragic Tales of Suffering

The destroyer brought a part of a story of the suffering endured by the young aviators in the form of notes scrawled on the wings and fuselage of the De Havilland airplane in which Connolly and Waterhouse made their last flight. Some of these messages, evidently written while the aviators had almost lost hope of being found, were of such a tragic nature that Major Bratton asked the newspaper reporters to refrain from using them, out of consideration for the officers' families.

Major Bratton said that the two aviators had gone 19 days without food, or at least without much to sustain them. The fate that drew them far from their air path remained with them until the very last. Maj. Theodore Macaulay, in one of his flights to find them, flew within 60 miles of the spot where they stood guarding their plane. Later on the afternoon of Sept. 6 they were landed from a canoe on the shores of Bahia Los Angeles by the same fishermen who are accused of having killed them five days later, and at that time were only 12 miles from Los Flores Silver mine, where they might have received protection and food.

Messages Scratched on Plane
One of their messages, scratched on the airplane fuselage with a knife or nail said the airmen remained in the air four hours and five minutes, that they ran into a rain storm and lost their sense of direction. When they sighted the Gulf of California they thought they were flying up the coast instead of southward along the east coast of the Gulf of California.

Another message, traced on the wings and fuselage, told how the airmen attempted vainly for two days to catch fish to appease their hunger. They then started walking northward toward the border, but returned to their airplane in 36 hours when their supply of water became exhausted.

The airmen drank the water from the radiator of their plane. This proved sufficient to allay their thirst up to the time they were taken by the fishermen to Bahia Los Angeles from Guadalupe Bay where the plane landed.

For Arrest of Murderers

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 27.—Plans were put in operation today in Lower California, Mexico, as well as at Washington, looking to the arrest of the Mexican fishermen accused of murdering Lieut. Cecil H. Connolly and Frederick Waterhouse, American aviators, who flew into Mexican territory on August 21, and subsequently lost their lives.

The identity of the accused men is known both to Mexicans and Americans. It was announced officially when aviators were brought here on the destroyer Aaron Ward last night and comparatively little difficulty is anticipated in apprehending them today.

KING ALBERT FLIES OVER NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—King Albert of Belgium bade New York an aerial farewell today. Accompanied by Count Guy d'Oultremont of his staff and J. M. Nye, special agent of the state department, the king boarded a navy flying boat, piloted by Ensign Frank Lamb, and flew for nearly an hour over Manhattan and Brooklyn.

Later the king returned to his hotel and with the queen, Prince Leopold and other members of his party, was taken to the Pennsylvania station where a train was waiting to take them to Philadelphia. The party will leave Philadelphia at 6 o'clock for Washington. They are due at Washington to the home of Breckinridge Long, third assistant secretary of state, which they will occupy during their stay in the capital.

Reception at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—After being welcomed by Mayor Smith and a committee of citizens, the city's official reception to King Albert and his party today called for a drive from the railroad station to Independence Hall where every preparation was made to give the Belgian monarch and Prince Leopold ample opportunity to view the Liberty bell, inspect the Supreme court room and banquet hall, in the Ancient and Historic building.

After a visit to the headquarters of the Belgian Relief committee and the American Red Cross, it was arranged that the king should visit the great Fort Island shipyard and Queen Elizabeth go to Bryn Mawr college. King Albert was invited to christen the troopship Cantigny, which had been held on the ways a week, awaiting the Belgian ruler's arrival. It was said to have been the first time in the history of American shipbuilding that a man had been asked to stand sponsor for a vessel.

SIX SINN FEINERS IN DARING JAIL BREAK

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Six Sinn Feiners, including Commoners Stack and Healey, have escaped from Strangeways jail at Manchester. Being political prisoners they were allowed to congregate during the tea hour. One of them sprang at the warden and felled him. The others bound his hands and feet. He was gagged and thrown into a cell.

Meantime a rope ladder was thrown over the wall by some one standing in the street. The men climbed the wall, descending to the street by means of a wooden ladder on the other side. First notice of their escape was given by a woman, who was near the prison at the time. The people living in the neighborhood rushed out to see the men disappear around the corner of the prison.

BRIDAL SUBDIVISIONS AND ROUND HOUSES, FACTORY-HUNT, TO MEET HOUSING PINCH

N. E. A. Special to The Sun
NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. —

Round houses, made of concrete, each room a circular one, joined together by passages—as many units as you want for the size house you need!

This is the proposal of C. N. Wisner, designer of the Wisner homes, planned to meet the shortage of houses throughout the country, and to solve the problems of housekeeping and home sanitation.

Mr. Wisner says they will be noise-proof, rustproof, rat and insectproof, fire and stormproof, warm in winter and cool in summer.

REGULATIONS FOR EXPRESS PACKING

Steps were taken today by Agent Langley in charge of the city express office, to prepare for the new express packing requirements, which go into effect on December 10. He has been advising express shippers to study the new rules, which have been approved by the United States railroad administration, so that they be able to adjust their packing methods to the forthcoming new standards.

Under the new regulations, which are embodied in what is known technically as Supplement No. 5 to express classification No. 26, all shipments sent by express weighing over 25 pounds, must be packed in wooden containers, or cartons of fibre-board, pulpboard, or corrugated strawboard material of specified "test strengths." This means, according to Agent Langley, that after December 10, packages over the 25-pounds limit will not be accepted for forwarding by the American Railway Express company, handling the express business of the entire country as agent of the railroad administration, if only paper wrapped. Nor will ordinary paper boxes, wrapped or unwrapped, be accepted as suitable protection for these heavier shipments. The regulations, however, do not affect shipments under 25 pounds.

Regular shippers, Agent Langley stated today, will not be mystified by the new regulations, as they follow closely the packing requirements long in vogue in the freight service. The express regulations, however, allow a little more latitude in the size of the cartons used. The enforcement of the new rules was postponed until December 10, so that shippers would have plenty of time to prepare themselves for this change in express packing standards.

Agent Langley expressed the opinion that these new rules will not work any hardship on shippers, but should operate distinctly in their interest, as the rules will provide additional safeguards for merchandise in transit. Moreover, they will establish a uniformity of express packing rules which heretofore has been lacking. The new order does not affect the movement of food products by express, which are ordinarily shipped in crates or barrels. "We believe," stated Agent Langley, at central manufacturing stations. The three-piece unit room and hall will build one hundred different shaped homes, so that there need be no deadness to the groups of houses, as there is now in rows of rectangular houses.

"If square things are any good, why was there not at least one thing in all the world created square?" says the inventor of the round home. "Square rooms are often unsanitary, because they are hard to keep clean. Square rooms cost more and the price of square homes is advancing."

Mr. Wisner wants cities to start "bridal subdivisions" which shall contain his round homes, and in which newlyweds shall have the preference in renting the homes.

In explaining the new regulations, "that the shipping public will welcome the new standards when they understand them, and the reasons for putting them into effect. "Never before in the history of the country has the express traffic reached such proportions as it has assumed today. At the same time, there has been comparatively little increase in the amount of car space available for this business. We have been asked to carry heavier shipments and commodities of every conceivable kind. "Before the war, it was possible for car messengers to spread their freight out on the floor of the express cars without much congestion. Today we are running dozens of through cars between the big cities and everyone of those cars is packed to capacity. There has been a similar congestion in the local runs. "This has made it necessary for express shipments to be stacked. As a result, individual shipments have had to be strongly enough packed to be able to stand up for themselves, and owing to the lack of uniformity in this regard the new regulations were formulated and finally approved by the railroad administration. The stronger containers required, we believe, will very perceptibly help to improve the express service and to protect the miscellaneous articles of merchandise travelling through this channel from damage or interference on route."

An extensive educational campaign is planned to explain to express shippers how the new requirements will operate in the various trades which depend upon the express service for the movement of the bulk of their output and also to instruct express employees regarding acceptance of material for shipment under the new standards.

Agent Langley is able to supply shippers with copies of the supplement No. 5 to express classification No. 26, in which the new rules are outlined in detail.

SAYS 22,000 ON STRIKE

Claim of Insurgents in Ranks
of Striking Longshoremen

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Insurgents in the ranks of the striking longshoremen claim 22,000 workers in 24 locals today "officially" went on strike. Richard Butler, their leader, said that up until today these men merely had been taking a vacation.

T. V. O'Connor, president of the International Longshoremen's association, declared on the other hand the strike was breaking up and that fully 30,000 longshoremen would be back to work during the day.

The steamship owners declared they would hold no further conferences with the special conciliation board appointed by Secretary of Labor Wilson. They said attempts would be made to load and unload their ships today.

The insurgent longshoremen planned to picket the entire waterfront and their leaders declared efforts would be made to enlist the sympathy of the Marine Firemen's Union of Oiler and waterfronters along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

MINERS TO REPLY ON WEDNESDAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 27.—A "suitable reply" to President Wilson's statement holding the impending coal miners' strike to be not only unjustifiable, but unlawful, will probably be drawn up at the meeting of the international executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, to be held here Wednesday, according to William Green, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Green declined yesterday to comment upon the president's statement pending such action, further than to say that it is an impossibility now to rescind the strike order, effective Nov. 1.

"I suppose that a suitable reply to the president's statement will be drawn up at the meeting Wednesday," said Mr. Green. "The meeting has already been called for that date, but consideration of the president's statement will not be the most important business before the board."

INDIANS WIN AT MANCHESTER

The Indian second team went to Manchester, N. H., yesterday afternoon and in a hard fought contest defeated the Wizards of that city, 12 to 0. The two touchdowns scored by the Lowell boys came after brilliant dashes down the field by Turner and McEneaney. The former carried the ball 60 yards and across the line, while the latter recovered a wizard fumble and led the pack 40 yards to the second score.

Wilson Continues to Improve

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—"The president's progress continues as during the past few days, satisfactorily," said a bulletin today by his physicians. The president was expected to transact some official business today. He had a long talk with Dr. Grayson concerning executive matters, and insisted that he be permitted to see Secretary Tumulty. Dr. Grayson said he did not know whether Mr. Tumulty would place the prohibition enforcement bill before the president today.

The way it hangs

Half the effectiveness of an Overcoat is in the way it hangs. The fronts, the lapels, the sleeves, all seem to "flow" into the general lines of the draping; and the flare of the skirt simply carries out the effect. It is in these respects that

MUST GIVE DECISION IN ALL BOXING BOUTS

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 27.—Boxing contests minus decisions on points by referees apparently are on the way to complete extinction. Richard Howell, who recently was appointed boxing commissioner for Bridgeport, Conn., has at the outset landed a resounding thump on the jaws of the boxers who delight in limited decisionless bouts. Referees will decide on points at the end of bouts that last the official limit of 12 rounds, and champions with a studied disinclination to risk their titles in a contest to a decision doubtless will remain away from the Connecticut town.

Howell pays his respects to the decisionless type of boxer in the following straight from the shoulder language:

"The only men who object to decision bouts are the boxers and their managers, and their reason for objecting is that they can fool the public, and keep on boxing without fear of their official records being injured, knowing full well that a no decision contest cannot carry any weight in the record books. As a result of these no decision bouts our boxing records have become practically a joke."

"It is a deep and intricate game that is played in the boxing arena these days, but in Bridgeport hereafter clubs, managers and boxers will play the same fair or they will be set down for a suspension which may be final if their offences warrant that extreme action, for the boxing commission will be invested with the necessary power to suspend violators of the commission's rules."

Y. M. C. I. WILL OPEN BOWLING SEASON

The Y.M.C.I. will start its bowling season Tuesday, Nov. 5, and in its ranks will be found many of Lowell's best bowlers who, with the aid of a large number of returned soldiers, all star bowlers, should make this league one of the fastest in the city. The committee in charge is advising many of the old timers to get in trim, as many of the younger members have been practicing diligently during the last few weeks and chalking up some excellent scores. Many surprises are looked for when the league gets under way, even as it is the most important topic around the rooms.

The members of the bowling committee have secured a large number of good prizes which will be an added incentive for keen rivalry among the teams. The members of the committee are: John Martin, chairman, Leo Richards, Harry Mullen, Samuel Moss and Paul Farrington. It is a list of the competing teams, with the schedule for the first three weeks:

MOTORCYCLIST IS KILLED IN COLLISION

Charles Zinkewicz of Pearson avenue, Nashua, N. H., died at the Lowell Corporation hospital Saturday night as a result of injuries received when the motorcycle in which he was riding crashed into an automobile on the Nashua boulevard. His companion, John Tamionis, of 25 West Hollis street, Nashua, was also injured, but not seriously.

As far as could be learned the motorcycle, which was being operated by Tamionis with Zinkewicz in the sidecar crashed into an automobile owned by James E. Whitaker of 155 Summer street, Boston, which was stalled on the right hand side of the road. It is claimed that the accident was due to the fog although Whitaker claims that the tail light on his machine was burning. The two injured men were rushed to the hospital, but Zinkewicz, who was suffering from fractured ribs and lacerations to the left lung, failed to respond to treatment, and died three hours after the accident. Tamionis was cut about the face and limbs. His injuries are not serious.

SHOE SHOP STRIKERS TO STICK TO THE LAST

At a meeting of the members of the Allied Shoe Workers' union, who have been on strike in this city for the past 14 weeks, which was held Friday night it was unanimously voted to remain on strike until their demands of recognition of the union and a slight increase in wages have been granted. In the absence of President John E. McCallum a member of the executive board, Mr. Cookmore occupied the chair. In the course of the meeting remarks were made by Mr. Melancon of Salem and Mr. Hartshorn of Lynn.

One hundred years ago two men were sent from Torrington, Conn., to be the first missionaries of the Hawaiian Islands, then known as the Sandwich Islands.

BIG FOOD FAIR AT FAIRBURN'S MARKET

After weeks of extensive preparations and alterations, the Food Fair at Fairburn's market will be held Wednesday between 2 p. m. and 5 p. m. The entire floor space of this well known market will be turned over to the exhibition of the great variety of food and nationally known products which have made this market so popular as a food shop. This fair will surpass anything of its kind ever held before. More than fifty leading food products will be demonstrated at the various booths by representatives from the companies. Generous samples will be given away free to everybody and the housewives will receive many household hints as to the use of these different products. Elaborate decorations have already been put up by Charles F. Young & Co. and these add immensely to the neat appearing interior.

Under the capable supervision of Manager Leo Gendron, everything has been made ready for this mammoth food show and plans have been completed to accommodate the large crowd. In order to avoid overcrowding, everybody will enter from the Merrimack street side and then "follow the crowd." Music will be furnished by Markham's orchestra.

Two of the big attractions of the fair will be the opening of the new bakery and delicatessen departments where only the best and purest of foods will be had.

Such a great exhibition of food products has never before been planned in this city, and the main object of this fair is to bring the housewife closer to the many varieties of food products on the market today and to demonstrate the individual superiority of each one.

It is very hard to imagine the magnitude of this event but it will be very easy to attend, and this everybody is most cordially invited to do, keeping in mind the fact that they have a pleasurable treat in store for them.

Because of the short space of time to be given over to this fair, no children will be admitted unless accompanied by their parents.

THE FIGHT ON THE CLIFF

The dangers which our screen actors are sometimes forced to undergo to depict scenes necessary to the film, for example, the fighting scene on the cliff.

This particular event, which is really the tragic climax of the story, makes a thrilling chapter in the book, but depicted on the screen in Harold Bell Wright's famous book, "The Eyes of the World," at the Owl theatre next week, is actually stirring. It is a last fight on the edge of a precipice 2000 feet high for the girl who has been kidnapped and hidden in a little hut in the mountains. James Rutledge has kidnapped her and John Willard, an ex-convict, whom he has helped to free from captivity, is forced to assist him. Having safely conducted the girl to the hut in the mountains, Willard awaits the arrival of his master, Rutledge.

kidnapped her and John Willard, an ex-convict, whom he has helped to free from captivity, is forced to assist him. Having safely conducted the girl to the hut in the mountains, Willard awaits the arrival of his master, Rutledge.

Almost immediately after Rutledge arrives he sees the form of Aaron King, comes upon King on a dangerous ledge. Crouching silently, like primitive savages, they face each other. King has no gun and Rutledge is no coward, so they fight hand to hand. Several times their bodies entwined in each other's arms, they crash against the rock wall and away to the edge of the cliff. Breathlessly they fight until a shot rings out on the quiet air and James Rutledge suddenly loses his hold and tumbles over the side of the precipice like a fallen image. Who fired the shot?

URGES TEACHERS TO WORK IN MINES

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Male school teachers of this city were urged yesterday to petition for leave of absence and "take up the pick and shovel." If the threatened coal miners' strike went into effect, asserting that President Wilson's declaration in the matter was a "call to duty." Homer Gray, president of the Association of Men Teachers and Principals of New York City, issued a call for a meeting next Saturday to consider possible action.

"I summon all members of the association to show that we are men with red blood," he said, "and that we are willing, if need be, to make the supreme sacrifice to save America's destination, revolution and death."

Threat to Use Force Will Not Allay Crisis

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 27.—Prefacing his announcement with the statement that he had received no communication from government sources as to President Wilson's stand against the threatened strike of soft coal miners Nov. 1, John L. Lewis, acting president of the United Mine Workers of America today declared: "The widely heralded intimation that force may be resorted to will not serve to allay the crisis."

THE CHARTER

So far as Lowell is directly concerned one of the main questions of local interest up for settlement in the coming election is that of passing upon Plan B.

It is surprising that the legislature offered such a charter for adoption by cities. The general principle is right and that alone carries it, but this does not compensate for the absence of a provision for primary elections.

Suppose that under Plan B there were six candidates for mayor and that a total vote of 16,000 should be cast. Of that vote 8001 would be a majority and yet a candidate who received 2000 votes might be elected. Such a candidate could not be said to represent a majority of the people. That is one of the great faults of Plan B. A candidate with an organized backing would be likely to defeat the best man seeking the office without any organization. That defect is practically fatal. But with a primary provision added and more definite arrangements for the management of the various departments Plan B would be much superior to the present charter, in its fifteen members and the mayor, instead of five as at present.

The question before the voters, therefore, on November 4 will be whether to reject Plan B at present and wait till next year so as to have it amended and then adopted in the new form in which it would be a most acceptable charter. Between the acceptance of a defective charter and the matter of waiting another year to get it perfected, we believe the intelligent voter will have little difficulty in reaching a right decision.

TO REDUCE EXPENSES

The National Security league from its headquarters in New York is conducting a vigorous campaign in favor of the budget plan of distributing the finances disposed of by congress. The custom in the past has been to make out a list of appropriations in a haphazard way, each based upon the demand made by the backers or promoters of the particular scheme, but without regard to its utility or urgency as compared with other problems or undertakings awaiting public attention.

The Security league commends the action of congress in passing the Good bill, but insists that arrangements be made to prevent the United States senate from tacking riders to bills passed by the house, thus adding to the general expense and forcing arbitrary measures through under cover of others of general importance. The house itself has also resorted to this practice on various occasions as a means of getting through measures that it could not very well put forward independently.

There is little doubt that the budget system properly conducted would overcome much of the extravagance so flagrant practiced in the past and so malodourously referred to as "pork," meaning large appropriations secured through political influence for schemes in which the general public is not particularly interested. The expenses of government in recent years have reached such vast proportions that something must be done to reduce expenses and prevent waste of money upon projects that are of no benefit to the country at large.

It is estimated that the federal taxes are now pressing upon the American people to the extent of $300 per family. If as is predicted the budget system will help stop extravagance and reduce our taxes, then we should have it without undue delay.

WOMEN'S VOTE SLUMPS

It is announced that there has been a great falling off in the number of women who have sought the privilege of voting through getting registered in New York City.

We can hardly blame the women in view of the dirty and bitter political fights now in progress in that city. As contrasted with the figures for last year the registration this year shows a gain of 109,193 for the men and a loss of 44,788 for the women. In the negro districts of Harlem alone, did the number of women registered exceed that of the men. The anti-suffragists as a result of this

Well, it is very plain that those who have been granted the privilege and who fail to get registered do not care to take any part in the elections this year. The failure is believed to be due to local conditions which do not enlist the interest or sympathy of the women.

USING OUR FORCES

Prentice Mulford was born in 1835 and lived until 1901, most of his activity being as a New York newspaper man. His philosophy is simple version of Emerson as applied to material success, bodily health and the general conduct of life—a widely advertised correspondence school of salesmanship having taken its basis from the thought of Prentice Mulford.

His writings are for the most part in five small volumes under the general title, "Your Forces and How to Use Them," and from which the following epigrams were derived:

Thoughts are things.
When you think you are at work.
Evil of any kind is but temporary.

Peaceful thoughts are a constructive force.
A prayer is a desire expressed or unexpressed.

Poverty comes largely from a fear of assuming responsibility.
New thoughts and ideas bring new strength to both mind and body.

Good-will is the stronger force and will overcome the force of ill-will.

Expect nothing but health and strength—let them be your day-dreams.

Our bodies decay and lose vigor by thinking the same old set of thoughts.

Quarreling, angry argument and grumbling put out a silent destructive force.

Every discordant thought towards others is a sword and brings out a sword in return.

Every impatient thought or act, no matter how small, costs us an unprofitable outlay of force.

Your thoughts, outwardly expressed, act on others for or against you.

The thought of success in an honest plan of business brings an unseen aiding force to you.

When you fear misfortune (which usually never happens) your body becomes weak and your energies become paralyzed.

We are members of society all of one body; if one of that body is diseased of mind or body or suffer in poverty, all must in a way suffer.—N. E. A.

THE MINERS' THREAT

The soft coal miners to the number of 300,000 have declared a strike to take effect Nov. 1 to enforce their demand for a six-hour day and 30-hour week together with an increase of 60 per cent in their present wages.

They claim that these demands are made imperative by the high cost of living, asserting that their wages have not kept pace with the increase of prices. On the other hand the operators insist that if these terms were granted, the cost of coal would be increased from two to three dollars per ton and that the production would not be sufficient to meet the needs of the industries throughout the country.

If overtime were necessary, the miners would insist upon time and a half at least, so that the cost of production would be almost doubled. This strike if carried out as proposed, would inflict incalculable loss and injury upon the nation, and jeopardize the very existence of millions of people throughout the land.

President Wilson from his sick bed has sent out a firm appeal to the miners to abandon the idea of striking, branding such a strike as unjustifiable and unlawful. He points out that the war is not yet concluded and that in consequence rigorous methods may be taken to maintain the production of coal. Should the miners persist in their determination to strike. Should they decide to comply with the president's request the cabinet will at once appoint a tribunal to deal with the issues involved and to see that the miners receive full justice.

purpose to strike, the government might be obliged to assume temporary control of the mines and conscript labor to operate them just as men were conscripted to render service in Europe during the war.

A few more great strikes against the vital interests of the public, which should be held paramount, would alienate sympathy from organized labor and offer convincing proof that many of the strikes are instigated by radicals in opposition to the conservative sentiment of the unions, if not with revolutionary aims.

MR. GOMPERS' ACTION

Much curiosity is felt at the action of President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor in calling a conference of the 112 international unions affiliated with the organization.

Some fear that the intention might be to adopt retaliatory action against the employers who in the Industrial Conference refused to recognize the rights of organized labor beyond individual negotiation with their employees. But of this there is no probability as President Gompers would not favor any move toward intensifying the troubles of the present industrial condition.

More probable is it that this leader wants to bring about a strong opposition against the proposal in the Cummins railroad bill before the senate for an anti-strike provision.

He is known to be very strongly opposed to any action looking toward prohibition of strikes in public utilities such as railroads, street railways and the public service in various other lines.

On the assertion of this essential point turns the power of the government to control labor unions. While the power is vested in any organization to tie up the transportation systems of the country, it can bring about a situation in which the government would be powerless to protect the public.

The general strike is the favored weapon of the I. W. W., working through labor unions and breaking away from the control of conservative leaders. It is regrettable that Mr. Gompers who has always stood for sound policies, is so much opposed to a policy so very necessary to the effective functions of government and the continued protection of the public.

Henry B. Endicott blames the employers' group for the disruption of the Industrial Conference at Washington. Under the rule that a majority of any of the three groups could defeat a resolution, it was hardly to be expected that much could be accomplished. If as now proposed, the cabinet calls another conference to deal with the industrial situation and especially the issues that divide capital and labor, some basis of agreement may be reached that will secure for each the free exercise of the rights and privileges to which it is entitled under the constitution.

If collective bargaining can be reconciled with the open shop, we have no doubt that the employers would readily agree to it. But apparently they feel that the ultimate end and aim of collective bargaining is the closed shop. There should be some means of reaching a middle ground on which labor and capital could unite on this very important problem.

The extremists of the senate who talk of a filibuster to kill the treaty are assuming a heavy responsibility. With the country in an unprecedented state of unrest and turmoil the senators who would resort to such a course would deserve to be severely censured.

Apparently President Wilson's mind is as clear as ever, despite his illness. His appeal to the miners is proof of that. It is hoped that he will soon have fully recovered so as to be able to give continuous attention to the affairs of the nation.

Chandler M. Wood, democratic candidate for state treasurer, is assured of election as a result of republican support owing to the nomination of Fred J. Barrell by mistake for Charles L. Burdell, the present treasurer, who has served the legal limit of five years.

The army store will doubtless be well patronized in Lowell if the people find that it offers the necessities of life below the current prices.

The sugar ration is still awaited. When, where or how is it to be dealt out? The people want to get some as soon as possible.

SEEN AND HEARD

Well, how did you make out with the return to old time yesterday?

These fall days are getting snappier and snappier all the time until finally they'll snap into a snowstorm, we suppose.

With the almost simultaneous completion of two new bank buildings here, Lowell people should have at least aesthetic inducements to be thrifty.

Spud and Skate On

Sunday morning when the church bells were ringing in the quiet country town of Woodstock, Vt., noted for its beauty, sobriety and truthfulness, and the townfolk were wending their way churchward, a very unusual thing happened when L. A. Doubleday went out into his garden and dug up a potato with "a skate on." Especially startling was this these prohibition days. Years ago an ice skate had been buried where, last spring Mr. Doubleday planted his potatoes. One of the spuds grew on and around the skate. That's the scientific explanation; others insist you're apt to find anything if you dig in your garden on a Sunday.

By O. B. Jolly

Maybe you have wondered why newspapermen and good little boys never live to a ripe old age. Nobody knows why the "good die young," but we do know why editors and reporters grow gray prematurely and acquire worry-wrinkles long before they should adorn the face of mankind.

Things like this:
Comes a wire from Red Bay, Fla., which reads something on this order:

"Mrs. Oscar Bray of Ponca do Leon is the mother of five new babies; all living."

It isn't every day in the week that quintuplets make their appearance on this mundane sphere. When they do come it is a happening of huge importance, and we want to tell our readers all about it, how much the new babies weigh, how they look, etc. etc. etc.

How does a mother care for five babies at a time? How does father act, and who carries them around 'nights when they have the colic?

All right, all right; we'll find out, we said. And so we wired to Pensacola, Fla., bidding a reporter hotfoot it to Red Bay and call on the quintuplet at Ponca de Leon. As fast as train and automobile could take him he sped forth on his visit.

He got there.
The editor sat in his office feverishly awaiting the news from Red Bay.

It was like listening for the first news from a far distant battle front. Five in the cradle, and we didn't even know how many were boys and how many were girls, or whether they were all boys or all girls!

Gen whiff! Talk about a whirlpool of excitement and a Niagara of anxiety! Honest to goodness, folks, we already had picked out a bunch of pretty names, names that'd fit boys or girls.

And we were going to suggest 'em to the happy mother, although we (I'd of three at home) knew full well it is merely wasting time to suggest names to a mother who knows better than anybody else what to label the baby.

And then the wire came back!
"So far so good. Arrived in Ponca de Leon and found everybody getting ready to go to the Bray home to see the novelties. I went along with them. We found that Mrs. Bray has five new children, but she just adopted them."

Now if that isn't the easiest way to set quintuplets we'll eat our hats!

A perfectly good story shot all to pieces, not to make mention of a reporter's travelling expenses, telegraph bills and our having five good kid names on our hands and nobody to use them.

Lights

They are lighting the lamps in the fishing port, where the dories are anchored. A little moon hangs thin and sweet in the sky. The calm lights come as I pace the sea and I would they were calm for me.

But the cry of the past comes out of the vast like a signal light at sea.

The blue smoke curls from the fisher's hut; faint comes the children's laughter over the breast of the rosy bay. The yellow lamps stream out. Oh, the lamps are lit by the fishers' wives, and sweet with content they be.

But a light burns dim on the sea's far rim that was lamp and star to me.

Oh, all is safe in the fishing port, and kind are the fisherfolk. And sweet is the light of the sturdy smoke. Ay, hearty and kind are the fisherfolk—but how should they know how my thoughts beat back o'er the buried track of a ship long lost at sea?

TO ALL WOMEN WHO ARE ILL

This Woman Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Her Personal Experience.

McLean, Neb.—"I want to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women who suffer from any functional disturbance, as it has done me more good than all the doctor's medicine. Since taking it I have a fine healthy baby girl and have gained in health and strength. My husband and I both praise your medicine to all suffering women."

Mrs. JOHN KOPPELMANN, R. No. 1, McLean, Nebraska.

This famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, has been restoring women of America to health for more than forty years and it will well pay any woman who suffers from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness or "the blues" to give this successful remedy a trial.

The letters constantly being published from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Just shot this open season is that the hunters are confining their efforts to them almost entirely since the ban on ruffed grouse has removed that bird from the eligible list. At the present time our own county leads in the number of pheasants bagged, although the sport is good in Essex county and in Hampshire and Norfolk. The weather has been mild enough to keep the birds in this section. Quail, hares, rabbits and gray squirrels are receiving their share of attention although quail is protected in Middlesex. While native woodcock is very scarce, migratory woodcock is just beginning to make its appearance.

The yellow and white traffic signs in and near Merrimack Square are only temporary, the policemen tell me, and soon will be replaced by regulation standards which already have been ordered. However, these interim signs have done their work well and there is a practical absence of parking in Merrimack street between John street and the canal bridge at the Massachusetts gate. That is the one condition the square policemen first started out to create and today it is a reality. This traffic problem of ours is a condition which demands careful consideration and when it is known that 35,000 more automobiles traveled over the roadway of the state during the first nine months of this year than throughout the whole of 1918, its seriousness is more easily realized.

I happened to be on one of the special electric cars that convey the employees of the Silesia mills in North Chelmsford to this city Friday afternoon and indeed it was an interesting sight to see the many operatives rush out of the mill buildings in an endeavor to secure seats in the electric for the ride home after a hard day's work. I noticed that when the whistle blew at 5 o'clock several boys and girls were at the gate of the mill all in readiness for the homeward trip and they lost no time in getting aboard the specials. The Bay State Co. sends eight large cars to the village every afternoon and each of those cars bears a sign indicating just what route will be taken from Merrimack square and the operatives, as far as possible, board the car that is going their way, and that means that there is more or less of a scramble in the street, for the cars do not always occupy the same positions on the tracks.

While watching the crowds leave the mill it seemed to me as though most of them were young people and despite the fact that they had been confined between four brick walls all day, most of them seemed very happy. Of course there were some who seemed a little grouchy, while others showed signs of being tired, but as a whole they were a jovial crowd, for on the car they chatted and laughed heartily while relating incidents which occurred during the day.

It has been suggested that "traffic standards" should be placed at the junction of Moody, Dutton and Merrimack streets and also at the corner of Riverside street and Colonial ave. At the former place there is generally more or less congestion, especially when the high school pupils are passing, while at the corner of Riverside street and Colonial avenue there

DO YOU CRAVE SWEETS?

A Very Choice Syrup of Tempting Taste

The liking for sweets is a natural craving. The system requires a certain amount of such food. It acts as fuel. It builds energy. It maintains strength.

Domino Golden Syrup is different from any syrup you ever tasted. So good you can drink it—so wholesome you can eat all you like. And never tire of it.

And of rare "smack" and savor—flavored with just a dash of delicate cane taste—sweet—but not over-sweet—and not too "brackish."

A pure, rich, smooth, mellow, full-bodied syrup of a light golden amber tint. Of just the proper consistency—neither too thick nor too thin.

You will like it—on bread, cakes, waffles, biscuits. A table delicacy for every meal of every day. Ask your grocer for Domino Golden Syrup. It is made by the American Sugar Refining Company, refiners of Domino Package Sugar—Granulated, Tablet, Powdered, Confectioners, Brown—Adv.

AMERICAN PEOPLE ESTEEMED BY POPE

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Pope Benedict is greatly interested in the development of the United States and the manner in which this country handles its after-war problems. Rev. Anthony Bove, pastor of St. Ann's church of Providence, R. I., said yesterday, upon his return from a three months' visit to Italy. Rev. Fr. Bove, who was granted an audience with the pope while in Rome, arrived here on the steamship Regina de Italia.

The pope expressed esteem and love for the American people, said Rev. Fr. Bove, and was warm in his praise of the great liberty granted the Catholic and all other religions. The purpose of Fr. Bove's visit to Italy was to attend the dedication of the Flumicino orphan asylum at Rome. The people of the Providence diocese gave more than half of the money for the project, Rev. Fr. Bove said. He addressed the assemblage at the dedication.

WHEN A CHILD HAS CROUP

Thousands of mothers say Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is the best remedy for croup they know. It clears the thick choking mucus, clears away the phlegm, opens air passages and eases hoarseness. The gasping, straining fight for breath gives way to quiet breathing and peaceful sleep. J. J. McCall, Athens, O., writes: "We have home for years and find it invaluable for croup and colds—especially for croup for our children. We are never without it and cannot too highly recommend it."

LOWELL MAN'S FIANCEE ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

James Joupakakos, a farmer residing in Dracut, who had planned to be married next Sunday to Miss Georgia Paracatakou, of Dover, N. H., received word yesterday to the effect that his fiancée was at the Westworth hospital in Dover as a result of a self-inflicted bullet wound in the neck.

The young woman, so it was learned, shot herself through the neck yesterday morning with her brother's revolver and her condition is very serious.

Miss Paracatakou is 30 years of age and came to this country from Greece about a year ago during which time she has been making her home with her brother, Louis, at 4 School street, Dover. For some time past she kept company with Joupakakos of this city and the couple had planned to be married next Sunday, the ceremony to be performed at Dover. When the young woman was found with the bullet wound in her neck yesterday she was conscious, but refused to disclose the reason for her act.

MATRIMONIAL

Gagnon—Minault

The marriage of Mr. Edouard Gagnon of Portland, Me., and Miss Valerie Minault of this city took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at St. Joseph's rectory, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Charles Denton, O.M. I. The bride wore a taupe traveling suit with hat to match and carried bridal roses. She was given away by her father, Mr. Alphonse Minault, while the bridegroom's witness was his father, Mr. Pierre Gagnon of Portland. At the close of the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 346 Moody street, and later Mr. and Mrs. Gagnon, who were the recipients of numerous wedding gifts, left on an extended trip to Sherbrooke, Quebec, and St. Anne de Beauport, Quebec, and upon their return they will make their home at Portland, Me. Present at the festivities from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Blaine and their daughter, Miss May, of Natick, R. I., and Mr. and Mrs. Theophile McGee and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Minault of Fitchburg, Miss Clara Isabelle of Fitchburg, Mr. and Mrs. Hector Minault, Mr. and Mrs. Ovide Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Gagnon, Josephine, Bernadette and Elise Gagnon, all of Portland, and Maria Penas of Sherbrooke.

Kerwin—Mulvey

A pretty marriage took place this morning when Mr. John Kerwin, a well known business man, and Miss Bertha Mulvey, a district nurse, were united in the bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at the Sacred Heart church at 8 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Doherty. The bride wore a tricolor dress and carried pink roses. She was attended by Miss Helen Fitzpatrick, who was attired in blue georgette crepe and carried pink roses. The best man was Mr. Thomas Kerwin. At the close of the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mulvey, 40 Livingston street, and later the happy couple left on a wedding trip to New York, Washington and Baltimore. Upon their return Nov. 15 they will make their home at 715 Lawrence street.

RETURNED SEALED VERDICT

The jury in the case of Jacob Weinstein vs. Ali Mohamed, both of Winchester, returned a sealed verdict this morning in the sum of $114. In the case of Mohamed vs. Weinstein a verdict was rendered for the defendant. This was a cross suit brought as a result of an automobile collision which occurred in Winchester, Weinstein claiming damages to the extent of $1500, while the defendant claimed $1000. There being no other case ready for trial the court adjourned until tomorrow morning.

Girls Defeat Boys

The girls won the highest honors and were clearly entitled to the award. The program commenced at 10:30 o'clock and was preceded by a demonstration of the school's junior police squad. A dozen boys marched from the building and after taking posts at the school gate and at street crossings on either side, guided two classes across the street and regulated whatever traffic chanced to pass at the time. The junior officers did their work well and the pupils were moved from the immediate vicinity of the building without the slightest sign of confusion.

Nine companies of boys drilled on one side of the school yard under the command of Mr. Dennett, while nine companies of girls drilled on the other side under the direction of Miss Nellie Horner. Each company was marched onto the drill area by a cadet leader and each was put through the following program of movements and exercises: Fall in, right dress, count-off, right, left and about facings, mark time, marchings, squads right and left from line to column and from column to line, neck exercises, arm exercises and breathing exercises.

The judges of the girls were Miss Miriam H. Milner of the Normal school, Miss Katherine Cronin of the Girls' Community Service club and Miss Frances Leggat of the high school. The judges for the drill by the boys' companies were Major Jeyes, William Trotter, of the Courier-Citizen and Arthur F. Woodies of The Sun. The work of the judges was not easy by any means, for the companies averaged up exceedingly close and it was only after careful consideration that No. 2 company of boys and girls were picked to oppose each other for the school honors.

Theodore Roosevelt

Was born 61 years ago today.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

AN APPRECIATION

President of the Roosevelt Memorial Association.

The highest tribute that can be paid to the memory of Theodore Roosevelt on this, his birthday, is to say that he was the friend of all humanity.

A thorough American, whose love for his country and its institutions and people, was second to that of no man who has given his devotion to this, our land, Theodore Roosevelt was nevertheless the friend of all humanity.

Because Roosevelt served as an inspiration for all classes and conditions of his countrymen, he is believed as the ideal by men of differing political, economic and social views.

The champion of the oppressed, the exponent of the clean life, the advocate of the square deal to rich and poor alike in every situation in life, Roosevelt's life and example will go down the ages as one of the most precious heritages of America and her people.

That is why the Roosevelt Memorial association, composed of men and women in every state of the Union who knew and loved Theodore Roosevelt, is planning to perpetuate the respect and affection for the Great American we have lost.

Continued

This evening a big mass meeting will be held at the community service club in Dutton street to do honor to the memory of Roosevelt, as well as to bring to a close the Roosevelt Memorial Fund campaign, which started here last week.

Today's exercises were strictly informal, but none the less impressive because of that fact. At the high school the students gathered in their "home" rooms at 11 o'clock and under the direction of the various teachers carried out fitting and appropriate exercises. Readings from the works of Mr. Roosevelt, a discussion of the achievements of his life and the reading of poems which have been written about him were the salient features of the observance. The students were also given an opportunity to contribute to the memorial fund for the erection of a structure in honor of the late president.

Similar exercises were carried out and many of the teachers had their pupils sing Mr. Roosevelt's favorite hymn, "How Firm a Foundation." These children were also given an opportunity to contribute to the fund and the total which will be realized from the schools is expected to be a very substantial one.

special services were held in memory of Mr. Roosevelt and the singing of his famous hymn was again the feature in a number of instances.

But the really big feature of the entire observance will come in the hall of the Community Service club in Dutton street this evening when a mass meeting open to the general public will be held and a final effort made to send Lowell over the top with her quota of $10,000.

The affair will be known as "Roosevelt night" and will be held under the general auspices of the local post of the American Legion. It will be the legion's first public meeting and the members have made supreme efforts to have it a success.

Preceding the mass meeting will be a community sing from 7:30 to 8 o'clock to which the public is also cordially invited. John Wilson Hughes, a Lowell man, has been secured to lead the singing and the Salvation Army band is expected to furnish other musical features. Patriotic members will predominate the program as befits the occasion.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the mass meeting will open and the principal speaker will be George Delgaty, chairman of the New England and northern

New York district of the Roosevelt Memorial association. Mr. Delgaty has an excellent reputation as a speaker and his knowledge of the details planned by the association for the erection of a fitting memorial to the late president is expected to result in a most interesting address. The committee is also working hard to have Brig. Gen. E. Leroy Sweetser present at the meeting but at the present writing definite assurances that he could come had not been received.

Mayor Perry D. Thompson will preside at the meeting and will also speak briefly on the importance of general support of the memorial fund campaign.

There will be no admission charge and the American Legion urges everyone in Lowell who can possibly do so to be present at its "coming out" public meeting.

The tag day held Saturday in aid of the fund netted a total of $470, according to the figures given out by C. H. Hobson, treasurer of the campaign. Nearly 70 boxes were turned in by the young women solicitors and all of them had large quantities of small change. Few large contributions were noted.

How to Banish Wrinkles and Crow's Feet Quickly

If your face is disfigured with wrinkles, no matter what the cause, you can quickly dispel every line, even the most obstinate, by using a simple, home-made wash lotion. Merely dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of water. Bathe the face in this, and— presto!—you scarcely believe your own eyes when you look into your mirror and behold the marvelous transformation!

The remarkable astringent action of the saxolite so tightens the skin, wrinkles are literally pressed out. Best of all, this result is not purely temporary, for the lotion also has a healthful tonic action, which tends to strengthen and tone up the weakened tissue, and added benefit may be expected with continued use. Use this once a day for awhile; it cannot injure the most delicate skin. The treatment itself leaves no trace—no one guesses the secret of your increasing youthful appearance.

LOWELL HARVARD MEN CONTRIBUTE

Lowell's Harvard graduates have contributed a total of $985 to the endowment fund for Harvard college, which opened a country-wide drive for $15,250,000 three weeks ago, according to Fred C. Weld, '36, chairman of the North Middlesex county district. Mr. Weld states that the Spindle City's former alumni members are showing a great interest in the campaign, and that the results in the city have been most satisfactory to date.

The purposes of the fund are to make possible an increased salary for the professors; enlargement of the medical and dental schools; increasing the facilities of the Widener library; and to build up and increase the efficiency of the engineering school.

Progressive Leader Declares for Long

Hon. Chester R. Lawrence, who was Progressive Candidate for Governor of Massachusetts in 1916 and 1917, has written a letter to Richard H. Long, Democratic Candidate for Governor, pledging him his hearty support and condemning Governor Coolidge for his action in the Boston Police Strike.

Mr. Richard H. Long, Democratic Candidate for Governor, Boston, Mass.,

Dear Sir—Although in my opinion Governor Coolidge was legally right in the policeman's strike and the policeman absolutely without excuse for their action, the Governor did not manifest the right spirit in the matter.

Law alone will never save the world. It has been tried alone and has failed. Germany, who had the best laws of any nation on earth, set out to destroy the world, if need be, to rule it. The right spirit of man must prevail with the law, or the law will not prevail. We now have more law than we know what to do with, yet we are more anarchic now in the world than ever. Why? Because the right spirit is lacking. Where the right spirit accompanies the law, the law is better upheld; where it does not, there is more or less lawlessness.

In my opinion Governor Coolidge failed to manifest the right spirit when he ignored the Mayor of the people of Boston—the people most concerned in this vital issue; and also when he refused to even consider the report of the Committee of 34 reputable citizens appointed for the purpose of settling this dispute, and again when he failed to remove summarily Commissioner Curtis, who in my judgment, manifested even less of the right spirit than even the Governor himself. Any man at the head of a group of men who would, as did Commissioner Curtis, use public menace to intimidate and practically calling many of the police, judges and lawyers immediately upon assuming office and authority over them, in my opinion, no man to be at the head of the police or any other group of men. He secured the disrespect and even the hatred of many of the men right at the start by the issuance of this public manifesto; and I defy any man who assumes a like attitude toward men to be able to handle those men satisfactorily, especially in these democratic times. Those sort of men, with the Kaiser, kings and autocrats, are out of date.

I am making no apologies for the policemen. They were "dead in the wrong," with no excuse to offer, but I feel sure that this strike this disgrace to the city of Boston, would never have been written in history had the right spirit been manifested.

I shall vote for you and get all the friends possible to do the same. I feel sure that this strike would never have happened had you been the Governor of the State for I am certain that you would have manifested the same spirit in this crisis as you have shown in the handling of the men in your own employ. I understand that you have never had a strike among your men. Some executives over men have strikes and others do not. On general principles I am with the one who has the better of these records on his side. I am with the man who by the manifestation of the right spirit toward men can avert strikes. You have accomplished this and I notice that in almost every instance that the employer who has had no strikes to his debit is the one who shows the right spirit toward his men—the get-together spirit—the talk-it-over spirit.

And, furthermore, no man gets my vote for Governor who is so big that he practically ignores the Mayor of the people most concerned in a great crisis like this, and even too big to even consider a report of 34 reputable citizens appointed for a serious purpose. Such a man, in my opinion, is too big to be the Governor of the State of Massachusetts. We must have bigger men for that office.

Although I do not agree with all your plans, I am with you regarding most of them. You will get my vote and I will do my best to get you others. I hope that you will be elected and I think that you will manifest the same spirit that you have always shown in the past. I predict that you will be our next Governor, and that you will make a good one, too.

Yours very truly,
CHESTER R. LAWRENCE.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

B. F. KEITH THEATRE

Inasmuch as we all like to listen to money talk, and inasmuch, also, as money talks pretty loud, when you have it, it wouldn't be amiss to go to the B. F. Keith Theatre, this week, and see "$5000 a Year," a brand new farce based on a man's ability to spend more than he makes, and in which Robert Hyman and Virginia Mann will have the leading parts. One thing it shows very conclusively, and that is the fact that a man who has a salary of $5000 a year has so many social and business obligations to carry that his salary is almost never quite enough to carry him through. A woman's intuition played against a man's business "hunch" shows that the woman possesses something that can't be bought with dollars and cents. Her intuition surely does win out.

And another fine act for this week will be the gloom-killing scream put forward by Kellam and O'Dare. This is rated as one of the funniest acts Boston ever saw. It played there last week, and was the linchpin of a bill of fine things. Kellam and O'Dare have a whimsical method of touching one's funny bone. They never fail. They will rouse the most fatigued audience into a state of abandon. The saxophone is capable of making good music. Four of the instruments can do a specially good job, and that's why Tom Brown has framed an act for the Sterling Saxophone Four. These merry men not only play their pipe-shaped instruments, but they also offer a very superior brand of general entertainment. There is nothing better on the circuits than what they give.

MISS E. DESGROSEILLIERS

From the age of nine years, I had never enjoyed good health. I was always feeling weak, suffered from violent headaches, sore back, insomnia. My nerves were unstrung, my digestion upset and besides I was suffering from bronchitis and coughed a great deal. Knowing that some of my friends had been made well by the use of RED PILLS, and on their advice and recommendation, I started to take them regularly; eighteen boxes operated a marvelous change for the better, and I am now well and as healthy as my other sisters, who have such great confidence in this remedy that they now take RED PILLS whenever they feel they need a good tonic.

Do you know Columbia and Victor? Of course you have heard of those two famous talking machines, but did you ever see them figure in a little play? Eddie Barto and Florence Clark will show just how a talking machine can be made into a place where sparkling comedy and likable music are given. This is the newest of vaudeville novelties, and it is sure of a rousing reception. The artists do not stop at that, however. They are scarcely more than mere girls now, and they can still make an audience hush with their melodious voices. What a charming voice, youthful and yet showing evidences of much good training. A good tennis player is, in a sense, a good juggler. Victor Maynard, who will appear in "All the Tennis Courts," songs and dances and an interesting routine will be offered by this pair. In addition they will bring the "Complex of the Day," a Bruce Scenic picture and the News Klograms.

THE STRAND

"Lombardi, Ltd.," with Bert Lytell in the starring role, will be the big attraction at "The Strand" for the first three days of the week, beginning with matinee today. The superb production is one of the biggest and best of its kind that the screen has given the public in seasons. Lytell plays the role of the male model and supermodel, who are glorious girls. Gorgeous Gowns! Gales of giggles and then some. If you women folk want an idea of what the latest fashion in popular dress creations, including lingerie, is to be, then don't miss "Lombardi, Ltd." and when you wish to see all of the—Oh, well, come and see for yourself.

There is Alice Joyce in "The Winchester Woman," another excellent picture, as well as a good comedy and the best Weekly yet produced. You can't afford to miss this exceptional bill. Come early and avoid the crush.

OPERA HOUSE

"A Woman at Bay," the great dramatic hit of recent date penned by Dorothy Potter and Mable S. Keightley, which is to be the week's presentation at the Opera House, by the Lowell Players, beginning with matinee today gives every promise of serving the wants of the patrons in the same satisfying and finished manner as the former efforts by this exceptionally clever company of actors and actresses. It may not be amiss to repeat at this time that the Lowell Players, which Mable S. Keightley and Mable S. Keightley have secured for the season's engagement here, rank with the very best stock companies in the east. Fair and impartial criticism by those in a position to judge, unhesitatingly proclaim them the best balanced and clearest aggregation of stock stars that this section has enjoyed in seasons. The play for the week is a pure, red-blooded American drama, telling a story that grips the heart strings and holds interest from beginning to end. It tells of a man who, in a desperate struggle, helps a desperado to escape the strong arm of the law, and in later years, when she is happily married in another section of the country, this same man, in a desperate manner, comes to her and threatens to expose her husband.

SAYS R. R. MEN WILL NOT OBEY ANTI-STRIKE LAW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Timothy Shea gave notice to congress last night that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, of which he is acting president, would not observe pending anti-strike legislation if enacted into law.

Such an attempt to single out railroad employees and deprive them of what he termed the economic right of workers to strike to prevent injustice, must be accepted, he said, in connection with other information which the railroad brotherhoods have, as a foregone conclusion that the railroads contemplate a general reduction in wages when the government surrenders control and desire such a measure to forestall a strike.

"If these interests or the legislators believe railroad employees will unsistingly submit to any such invasion of their rights as citizens," Mr. Shea continued, "they had better expect that thought from their lips, because I believe I speak for locomotive firemen and hostlers at least when I say that any law which deprives them of the rights of American citizenship would not be observed, not because this class of American citizens are lawbreakers, but because such a law would be un-

Mr. Shea said such a law was almost certain to precipitate revolution and was, in fact, just what extreme radicals and revolutionary agitators desire.

"This would give them logical argument for direct action," he asserted, "with the intention of displacing the liberal and more conservative leaders and thereby overthrowing the existing social, political and industrial institutions of the country."

"If an anti-strike law is enacted, the responsibility for any upheaval which might follow lies with congress."

Mr. Shea's statement was prompted by the publication of his recent testimony before the railroad wage board, in which he said the railroad employees

Long to Demand Opportunity to Refute Charges on War Contracts

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—Richard H. Long, suspending the scheduled activities of his campaign as the democratic candidate for governor, started for Washington yesterday afternoon to demand an opportunity to meet the charges being made before a congressional committee concerning his government war contracts.

Preceding him to Washington was a telegram in which he announced his coming and called upon Congressman William J. Graham, chairman of the committee, to "bring out the truth and stop your political trickery."

To meet him face to face
"I want to meet this man Graham face to face and demand the right to refute the scandalous lies that are being put before his committee," he said just before he left for Washington. "I feel that the whole state and nation will demand that this just republican committee see that this request is granted."

His telegram to Congressman Graham was as follows:
"I shall be in Washington Monday to refute the malicious and false statements concerning contracts made for political purposes just before election to save Coolidge from defeat. I demand that you show prices of my contracts and those of competitors, which will show that I saved the government millions of dollars. Bring out the truth and stop your political trickery. You are not fooling the public. Massachusetts voters will not be deceived by your unfair attack on a Massachusetts man who gave up his regular business and devoted his entire resources to help win the war without regard to personal gain. Why did you, a republican, publish an attack on a democratic running for governor and say nothing about the republican contractors? Why did you not publish the truth of the American Woolen company profits and the $18,600,000 advanced by the government to that company, one of the big interests supporting Coolidge? I am breaking political engagements. Please arrange for a hearing for me Monday."

Maj. Grant L. Dodge of Oxford, a manufacturer, who, during the war was inspector of goods produced for the government in 130 Massachusetts factories, will defend Mr. Long's actions relative to the contracts which he handled for the government.

Surrounded by the impressiveness of 1200 brothers marching unflinchingly in the pouring rain in order to honor the memory of their departed, the unending and dedication of the monument of Lowell Aerie 223, Fraternal Order of Eagles, in St. Joseph's cemetery yesterday afternoon was a real success despite the unfavorable weather.

MONUMENT DEDICATED

BY LOWELL EAGLES

At 1.30 o'clock the line of marchers headed by the Eagles' band. Brother James W. Buckley, director, marched from Middle street into Central and up Gorman to the cemetery. The rain came heavier and heavier as the marchers progressed, but not one fell out of the ranks.

At the cemetery appropriate exercises were held despite the downpour. Following a selection by the band, Rev. Aurelian Merrill, O.M.I., of St. Joseph's parish, offered prayer for the departed members of the order. The principal speaker was William L. Gleason, mayor of Brockton and a member of the state board of trustees of the Eagles. He brought out the intrinsic meaning of the dedication, the exemplification of the tender respect and thoughtfulness of the Eagles for their departed members, and said that even in death members of the order are not forgotten by their brothers. His address was a tender tribute and deeply impressed those who heard it.

The honor of actually unveiling the large monument surmounted by a life-size bronze eagle, fell to Miss Mary A. Hackett, daughter of the worthy president of the local aerie, David J. Hackett. The closing number was an original selection by the band.

Following the exercises at the cemetery the members marched back to their rooms and enjoyed refreshments and a social hour. The program included remarks by Mayor Gleason, Hon. John T. Sparks, Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy, Commissioner Geo. E. Marchand and George H. Brown, solos by Commissioner James E. Donnelly, Brother James W. Buckley, Bro. William Reilly, Bro. Fred Marcotte, Bro. Joseph Martin, Bro. Gleason, Bro. Smith, Bro. Freeman and Bro. Grady.

The committee in charge was as follows:

Worthy President David J. Hackett, chairman; Vice President James J. Bowen, Chaplain James J. Rourke, Treasurer William J. Mack, Recording Secretary Martin J. Crowe, Financial Secretary John M. Hogan, James J. Ward, T. J. Collins, W. J. Durham, T. F. Barry, John O'Loughlin, John J. Driscoll, George W. Raine, Omar Larue, George Messian, A. St. Onge, T. F. Quinn, Harvey Ames, P. F. Grady, Joseph Hughes, George Carey, R. J. Flynn, W. F. Carey, John A. Calin, Edward Flanagan, C. T. O'Keefe.

NOT EVENLY MATCHED

An automobile truck owned by the Lowell Storage Battery service crashed into a passenger car, the property of P. C. Brennan, which was standing in Hampshire street Saturday night. The rear of the gasoline tank and the right rear mudguard of the Brennan machine were ripped off, while the truck suffered a bent axle. The driver of the truck claims the accident was due to the fact that there was no tall light on the touring car.

Six persons were seriously injured, two automobiles practically demolished and a third practically so, in a head-on collision on the upper boulevard near the pumping station late Saturday night.

The injured are: Mrs. C. C. Sibley, wife of C. C. Sibley of the United States Cartridge Co., dislocated hip and compound dislocation of right leg; Albert S. Howard, of the law firm of Qua, Howard & Rogers, sprained wrist and cuts on hip and face; Mrs. Howard, multiple body bruises and severe nervous shock; Adolphe Walker, East Pepperell, four fractured ribs, and Stephen Dee, Nashua, N. H., cuts on face and head.

The crash occurred in the fog while the Lowell people were returning from the Vesper-Country club in Mr. Howard's machine. The other car, driven by Rodman R. Blake of East Pepperell, was running toward Nashua, and, according to occupants of the Howard car, suddenly appeared out of the fog, swerved across the road and catapulted into the Lowell-bound car, head on. Blake was arrested shortly after the accident by Sgt. Frawley of the local police and after being taken to the station was released on $500 bail.

While the ambulance was standing at the side of the wrecked machines and preparing to carry the injured to a hospital, another car shot out of the fog, turned sharply to avoid striking the ambulance and collided with a machine driven by R. F. Norwood of Winthrop. This car was driven by Omar Bineault, who claimed to be a chauffeur for Judge Thomas Wright of the Lowell police court but the car was not the judge's, and it was later found that Bineault was regularly employed by Mrs. S. P. Bromley-Shepard. The Winthrop car was badly damaged in this second crash.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard were taken home yesterday, although Mrs. Howard was confined to her bed, while Mr. and Mrs. Sibley were held at the Lowell General hospital as their injuries were more serious.

Three Rallies in Interest of State Ticket Held Here Saturday Night

Three well attended rallies staged by the Lowell Long campaign committee in the interest of the candidacy of Richard H. Long for governor as well as the other members of the democratic state ticket were held here Saturday night. The first was held at city hall at 8.45 and the others at Tower's corner and Bridge and Paige streets at later intervals.

The speakers at city hall included Sergt. Charles Russell of Boston, an overseas veteran of the 101st regiment; Francis X. Coyne, another Boston veteran, and Hon. Louis R. Sullivan, the only democratic member of the governor's council at the present time. At Tower's corner and Paige street this corps was augmented by James T. Moriarty, a member of the Boston city council.

The speaker's discussed Mr. Long's candidacy from various angles and told of the need of a democratic administration of state affairs. They pleaded for the support of the entire democratic ticket and emphasized the importance of supporting the local candidates for the senate and house of representatives.

William H. Sullivan, secretary of the local Long campaign committee, presided at the rallies. At city hall the first speaker introduced was Sergt. Charles Russell of Boston, who served 23 months overseas with the 101st regiment.

In opening, Sergt. Russell said that Mr. Long had been assailed by Congressman Graham relative to his war contracts and he characterized the congressman's attack as a "piece of eleven hour political trickery." He said that the committee conducting the investigation of Mr. Long's war contracts has proved nothing except that the early contracts did not come up to specifications.

"There is nothing startling about that," said Sergt. Russell, "because we all know that the United States was not prepared for war when she first entered the conflict. Neither were her factories prepared. It took time and energy to equip them properly. This investigating committee has admitted that Mr. Long's work came up to the standard specifications later on in the war."

"Then it has been alleged that Mr. Long made millions of dollars on these war contracts. He had to get some return for the large investments he had made in order to give the government what it wanted. The hearing on the matter today in Washington brought out the fact that Mr. Long did not get any money not due him."

The speaker said that the great big plank in the republican state platform this year is the fact that the party is standing "for law and order." He challenged the republicans to find anything in the democratic platform that did not stand for law and order.

"Mr. Coolidge stands on that one issue which reverts to nothing else but the policeman's strike in Boston. As a member of the 101st Infantry, one of the first volunteer units to leave these shores to go overseas in the world war, I refute the charge that members of the policeman's union of Boston, many of whom saw service at Chemin des Dames, the Argonne and other noted battles, are traitors and deserters."

"Mr. Coolidge has been preaching law and order. But Mr. Coolidge was not too old to shoulder a gun at the time of the Spanish-American war. He stood back then when he might have gone out and actively held up his celebrated principles of 'law and order.' As a soldier of 23 months' overseas experience, I refute the charge that veterans of the world war who went through hell overseas for you are traitors. Such a statement is an insult to your intelligence."

In appealing for the support of the rest of the democratic ticket Sergt. Russell brought out the fact that the democrats warmly endorsed Col. John F. J. Herbert when he became a candidate for lieutenant governor and contrasted this action with that of the republicans who rejected Col. Frank S. Perkins when he sought to run for state treasurer on the republican ticket.

"That shows the calibre of the republican party," he said. "Unless you're on the inside, you get nothing."

Francis X. Coyne, a veteran of 17 months' overseas service, made a strong plea for the democratic ticket and paid a warm tribute to Hon. John T. Sparks, Owen E. Brennan, Charles H. Storey and other local candidates for state office. He urged solid support for them on election day.

Hon. Louis R. Sullivan, the only democratic member of the present governor's council, was the final speaker. He decelerated the present probation system of the state which allows tobacco growers in Connecticut to employ boys from the Lyman school at $2.50 a week and enables residents of the Back Bay in Boston to have the services of girls from Sherburne at the same price.

"Do you know," he asked, "that we have a Normal school in this state where there are 20 pupils and 25 teachers and that it costs the state $975 per head to graduate this class? Do you know that it cost the state $35,000 last year to graduate six children from an Essex county school?"

Governor Coolidge is supposed to visit the state institutions once every but since I've been in the council I haven't seen him doing any visiting." Mr. Sullivan also appealed for support of the rest of the ticket, saying that Col. Herbert especially was worthy of support for the wonderful treatment he had given the men who served under him in France. At Tower's corner these speakers presented their case again and they were augmented by James T. Moriarty of the Boston city council, who made a plea for united support of the democratic ticket. All these speakers were present at the Paige street rally later in the evening.

At Tower's corner several members of the Boston Policemen's union addressed the crowd, but they did not help Mr. Long's cause although favoring his election.

HERE FOR CONFERENCE

Labor Leaders From Many Nations, Including Germany and Austria Meet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Labor leaders of many nations, practically all of them accredited delegates to the international labor conference which will convene Wednesday, were gathered here today when the International Federation of Trade Unions opened its first conference since its organization at Amsterdam last July out of the ruins of the old "International."

Delegates from both Germany and Austria were among those expected to attend. The supreme council having approved their coming following a protest by the Amsterdam conference against their exclusion. Whether or not these delegates will participate in the official conference, however, depends upon the vote of the accredited delegates to the conference after they convene. Labor leaders said they expected the German and Austrian delegates would be invited to participate. Whether the federation conference would offer any recommendation to the official conference on this point, was not known.

Leon Jouhaux, general secretary of the French general federation of labor, was expected to be chosen presiding officer of the federation conference. Among those attending is J. Oudogeest, president of the Dutch Federation of Labor, who was secretary of the old "International" during the war.

KEEPING STEP WITH OLD FATHER TIME

Seems kinda strange to be back in step with Old Father Time again, doesn't it? But that's what happened when we turned back the hands of friend clock Saturday night. Probabilities are there won't be any more daylight saving in the future. Some folks seem rather peeved about this; personally we're more interested in having some one save us a little sugar now and then.

Lots of arguments about it in town Saturday—turning back the clocks, we mean. Barber that was playing hide and seek with our face was arguing on of high cost of living. Patrons wouldn't stand for it. Insisted that he explain the whys and wherefores of this daylight saving thing.

Barber refused point blank. Said he'd argue about anything else, though. Even offered to tell what happened to the G.O.P. Customers wouldn't listen to him, saying they preferred hearing some live topic discussed.

Fellow came in to have his mustache trimmed. Turning back the clocks was a great idea, he'd tell the world. Going to make a hit with his girl's dad tonight, he said.

Customers wanted to know how. Fellow explained that he was going to save pa from turning back the clock by doing it himself. Customers told him to be sure and drop in again some time in the future and tell them how pa liked it. Said they'd call him up at the hospital if he couldn't come himself.

One bird said he wasn't gonna set his alarm clock back an hour. Nobody bit, so finally he added that he'd been waiting a long time to give friend clock the royal razz, and tomorrow morning was the time he'd set for the event.

Barber broke in here to say that he's got a cousin whose been wearing the ball and chain for quite some stretch. Went into detail for the benefit of "those present" and explained that friend cousin had been given the aforesaid vacation from the cares and strife of modern life for failing to turn in regular weekly payments to his wife.

Cousin's alibi had been that said spouse was too kosh-darn handy with a rolling pin.

Finally got around to say that this changing the clocks was tough on the cousin who'd have to do that hour all over again now. And where his cousin was, the barber volunteered, an hour was a long, long time.

Churches ought to be well-filled tomorrow, one customer thought. People who forgot to change their clocks would be in church on time. Ought to make a great hit with the clergymen, he said.

Barber said it would seem odd not to hear the trains shuffling past the railroad station for an hour after 2 a. m. Some one asked him why he didn't move away from the station if he didn't appreciate the music of the big eight-wheelers.

Barber asked him if he knew of any houses to let in the city. That stopped him.

One jazz boy said he was glad there wasn't going to be any daylight saving next year. Dust couldn't come any too quick for him. Always preferred to spoon in the dark he said. Wouldn't tell the bunch how he got that way. Barber said it's a gift.

Queer how a barber likes to argue, isn't it? Trying to explain to us today why eggs are $1.05 a dozen. Maybe tomorrow he'll tell us where all the sugar is. But he's a pretty good fellow after all.

Further Investigation of Alleged Irregularities Begun Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Further investigation of irregularities in the army air service reported on at President Wilson's request by Charles E. Hughes, was begun here today by a special congressional sub-committee on investigation of war expenditures consisting of Representatives Frenar, Wisconsin; Magee, New York, and Lea, California.

Members of the sub-committee said the chief matters on which testimony would be taken were the exonerations by Secretary of War Baker of Colonel E. A. Deeds, of Dayton, Ohio, whom Mr. Hughes recommended be court-martialed and the construction at an expense of $4,000,000 of a railroad in the state of Washington for the purpose of hauling spruce for aircraft production.

Among the witnesses summoned were John D. Ryan, formerly head of the aircraft board; Philip Fiske of Harvey, Fiske & Sons, and officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad and others.

airship in the world, now under construction in England, is expected, it was stated at the department today. Two and a half million dollars were appropriated by congress for the purchase of their ship and for the training of the pilots.

"The success," said the statement, "of the British in building and operating rigid airships, is proved by the trip of the R-34 to the United States and its return to England. While the Germans had many years start on the British, the latter have made a wonderful progress in the past few years."

The R-35 is 691 feet in length, 56 feet will look like the R-34, but her dimensions, horse power, speed and radius of action will be much greater. When full of gas she will have a 2,724,000 cubic feet capacity, which is 13 times that of the C-3, the United States naval dirigible that blew to sea and was lost last spring at Newfoundland. Just after a record flight from Cape May and on the eve of an attempt to cross the Atlantic.

The R-35 is 691 feet in length, 56 feet in diameter, 93 feet 5 inches high and carries a useful load of 45 tons. She is expected to have a maximum speed of 60 knots.

The British air ministry has offered to train the personnel for the R-33 so that upon delivery the airship can be taken over immediately by an American crew and be flown to the United States.
